BUSINESS PUTS FULL STRENGTH BEHIND JUBILEE

Acclaim Celebration as Booming City.

CHICAGO JUBILEE.

The Chicago Tribune Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, telephone Superior 0100, will supply all information to those planning to participate in the Chicago Jubilee May 11.

The mass response of Chicago business men to the rapidly moving Chicago Jubilee was exemplified yesterday in dozens of expressive statements, including many from the city's leading commercial executives. These comments, all declaring for the Jubilee, will be found on page 7 of this issue of THE TRIBUNE, to which page this article is continued.

Similar statements emanated from others not associated with the business sphere. One was from United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

Motorists Flock to Jubilee.

One of the outstanding pledges of cooperation and support came yesterday from Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, who sent word from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., that his association would give its backing to the Jubilee. He and his board of directors were invited to attend the celebration by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, and first vice president of the American Automobile association.

"This Chicago Jubilee is one of the greatest things ever promoted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE," said Mr. Henry over long distance telephone. "The motoring public will want to take part in the celebration.

Clubs to Spread Word.

"I have advised the association of the Chicago Jubilee, and all the Three A clubs will carry the message to their members all over the United States. They will tell them what's going on in Chicago, and will assist in routing traffic to Chicago and the Jubilee."

The action of Mr. Henry means, according to President Hayes of the Chicago club and others, that scores of thousands of out of town folk will drive to Chicago. It will mean the end of the unfounded yet existent fear of thousands who remained away from the city during previous régimes. It will insure income of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the commercial institutions, to places of entertainment, and hotels.

Elaborate Cermak Inaugural.

Two other important developments took place yesterday. One was an invitation from Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, to Gen. Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to the court of St. James's, to participate in the Chicago Jubilee. The other was the elaboration of plans for the formal inauguration of Mayor Anton J. Cermak.

Originally it was planned to swear Mayor Cermak into office next Monday. Because of widespread demands that the inauguration be made public, instead of semi-private in the council chambers, it was virtually decided to hold the induction outdoors, at La Salle and Randolph streets. However, advisers of Mayor Cermak felt this simple ceremony was inadequate for the purpose of the Chicago Jubilee.

Mayor Cermak himself, it was intimated, was anxious to aid this thought. He is enthusiastically for the Jubilee and has ordered his cabinet heads to push the project to the limit. With this theme in mind, the mayor's advisers decided to hold the induction in the council chambers as planned, next Monday.

First Official Message.

The ceremony will be simple, however. The real import of the occasion will be Thursday night, May 14, outdoors and tentatively at La Salle and Randolph streets. At that time Mayor Cermak will deliver his first official message.

"There is real importance attached to Mayor Cermak's inaugural address," observed Corporation Counsel Busch and Henry Bonnenschein, the mayor's secretary. "It will be more important than the ceremony of induction. It will be a guiding beacon to business and to sound keeping with the spirit of the Chicago Jubilee."

In the preceding days hundreds of cities of participation in the Chicago Jubilee or inquiries towards that end were received. In addition Ald. William A. Rosenberg [10th] at a council meeting on April introduced a resolution praising the Chicago Jubilee. The resolution

Banks Reveal 12 Captains' Wealth

ONE OFFICER'S $100,000 DEALS DUG UP FOR JURY

Relatives' Accounts Under Scrutiny.

The financial affairs of seventeen police captains, revealed to the special grand jury yesterday, brought the announcement that twelve captains are to undergo close examination as to their resources, with the name of Capt. Dennis M. Malloy of the East Side district heading the list.

Capt. Malloy had transactions with at least nine banks, it was learned, depositing, borrowing, disposing of a subdivision he had purchased, buying and selling apartment buildings, and establishing trust funds.

In the afternoon it was announced by J. A. Farmar, foreman of the grand jury which is investigating charges of police graft, that "one captain had financial transactions amounting to more than $100,000." This statement was found to refer to Capt. Malloy, and then came other reports that Malloy's financial accounts amounted to $300,000.

Reports Name 11 Others.

The other eleven captains whose bank accounts attracted more than passing attention of the investigators were said to be Michael Grady, Michael Lee, Paul Wheeler, Daniel Lynch, Joseph Goldberg, Hugh McCarthy, Alfred Christensen, Martin Mullen, James Mooney, Thomas Pilkington and James Fleming. The inquiry does not necessarily mean that these men are culpable; only under investigation.

Malloy is a veteran of the department and has been a captain since 1918. He is also a lawyer. He was off the force from 1921 to 1924 after an accusation involving the theft of a truckload of beer, and during that time he practiced law and engaged in the real estate business. He was regarded then as a wealthy man. He was one of the six captains indicted in the slot machine conspiracy case which collapsed when it came to trial, due to the refusal of the state's chief witness to testify.

Jury to Call Captains.

The special grand jurors declared themselves interested in Malloy's affairs and said he would be called upon for an explanation of his finances. The other captains are also to be given the opportunity of clearing up any doubts the jury may have regarding their transactions.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, speaking of the day's examination of the accounts of the twelve captains, characterized as "abnormal" the deposits made by the district commanders.

According to the prosecutor, the records of 150 banks have been examined in the quest for accounts of the twelve captains and five other police commanders for whose banking records subpœnas duces tecum were issued by the grand jury. Subpœnas for the accounts of the 35 other captains in the department are to be issued later.

Find Relatives' Accounts.

The subpœnas require the banks to produce also any accounts in the names of near relatives of the seventeen captains. So far, it was understood, the jury has found an account believed to be that of the wife of Capt. Grady. This account was said to have received close scrutiny.

One bank furnished an account with the statement that it was believed to be that of the mother of a police captain. It contained many large deposits.

Bank officials responding to the subpœnas declared that the federal government had obtained statements of the accounts of Captains Grady and Wheeler. From the grand jury room came the statement that it was believed the state had obtained records of Capt. Grady's finances that the government had not found.

Wider Inquiry Indicated.

The jurors indicated that they may not confine themselves to Chicago banks, but may even go outside of the city and state in search of secret accounts of various officials. The inquiry may even spread, it was indicated, to an examination of the accounts of the law enforcement officials in the county and city who are not connected with the Chicago police department. This would include the independent park district forces, the county highway police, and the suburban police forces.

But running away after hitting a pedestrian is no accident. It is intentional as well as heartless and cowardly and the driver should be punished to the full extent of the law.

CIGARET AND CIGAR TAXES PROPOSED BY ILLINOIS OFFICIALS

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—A committee of legislators and state officers seeking funds for the empty treasury of Illinois asked this afternoon that bills be prepared which would provide new sources of revenue for the state. The bills would provide for the following new law and taxes:

1. The imposition of a one mill tax on cigarets and of ten per cent of the purchase price of cigars and smoking tobacco.

2. The levying of a two cent tax per share on transferred stock.

3. The abolition of tax on capital stock and substitution of a three cent levy on the net profits of corporations.

All this would bring in more than $31,000,000 annually, the committee was told by former State Senator Herbert S. Hicks, now chief clerk of the Illinois tax commission, who was a witness late today.

Cigaret Tax Bill Signed.

Austin, Tex., April 22.—(AP)—Gov. Ross Sterling today signed a bill levying a tax of three cents a package on cigarets. Proponents estimated it would raise about five million dollars annually.

Surgeon Does Caesarean Operation on Own Wife

Los Angeles, Cal., April 22.—[Special.]—Dr. R. N. Jenkins, chief surgeon at Angelus hospital, performed a Cesarean operation upon his own wife, and as a result of his skill and stoicism, today is father of a stout baby boy, with Mrs. Jenkins rapidly winning her way back to health. The operation was performed three days ago, but news of it was not made public until today, when it became certain that both mother and baby were getting along splendidly. Mrs. Jenkins herself chose to have the operation performed by her own husband.

World War Flyer Killed as Glider Falls 200 Feet

San José, Cal., April 22.—(AP)—Phil Longyear, 24, Berkeley, Ca., a world war pilot, was killed when his glider fell 200 feet here today. Longyear was piloting a Bowlus sail plane in which he was attempting to set a duration record. He had been aloft an hour and 10 minutes. Spectators saw his rudder suddenly fail and a moment later the aileron of the right wing dropped off. An unusually strong wind prevailed here today and it was presumed the wind proved too strong for his craft.

Voliva at 61 Plans to Live Until He's 106

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion, declared to an audience of 1,500 in the Zion tabernacle last night that he had made a will transmitting all the property of the theocracy, valued at between seven and eight million dollars, to a successor whom he would name formally in July.

After the meeting he disclosed that his successor will be Apostle W. J. Mintern, a member of the Zion colony for twenty-two years and a business and religious leader of considerable force.

"He can fill my shoes," was Voliva's recommendation.

"Will Not Die Until 1976."

The overseer, probably the most prominent American or European upholding the theory that the world is flat, asserted that this speech was the most important of his career and the most important in the history of Zion. His public appearance was his first in about three weeks. He denied reports that he was ill or had been ill.

"The newspapers called me the other day and asked if it were true that I was dying," he said. "I shall not die until 1976. My only hurt was a scalded foot, suffered in a bath. I was a silly fool to scald myself, and I will never go near a bathtub again as long as I live."

Voliva is now 61 years old. In 1976 he would be 106 years old.

It was also disclosed by Voliva that all the business interests of Zion, which employ 1,200 persons and control three-fifths of the wealth of the city at the northern end of Lake county, had been placed in corporate form. Articles of incorporation were filed under the state laws of Delaware during the afternoon.

Capital Set at 5 Million.

Capital is to be $5,000,000. A stock issue of $2,000,000 worth of preferred stock of $100 par value is to be sold. Voliva said, with the residents of Zion getting the first chance to buy it. All the common stock, except those shares needed to qualify directors, will remain in his name until his death and will then go to Mintern as his sole heir.

The properties owned and operated include a bakery, a large candy factory, a printing establishment, a curtain factory, a creamery, garages, department stores, real estate, and oil and gasoline stations.

In describing his stewardship, Voliva told his hearers that all the profits so far made had been kept in the business, which he said started from nothing twenty-five years ago. He added that he was taking all these early precautions to make sure that outsiders would be unable under any circumstances to break up the Zion organization.

Plans Missionary Drive.

Also, he recalled that in a theocracy the sheep are all subservient to the shepherd, and he demanded that his choice of a successor be approved without discussion or opposition.

His present plans are to turn over the active management of affairs to Apostle Mintern in the summer and to devote his own efforts to evangelistic work on a world-wide scale. He will preach in all the capitals of the world, he said, and will direct a group of missions which are to be spread in all countries.

Apostle Mintern, who has acted as overseer in Voliva's absences, is vice president of the new corporation.

Runs for Mayor to Fire Police Chief; Wins, Fires

Loveland, Col., April 2.—Police Chief Arch Owen lost his job today. He was fired by the newly elected mayor, Elmer Ivers. Ivers was arrested by Chief Owen a year ago for a traffic violation. He protested the charge unfair, and said he would become mayor just to oust Owen. He waged a successful mayoralty campaign and today made good his threat.

Bandits Seize Loot in Auto on Gold Coast

Surprising Mrs. Clair E. More and Mrs. Horace L. Hayward, society women, in their automobile in front of Mrs. More's home at 227 East Delaware place, two bandits late last night stripped them of jewelry valued at approximately $13,200.

The holdup was perpetrated in the heart of the gold coast, scene of several recent sensational robberies.

Mrs. More is the widow of an attorney, and Mrs. Hayward is the wife of the president-treasurer of the Americana corporation, publishers of encyclopedias.

Returning from Theater.

The women were returning to their homes from the Harris theater in Mrs. Hayward's automobile, driven by Sven Hanson, 356 Garfield avenue, chauffeur. Mrs. Hayward lives at 229 Lake Shore drive.

As the limousine drew up in front of Mrs. More's apartment home two men sprang out of a small coupe which was parked just ahead. Both flashed revolvers. One covered Hanson. The other stepped into the rear of the car and leveled his pistol at Mrs. Hayward and Mrs. More.

"This is just a robbery, so don't get excited," he warned. He ordered Mrs. More to take off her jewelry. She hesitated a moment, and he grabbed at her wrists.

"Come on, don't be so slow," he shouted. Despite Mrs. More's remonstrance, he yanked two bracelets from her wrists.

Tears Off Woman's Bracelet.

The gunman next turned to Mrs. Hayward, who sat nervously awaiting her turn. He hardly bothered to command her to give him her jewelry. He helped her loosen a six carat diamond solitaire ring valued at $5,000, and a platinum wedding ring set with diamonds valued at $700.

Mrs. Hayward was slow in parting with her gems, and the robber savagely tore off a platinum bracelet set with fifteen diamonds, which cost $3,000. The setting broke, and the stones dropped on the floor. The bandit picked them up leisurely, and completed the crime by taking a platinum bracelet valued at $1,500.

Chauffeur Notifies Police.

The gunman turned to his companion, and then issued a final warning to his victims not to notify police immediately. The two drove away west in Delaware place. Hanson, powerless to resist the robbery, hurried to the Chicago avenue station, where he notified Sergt. John Quinn.

Lieut. George De Mar and a squad raced to the More apartment, obtained a description of the bandits and their car, and started a search for them. They were unable to learn a definite value on Mrs. More's loss, but estimated it at about $3,000. The More jewelry had been in the family for more than 100 years.

Kidnaped and Robbed.

Attorney and Mrs. Samuel E. Hirsch, 5000 East End avenue, were kidnaped in their own car by three armed men in front of the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore drive, late last night. They were driven into Jackson park and robbed of $140 and jewelry valued at $1,050. The bandits gave the Hirschs $3 for car fare and drove away in their car after telling them they would leave the machine at 63d street and Stony Island avenue. The car was found there later.

A pair of bandits held up two couples last night in front of 5433 Winthrop avenue, home of one of the victims, and robbed them of $115 and two rings which cost $450. The victims are William Vihon of the Winthrop avenue address; Louis Bayers, 1514 South Turner avenue; Vivian Wells, 4548 Knox avenue, and Grace Whittington, 1054 Thorndale avenue.

NEW REPUBLIC RECOGNIZED BY UNITED STATES

Action on Spain Day After Britain's.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 22.—[Special.]—The United States extended recognition to the provisional government of Spain today. Shortly before noon Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson announced that he had instructed the American ambassador to Spain Irwin B. Laughlin, to advise the Republican government of recognition by Washington and that the instructions had been carried out.

AMBASSADOR IRWIN B. LAUGHLIN. [A. P. Photo.]

The recognition of the republic by the British government yesterday cleared the way for similar action by the United States, inasmuch as it is the policy of the Hoover administration to follow the lead of Great Britain with reference to the recognition of new governments in Europe.

Speed Urged by Spain.

The action of both Great Britain and the United States is understood to have been hastened by the consideration that a general recognition of the new government by the great powers will tend to strengthen it at home and enable it to maintain order. This is the argument advanced by the Zamora government, which for several days has been pleading with the United States and other powers for prompt recognition. According to the Madrid government, royalist and Roman Catholic influences were being exerted to prevent or delay recognition by the powers.

Although Ambassador Laughlin is to continue at Madrid for the time being, his permanent retention there will depend upon his acceptability to the republican government.

Criticized by Newspapers.

The ambassador, who is a Pittsburgh steel millionaire, has been at no pains to conceal a low opinion of the republicans forming the new government. His alleged remarks disparaging the Zamora ministers got into print in Madrid. Under the title, "Another Man Who Is Undesirable in Spain," El Crisol, a Madrid newspaper, published the following:

"We know of the concrete case of the representative of a large republic, not European, who has thought it opportune to manifest his hostility toward the new republican régime with disparaging phrases, and who, on looking at a photograph showing members of the provisional government, said: 'It strikes me like a gallery of jailbirds.' He added that he was glad that the building of his embassy was surrounded by a high railing as defense against the possible entrance of a bolshevik mob.

Advised to Go Home.

"We advise this person to get spontaneously away from these 'jailbirds' and to return to the suburbs of Pittsburgh, leaving somebody here in his place more capable of filling the post in which he has demonstrated sufficiently his ineptitude."

This attack upon Ambassador Laughlin has proved exceedingly distressing to the administration, which is uninformed as to whether Mr. Laughlin was guilty of the remarks ascribed to him, but is disposed to regard him innocent and to disregard the publication. The state department was heartened by the news that President Zamora had rebuked the Madrid newspaper for the publication and apologized to Mr. Laughlin and other diplomats offended by the Spanish press since the fall of the monarchy.

Zamora said he had asked the press to refrain from criticizing diplomats, who, he added, have the confidence of the new government and whose acceptability in any event will be judged by the government and not by private citizens.

State Department Uninformed.

The state department has heard nothing of the appointment of Salvador de Madariaga as Spanish ambassador to the United States, which was announced by the Zamora government. It is disposed to overlook as the fault of ignorance the failure to consult Washington on his acceptability. Señor de Madariaga is an internationalist, formerly connected with the league of nations, who has written much in a critical vein of the foreign policies of the United States.

Señor de Madariaga has been a prolific writer, and he has been as frank as he has been prolific. In these writings he has not hesitated to say that the United States policy in Latin-America was one of "stark imperialism" and "considers the whole continent as its prey."

Attacks Monroe Doctrine.

Señor de Madariaga's chief criticisms against the United States have been leveled at the Monroe Doctrine and Latin-American policy. Writing in the Forum of March, 1929, he said:

"By asserting the unilateral character of the Monroe Doctrine, the United States has at one stroke—a stroke of sheer force—beheaded all the South American countries and reduced them to the status of protectorates. It is doubtful whether so far reaching an operation of imperialism has ever before been known in history.

"Cuba, leaving Spain for America, fell from the frying pan into the fire. The Platt amendment was a terrible humiliation to her," Señor de Madariaga says. "Spain remembers how Mr. Roosevelt 'took Panama,' and has duly observed how President Coolidge, with the pact to outlaw war in one hand, is 'taking Nicaragua' with the other. . . . The mechanism of loans, financial advisers, and even naval missions is slowly disintegrating Spanish America."

SPAIN IS NOTIFIED

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 22.—American recognition today of the Spanish republic, coming as it did 13 hours after that of Great Britain and a few hours before that of Germany, Italy and Austria, and days after that of most republics, created no particular sensation.

Ambassador Irwin B. Laughlin called on Alejander Larroux, minister of state, to notify him of Washington's decision this afternoon. According to a statement made by Señor Larroux tonight, Ambassador Laughlin explained that the United States did not want to rush in with recognition ahead of the majority of the big powers, but as soon as it was learned that England had done so, America went ahead and recognized the new republic.

Name Barcelona Governor.

Further progress was made today toward smoothing the situation between the state of Catalonia and the provisional government of Madrid. The civil governor of Barcelona, who was appointed first by Col. Francisco Macia in the name of the Catalan republic, became simply governor of Barcelona in the name of the central authorities of Madrid.

The first hint of bad feelings between the republic and the church thus far appeared today when it was widely rumored that the cardinal archbishop of Toledo, primate of Spain, in a sermon Sunday in the cathedral of Toledo had said:

"May the Spanish republic be cursed and never succeed in consolidating itself."

Francisco de los Rios, minister of justice, said today that he had not been informed officially as to whether this was true. Under the new regulations of the provisional government any member of the clergy caught making political propaganda will be arrested.

Alfonso Shops in London.

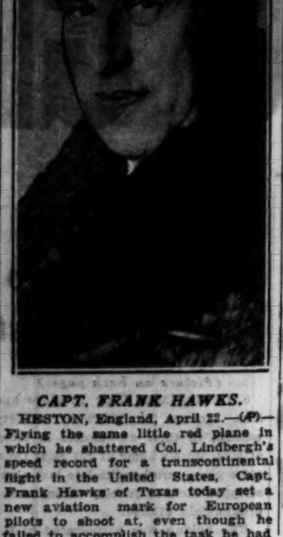
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 22.—Don Alfonso of Toledo spent his first day of exile in London shopping in Bond street and driving about the city before taking up the business of arranging for the naval education of Don Juan, his third son, who is expected here soon.

Up early this morning, Alfonso spent an hour reading newspaper accounts of his arrival. He is living in close seclusion and received only three callers, the Marquis Merry del Val, former ambassador to England, Admiral Beatty and Lord Londonderry.

Crowds besieged his hotel this morning, but there was only one feeble cry of "Viva el Rey" when he left.

BREAKS RECORD



CAPT. FRANK HAWKS.

HESTON, England, April 22.—(AP)—Flying the same little red plane in which he shattered Col. Lindbergh's speed record for a transcontinental flight in the United States, Capt. Frank Hawks of Texas today set a new aviation mark for European pilots to shoot at, even though he failed to accomplish the task he had set for himself.

Leaving here at 6:30 this morning, he arrived in Rome 5 hours and 20 minutes later, but on the return flight he was forced down thirty miles southeast of Orleans, France, by lack of fuel. The plane was undamaged, however, and Capt. Hawks said that he would fly back to England tomorrow.

Capt. Hawks kept a luncheon date with Commander Nello Rengareschi at Rome, but his forced landing prevented him from attending a dinner engagement of the day, a dinner tonight at the London Aero club.

RAID 5 RESORTS ON WEST SIDE AND ARREST 27

Continuing the campaign against vice and liquor flats in the Des Plaines street district ordered recently by the special grand jury, two raiding parties under command of Capt. Richard Gill last night descended on five resorts, seizing twenty-three men and four women and confiscating a quantity of home brew and alcohol.

The squads, in charge of Sergts. John Hannan and William Bergin, gathered at the station at 11 o'clock last night on secret orders and within an hour had visited ten suspicious apartments. Half of them were found to be closed.

Woman Robs Woman of Fur Coat "Like I Lost"

Mrs. Marie F. Nold, 6817 Dorchester avenue, was walking in front of 1443 East 68th street last night when a young woman stepped up to her and grabbed at her fur coat. "I lost a coat just like this!" exclaimed the young woman. Mrs. Nold was about to dispute the claim forcibly when the stranger was joined by a man who held his hand in his pocket as though he clasped a gun. The young woman got Mrs. Nold's coat.

29 KNOWN SLAIN IN HONDURAS AS ARMIES BATTLE

Rebels Suffer Heavily in Several Skirmishes.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 22.—(AP)—At least 29 persons were killed and many others wounded in sharp skirmishes between the rebels and Honduran regular troops in several places on the northern coast last night.

The dead included Col. Salvador Canales, one of the rebel leaders. The government troops lost 3 dead and the rebels 26, according to casualty lists reported to the capital.

A rebel detachment commanded by Col. Canales was attacked by federal troops at Guaymas, about five miles from Tela. The government troops were led by Col. Oscar Mungufa. They defeated the rebels after two hours' fighting. Thirteen rebels besides Col. Canales were killed, several wounded and some prisoners were taken, including Capt. Rodolfo Montes.

Three Loyal Soldiers Slain.

The government troops lost three dead in the battle, including Capt. Constantino Urbina. A few regulars were wounded. The remainder of the rebel group disappeared, pursued by government troops.

A rebel group attempted an attack on Olanchito, but government troops under Col. Luis Alonzo Lopez anticipated the attack and routed the rebels after a short skirmish. The rebels left twelve dead and some baggage behind them, including a rubber overcoat on which were initials indicating that it belonged to Gen. Arturo Ordones, rebel commander.

Many casualities resulted from a three hour fight when rebel forces attacked Chamelecon, on the national railroad line near San Pedro Sula.

Attack Is Repelled.

Government troops repelled the attack and forced the insurgents to withdraw. The loyalists were commanded in the battle by Col. Alfredo Reina, Col. David Tablada, Col. Juan Castillo, and Col. Carlos Andino.

Fighting continued today around Chamelecon. The government troops were holding the rebels and reinforcements were on the way to aid them. It was impossible to estimate the casualties.

Telegraph and telephone communication and motor traffic between Tegucigalpa and the north Honduran coast were cut off tonight and the only means of communication with the revolt area were airplane, cable, and wireless.

Government circles were informed that it had been definitely established that Gen. Gregorio Ferrera is in supreme command of the revolutionary forces.

A central general staff was organized here today to supervise operations of the government troops. Red Cross representatives have been sent to the Curtes region.

Stimson Hears All Is Quiet.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—(AP)—What Secretary of State Stimson called a "quieting situation in Honduras and continued quiet in Nicaragua" was reported to the government today by commanders of its warships along the recently disturbed coasts of the two Central American countries.

Nicaragua Is Peaceful.

Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, aboard his flagship, the cruiser Rochester, reported he had visited Cape Gracias a Dios, at the northern end of the Nicaraguan coast, and found all quiet, although there was some fear of a repetition of the recent raid on the port. Bluefields and Puerto Cabezas were peaceful.

Col. F. L. Bradman, commanding the marine brigade at Managua, transmitted reports of two recent brushes between Nicaraguan guard detachments and insurgent bands in the eastern district, in which five insurgents were killed without loss to the guard.

SCHOOLS SHIFT FUNDS TO ABSORB DEFICIT FOR FREE LUNCHES

Lewis E. Myers, president of the board of education, yesterday was authorized by the board to use $4,500 from the president's contingent fund to help make up the deficit of $6,600 in the fund for free lunches for undernourished children. President Myers expressed the hope that the governor's commission on unemployment and relief would provide the rest of the money needed to continue the lunches for the remainder of this school year and through the summer.

The board of education yesterday adopted a resolution endorsing a bill now pending at Springfield which would make it illegal for children under the age of 16 to be admitted to theaters where crime pictures are being shown. The bill was introduced by Representative James J. McVicker and is sponsored by numerous women's organizations.

FIND YACHTSMAN DEAD AFTER LONG SEARCH ON LAKE

Chicagoan's Lone Voyage Ends in Tragedy.

A three day search of lower Lake Michigan, in which cutters from five coast guard stations were aided by a chartered plane, ended late yesterday with the finding of the body of William E. Kegg, 31 years old, an amateur yachtsman, who had been adrift since midnight Saturday in his 20 foot sport sloop, The Fiddler of South Haven. Kegg, who resided at 1441 Lunt avenue, had set sail from South Haven at that hour to cross the stormy waters of the lake to Chicago.

With gunwales awash, the sloop was sighted ten miles north of South Chicago and seven miles east of harbor light by the crew of the coal freighter J. J. Sullivan of Cleveland, inbound from Sandusky, O. The body, strapped in a life preserver, was afloat over one gunwale.

Roommate Identifies Body.

Capt. Siever Nelson of the freighter turned the body over to the South Chicago coast guard, where it was identified as that of Kegg by his roommate, Phineas Walker. It was indicated by Walker that the body will be taken back to Mansfield, O., for burial as soon as W. H. G. Kegg, father of the dead man, arrives this morning.

Kegg, a Purdue university engineering graduate, had been employed as a safety inspector for the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company for five years. On Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Walker and another roommate, Edward Middleton, Kegg drove to the loop and purchased a compass and some other nautical gear. He told them of his purchase of the sloop and said he intended to sail it back from South Haven.

In Dock All Winter.

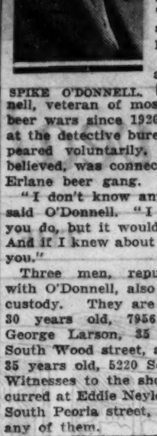
The sloop, an open boat with a small auxiliary engine, had been in dry dock all winter.

Kegg cast off alone, taking no gasoline for the motor and with only one oar.

When Kegg did not appear at his office Monday morning, W. R. Mengelberg, head of the underwriting department, notified coast guard stations and the search was started.

AUTO OF KILLERS FOUND; QUESTION SPIKE O'DONNELL

The police last night reported that the large green sedan which had been used in the escape of the men who shot and killed Edward Fitzgerald, 7856 South Union avenue in front of a south side saloon on Tuesday night had been found abandoned in front of 7007 Stewart avenue. The car will be subjected to finger print tests.



SPIKE O'DONNELL.

During the afternoon Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, veteran of most of the Chicago beer wars since 1920, was questioned at the detective bureau, where he appeared voluntarily, Fitzgerald, it is believed, was connected with the McErlane beer gang.

"I don't know anything about it," said O'Donnell. "I can theorize as you do, but it wouldn't do any good. And if I knew about it I wouldn't tell you."

Three men, reputedly connected with O'Donnell, also were taken into custody. They are Thomas Larkin, 30 years old, 7956 Loomis street; George Larson, 35 years old, 7921 South Wood street, and John Adams, 35 years old, 5220 South May street. Witnesses to the shooting, which occurred at Eddie Neylon's place at 7358 South Peoria street, failed to identify any of them.

URGE SENTENCES OF 100 YEARS AS ARSON CASE ENDS

Victims' Father Opposed to Death Penalty.

Jacob Tatelman, Roosevelt road restaurant owner and alleged incendiary, and Harry Goldvarg, who had his barber shop at 2649 North Kedzie avenue, burned last December so that he might collect $2,800 in insurance, yesterday heard the state demand that they be sent to prison for 100 years each. The two are charged with murder. Assistant State's Attorney Mal Z. Coghlan in his closing plea to Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday afternoon made the demand for the long prison terms. The incendiary fire caused the deaths of two small children. The case is being tried without a jury.

The two prosecutors in the case did not agree on their demand for punishment, but the change of the state in not asking for the death penalty was explained by the attitude of Isadore Tatelman, the father of the two children. Although wanting the men incarcerated for such a period as will assure them of never again being at liberty, the father is averse to the penalty of death, it was said.

Other Prosecutor Demands Death.

Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Ortelli, in the first plea for the state, had demanded the death penalty in an impassioned plea which caused many in the courtroom to weep.

"These two men should burn just as those two little helpless children burned to death," said Prosecutor Ortelli. "Think of the loss of the mother. They were the only two children she had."

Between the speeches of the prosecutors the two defense attorneys had spoken for clemency. Tatelman pleaded not guilty to the charge and did not take the witness stand. Goldvarg, although pleading not guilty, took the witness stand and admitted that he had paid $150 to have his place set on fire.

Admits Client Is Guilty.

Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, appearing for Goldvarg, took the unusual position for a defense counsel of admitting his client to the guilty of arson. He said the state had proved arson beyond a doubt.

"My duty as public defender does not mean that I have to stand before the court and ask that a guilty man go free or that he be allowed to escape just punishment," he said. "My theory of this case is that the crime is manslaughter."

"Any twelve men in this community would sign a death verdict within five minutes," said Prosecutor Ortelli in his reply speech.

"To my mind only one thing can fit this case out of the class deserving the death penalty. That is that the defendants did not direct their felonious act toward killing these innocent children. I ask your honor to put yourself in the position of the father of these children when she awakened early in the morning to find her children burning up. I ask that the defendants be put behind the prison walls for 100 years to assure the community that they will never again be free."

Judge Sabath said that he would impose sentence on May 5 on Goldvarg and Tatelman. He will hear the testimony in mitigation in the case of Jack Rosow, who pleaded guilty, this morning.

PLAGIARISM SUIT WON BY O'NEILL; LOSER MUST PAY

Miss Lewys Assessed Attorney's Fees.

New York, April 22.—[Special.]—For the first time in the history of major plagiarism suits, it is believed, the losing plaintiff was assessed for full costs to the defendants when Federal Judge John M. Woolsey today dismissed the action of Miss Georges S. Lewys against Eugene O'Neill and others in connection with O'Neill's play, "Strange Interlude," and ordered Miss Lewys to pay a total of $17,500 attorneys' fees for the defendants.

Asked for $2,000,000.

She brought suit for damages amounting to about $2,000,000 against O'Neill, Boni & Liveright, and Horace Liveright, who published the book, and the Theater Guild, which produced the play, seeking to restrain them from producing the play and from publishing and distributing the book without giving to her a share of the profits. She claimed that "Strange Interlude" was a "steal" from her book "The Temple of Pallas-Athenæ," written in 1917 and copyrighted in 1924. Mr. O'Neill copyrighted "Strange Interlude" in February, 1928.

Judge Woolsey awarded $7,500 counsel fees to Mr. O'Neill, $5,000 to Boni & Liveright and Horace Liveright, and $5,000 to the Theater Guild.

His 20,000 word opinion dismissing the suit contained a stinging rebuke to persons who "annoy the courts" by bringing unfounded suits for plagiarism.

In regard to the "Strange Interlude" suit, Judge Woolsey said:

"The impression made on me throughout by the examination of the plaintiff was that she had become so obsessed with the idea that Mr. O'Neill had dramatized the plot of her book that when challenged she would seek every possible means to bolster up her case, even to the extent of attempting recklessly to deny the authorship of letters or papers which she had written."

Suppress Poster

A poster depicting a co-ed clad in a barrel and carrying the caption "Something Is Going to Come Off," designed to advertise the Northwestern university circus, was ordered suppressed yesterday by the university's dean of women, Florence Robnett. Her explanation was that such an advertisement was not suitable to academic dignity. About 200 copies, which had been distributed in Evanston, were recalled. Al Moore, the artist, who is a football star, defended the drawing on the ground that it was pretty and it was art.

SWINDLE GROCER OF $37,000 IN FAKE STOCK DEAL

Pleasant Strangers Let Him In on Market.

Matthias Reinert, 75 years old, wealthy retired grocer, was swindled of $20,000 in cash and $17,000 in Liberty bonds last Saturday by three pleasant strangers who had offered to show him how to make a fortune in the stock market.

Reinert, who lives at 7424 Ellwood avenue, had been accustomed until recently to going several times a year to West Baden or French Lick Springs for baths. But he found that poker games at this place sometimes cost him $100.

Enter a Pleasant Stranger.

Seeking a quieter place, he went to the springs at Martinsville, Ind. There he met the first of the pleasant strangers, who said he was J. A. Kirk. At Kirk's invitation he started back to Chicago in the big, shiny Kirk automobile.

As they drove last Friday through the center of Indianapolis, Kirk suddenly stopped the car.

"There's G. E. Mayo," he exclaimed. "He's the man that made millions in Mexican oil. There must be something big going on."

Reinert accompanying him, Kirk got out and approached Mr. Mayo. The latter at first denied that he had ever met Mr. Kirk. But when Mr. Kirk insisted that he could never forget him he reluctantly admitted his identity as one of the biggest stock market manipulators.

The Stock Deals Start.

The trio went to a hotel room. There Mr. Mayo gave out his market information. Messrs. Kirk and Reinert put up $200 apiece to start. A broker dashed in and out to take their orders. The first transaction, according to Kirk, resulted in $1,400 profit and the second in a $4,500 gain.

Mr. Mayo then decided to quit piking. He gave a big order and the broker came back to announce that the trio had $300,000 profit. He insisted, however, that the winners must demonstrate that they could have paid off if they had lost. Kirk and Mayo, counting their assets, found they were $37,000 short. Reinert came to Chicago and got the money and bonds.

He turned them over to the swindlers in a hotel in Gary. There was another transaction in the stock market, but this one, Mr. Mayo said, had wiped them out.

The pair told Reinert to get $50,000 and meet them in Toledo yesterday. Reinert kept the rendezvous, but he had with him Lieut. William McCarthy of the Chicago detective bureau. His friends didn't meet him.

U. S. TO KEEP EYE ON MURRAY WHEN HE QUITS PRISON

Looks Into His $30,000 Hot Dog Project.

Relatives and friends of James Murray are reported uneasy because the government intends to keep him under scrutiny when he is released from Atlanta penitentiary on parole. He will get out on May 26, after having served a little more than five years for his part in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery of 1924. Murray's 25 year sentence was commuted to 12 years when he returned $345,500 of the bonds stolen in the robbery.

Mrs. Murray was informed by William A. McGrath, chief federal probation officer at Chicago, that her husband, a former beer hustler and political dabbler, must not return to his old pursuits.

Will Run Hot Dog Stand.

"My husband is going to operate a hot dog stand," said Mrs. Murray. "I am going to back him."

Mrs. Murray appeared to think Mr. McGrath a bit harsh when he suggested that a hot dog stand might be used as a blind for a bootlegging business, it was said.

Yesterday Murray's brother, John, a captain in the fire department, told Mr. McGrath that the hot dog stand would be no ordinary affair, and that the present plans called for the retailing of barbecued sandwiches and the like as well as red hots.

"It will be a restaurant stand, at Harlem and North avenues," said Capt. Murray. "Furthermore, Frank M. Hayes, who is the real estate partner of Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the finance committee of the city council, will be Jimmy's partner."

Mr. McGrath asked whether there would be music and dancing, and made it plain that no roadhouse or cabaret would be tolerated.

Then Mr. McGrath called Mr. Hayes for a description of the hot dog stand.

"It is a $20,000 venture," said Mr. Hayes, "and it will be the talk of the town. It will be 264 by 147 feet, two stories high, and will seat 160 people."

"There is nothing wrong with the hot dog business," said Mr. McGrath, "but a $30,000 hot dog stand!"

STATE SENATORS SCRAP VERBALLY OVER DRY VETO

Emmerson's Actions Both Assailed and Defended.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 22.—[Special.]—The twin "coffin nails," as the liberals term them—repeal of presidential primaries and the veto of the prohibition repealer—stirred up two raging controversies today in the senate.

Taking "nullification" as his theme, Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], a liberal, took the floor late this afternoon and read a 4,000 word denunciation of Gov. Emmerson. In it he declared the governor cast in his lot with "the satellites and parasites of the Anti-Saloon league," and then in his veto threw "slanders and slurs" at the liberals, vilifying them as nullifiers."

The Collinsville senator elaborated his address with a few reflections upon the drinking customs of the state capital.

Drinking at the Capital.

"I would like to see enforcement carried to the point," he said, "where Mrs. Willebrandt and her favored group of California wine growers would have to cut down their vines; to where members of this legislature would have to be lying sick, flat on their backs, instead of, as now, calling up a physician and sending out a bellboy to get one or more pints of whisky for a booze party in their hotel room; to where the governor and other citizens of high rank could not indulge in a quiet highball in home or office while denying the right of the plain, ordinary citizen to walk into a saloon and buy a cheap glass of beer.

"I'd like to see prohibition to the nth degree, instead of the miserable farce we have. Then, if the American people like it with all the oppression it would entail, I would be satisfied."

Cites Wilson's Veto.

Mr. Monroe said that in his veto message the governor called the twenty-six liberal senators who voted for repeal "nullifiers of the constitution and rebels against the government."

"Legislators who voted for this bill," he said, "are no more nullificationists than were those who declined to vote for the prohibition bill ten years ago, no more nullificationists than President Wilson when he vetoed the Volstead act. We exercised our constitutional rights when we voted for repeal. If the legislature had the right to pass the prohibition bill in 1924 we have the right to repeal it in 1931.

"I, for one, do not think the governor was sincere when he said he would sign the bill with a referendum provision."

Fur Begins to Fly.

The moment Senator Monroe sat down the fur began to fly.

"He hasn't read the message," said Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]. "At no place did the governor call the senator a nullificationist."

"The governor says 'I'm not a nullificationist,'" retorted Monroe. "By implication that says we are."

"It's interesting to hear you scold the governor for calling names," said Barr, "when you say certain people are 'parasites.'"

"They are parasites," replied Monroe. "They make a living off this dry farce—it's a racket with them."

"You say the governor has no right to veto," rejoined Barr. "Did one ever hear such nullification as that?"

"I never said it," said Monroe. "I'll give you $50 to find it in my speech."

A "Lot of Scolding."

"Well, you meant it," said Barr. "We've heard a lot of scolding, but the eighteenth amendment was passed under a Democratic president."

"Yes," cried Monroe, "by a Republican congress and Wilson vetoed the Volstead act."

"Well," remarked Barr, "when did we Republicans ever appoint you Democrats our conservators?"

"Next November, you will," replied Monroe.

"Why did the liberals refuse a 1932 referendum on the bill?" asked Barr.

"We told you it was a cowardly, deceitful amendment to come from this administration," interjected Tom Courtney, minority leader.

"No, they knew if a referendum were put on the O'Grady bill the people would bury it deep," said Barr.

Block Direct Primary Move.

At the morning session Senator William R. McCauley [Rep., Olney] objected when Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield] sought to have a bill providing a direct vote on presidential candidates and national delegates advanced without reference to a committee. The object was to have it ready for action in case the house should pass the repeal of the presidential primaries.

"I regret to see the senator from the governor's home district obstructing this motion," said Searcy.

"I hold no brief for Gov. Emmerson," said McCauley, "but I don't propose to be stampeded. The newspapers are making monkeys out of the senate."

Senator Charles H. Thompson [Rep., Harrisburg] replied that the newspapers "have done a valuable thing in exposing the significance of this bill to repeal presidential primaries. I don't believe the senators realize the significance of that vote last week."

Late in the day the senate passed the Kessinger-Rennick resolution to submit to a popular vote in 1932 the question of calling a constitutional convention.

JUDICIAL REFORM BILLS APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 22.—[Special.]—The bills to speed the machinery of the courts and to make visitation of justice more certain, submitted by the judicial advisory council of Illinois and the judicial advisory council of Cook county, were considered in a joint session of the house and senate judiciary committees this afternoon and were reported out favorably.

Most of the members of the two councils were present and spoke in behalf of the various measures. Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], chairman of the council, presided.

First considered was the bill to abolish terms of court and the advantages of quick trial and continuous sessions were emphasized by Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrolton, Prof. Robert W. Millar, and State's Attorney William D. Knight of Winnebago county.

Speaking for the simplification of indictments, Prof. Millar said that the bill providing for it does away with the technicalities "which have made an indictment in a criminal case unintelligible and which have resulted in so many instances in miscarriage of justice." The proposed bill, he said, would make of any indictment a simple, brief statement "in plain English."

Judge Harry M. Fisher of Chicago explained the bill to reduce the number of challenges in criminal cases. "This," he said, "leaves the number of peremptory challenges as they are now for one defendant, but where there are more than one, only four additional challenges would be allowed in capital cases; two in cases where the punishment is life imprisonment, and one where the punishment is less than 18 months' incarceration."

Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois Supreme court, chairman of the Cook county council, urged passage of the bills continuing the life of the councils.

Judge Fisher also explained the jury commissioners' bill, which he said would take the place of the present law "wherein we are operating with a jury list that is neither scientifically nor legally prepared, and with which it is impossible to comply with the legal provisions that the list be made up of all the voters in the county."

Judge Fisher urged passage of the bill making permanent the office of public defender in Cook county.

TAXING AGENCIES GET FIRST 1929 FUNDS COLLECTED

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday made the first distribution of 1929 taxes to the county's tax spending agencies. A total of $3,050,000 was distributed, $2,500,000 going to the city, $250,000 to the south park board, $150,000 to the west park board, and $750,000 each to the Lincoln park board and the sanitary district.

This money, however, will not aid the officials in the present revenue famine, it was said, since it must be used to liquidate the 1929 tax anticipation warrants long outstanding. Tax warrants constitute a first lien against tax collections, county officials said.

Tax collections thus far have been normal, Mr. McDonough said, a total of $17,851,000 in personal property and real estate taxes having been paid up to yesterday. Collections now are coming in at the rate of $3,000,000 a day with the delinquency date more than three weeks away.

County employés yesterday received their bi-monthly pay checks amounting to $550,000, but funds to meet the next pay roll on May 8 are lacking. As in the case of the other local governments the county is out of cash due to the refusal of the banks to buy the 1931 tax warrants.

Mrs. Harry C. Mecartney

"Welch's calms the nerves because it is an aid to digestion," says Mrs. Harry C. Mecartney of the Seneca Hotel, and wife of a prominent Chicago broker. This attractive young mother plays golf for recreation and loves a horse race for excitement. "Welch's is a delicious beverage at any time of the day or evening," she continues. "I prefer it because it is so much richer and fresher than any other fruit juice I know. Served as a dinner cocktail Welch's is colorful, delicious and appetizing. My guests all seem to prefer it to other beverages that heat up the system."

...for Glowing Health!

Keep your heritage of youthful charm this easy, natural way...

HOW much more pleasant and sensible to keep good health than try to win it back! Welch's is one of Neture's most efficacious aids to normal bodily vigor. That is why increasing thousands make this delicious, wholesome fruit juice a daily habit throughout the year.

Housewives, and mothers especially, esteem the juice of sun-ripened Concord grapes because they are so rich in mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which supply quick tonic energy. These are just the vitalizing elements needed most by children.

Give the Welch's method of health control a month's trial. Drink it any time of the day, but particularly serve it as a breakfast fruit. You'll find it wonderfully appetizing. Add one-third to one-half water, if you like, for Welch's is concentrated goodness, yet it does not add an undesired ounce to one's weight. Then note how fit you feel and how your appearance has improved.

The best plan is to keep a supply of Welch's in the pantry . . . always. There is no better form of health insurance. Ask for it by name. Only thus can you be sure of purest pasteurized grape juice bottled under rigid laboratory control.

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. Write for health-and-weight-control booklet. Welch's, DeptCT-12Westfield, N. Y.

IGOE AND SEARLE CLASH AS AUDITOR BILL IS PASSED

O'Grady Charges State Pay Rolls Are Padded.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 22.—[Special.]—The fight being waged on the Emerson administration since the veto of the O'Grady-McDermott dry law repealer continued with intensity in the house of representatives today. It ended with a request for an investigation of the state printing department, where, it was charged, padded pay rolls exist.

Today's controversy developed over opposition to a $45,000 emergency appropriation for State Auditor Nelson and grew into an out and out party scrap, with name calling as a feature and harsh words for the governor from Representative M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], the minority leader.

Mr. Nelson's biennial appropriation, which asked an increase of $254,000 over the 1929 budget, was passed by the house several weeks ago—before the veto. The request today was for expenses incurred during the closing of several banks recently. When a roll call for passage of the bill eventually began members rose to explain their votes.

Nelson Is Criticized.

The burden of these explanations was not warm until Mr. Igoe rose to explain his vote.

"I'm going to vote for this appropriation because I think the auditor operates his department as best he can," said Igoe, "but I do want to criticize his political activities. Yesterday, before a house subcommittee, he tried his best to protect Director of Finance Kinney, who does not collect interest on state funds as does another Republican state officer, Secretary of State Stratton.

"The people of this state are asking many questions about public moneys going into private funds. The governor was for 12 years secretary of state and handled in that time about 38 million dollars, but he didn't turn in a nickel of interest. We have bank officials and the public's money all mixed up together."

Searle and Igoe Clash.

Peace reigned until Representative Chris Searle [Rep., Rock Island] took the floor.

"I'm only a precinct captain in the Republican party, not a national committeeman," he began, referring to Igoe's position, "but I can't refrain from pointing out that when Dunne, a Democratic governor, left the statehouse there was not enough money left to buy a postage stamp."

"That's an uncalled for insult," shouted Igoe. "Listen, you little porcupine, ——— ———"

"I don't have to take your arguments," Searle told him.

"It's a deliberate falsehood coming from you," Igoe shouted back.

The remainder of the roll call was peaceable and the bill passed 108 to 17. Representative Thomas O'Grady [Dem., Chicago] introduced the printing resolution.

The resolution was sent to the appropriations committee.

LILLIAN PAGE GREER.

A telegram from the New York police to the Chicago detective bureau yesterday explained circumstances surrounding the suicide leap of Lillian Page Greer, Chicago show girl, from the twenty-second floor of the Hotel Victoria in New York, early yesterday.

A telegram, "Money will be sent Monday or Tuesday," sent by Max Lipsey, Chicago broker, living at 546 Brompton place, was found in her room in the hotel. Lipsey explained to police that he had intended sending the money yesterday. He had sent money to her recently after a musical comedy she had gone east to play in had closed, he said.

BILLS FAVORED FOR INDUSTRIES IN STATE PRISONS

Committee Reports After Visiting Other States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 22.—[Special.]—Measures to provide prison industries for inmates of Illinois penal institutions were recommended to the senate this evening by the joint committee which investigated the use of prison labor at Sing Sing, New York, the Charleston state prison near Boston, Me., and the Lawton reformatory near Washington, D. C.

SENATOR RICHARD J. BARR.

Bills introduced embodying the recommendations of the committee are as follows:

1. Creation of a department of prison industries to direct manufacturing work in all state institutions.
2. The enactment of legislation permitting the sale of prison made goods to state institutions, and to cities and county organizations.
3. An immediate survey of the manufacturing possibilities in all our state institutions, and a detailed report as to the market for prison made goods.
4. Creation of a board of standardization whose purpose shall be to determine upon a standard brand of articles to be made in our prisons.
5. Creation of an advisory board composed of representatives from organized labor and manufacturing interests, whose duty it shall be to advise on the type of articles to be made in our prisons.
6. Enactment of legislation which will compel state, county, and city institutions to purchase articles made in our prisons.

Hope for Model Prison.

The committee recommends the passage of a model prison bill similar to the one drafted by the federal government and the American Federation of Labor.

Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] headed the subcommittee.

Prison population, the subcommittee reports, is increasing much less rapidly in the states visited than in Illinois.

The investigators say this condition is "due almost wholly to the difference in the laws relating to the punishment of offenders in the different states."

"Massachusetts and New York," it reports, "have an extensive system of probation where many offenders are placed on probation instead of being sent to prison, thus relieving the state of their care and maintenance, and also permitting the individual to be again reclaimed to society and giving him an opportunity to take care of his dependents.

"The committee is of the opinion that while with our present prison population it is important that we establish the 'state use system' of industries, as above outlined, it is quite more important that we try to work out some plan whereby the number of inmates in our prisons and reformatories may be lessened and more of our boys cared for so that they will not become offenders, and more of them restored to society than is now being done."

NEGRO ROBBERS CAPTURED AFTER 2 MEN ARE SHOT

Two juvenile Negro gunmen were captured last night after two men were shot in robberies. The prisoners are Eli Fraser, 17 years old, of 1340 North Larrabee street, and Joe Griffith, 16, of 557 East 50th street.

They were caught by Policeman Simon Holloran of the Stanton avenue station as they fled from the 39th street elevated station after an attempted robbery in which the agent, Michael Murphy, 251 West 66th street, was shot in the right arm. Shortly before, John Theodore was shot in the chest in his candy store at 236 East 61st street when he was too slow raising his hands at the command of a colored gunman. Theodore identified Fraser.

WOMEN DRIVING PUPILS ASK A FEW QUESTIONS

Among the questions asked of their instructors yesterday by 600 women who are attending the school for feminine automobile drivers in Evanston were these:

"Are not the one arm drivers (lovers) who travel at ten miles per hour the cause of many accidents?"

"What are the rights of a funeral procession on the highways?"

"What should you do when you approach a railroad crossing without gates?"

City Attorney Erwin F. Stolle answered the third question with the single word, "Stop." Answers to the others were delayed until next Wednesday.

Santiago Prison Chief Shoots Self to Death

HAVANA, April 22.—[Special.]—Lieut. Filipe Valle, former aid to Maj. Arsenio Ortiz, who is accused of having caused the deaths of some forty political prisoners, committed suicide tonight. "Knowing I will face execution for crimes imposed upon me by higher authority," said a note left by Lieut. Valle, "I prefer to kill myself." Lieut. Valle shot himself with a pistol. He was supervisor of the Santiago prison.

CALLS ON PHONES GIVE NEW CLEWS TO LINGLE KILLER

Underworld Gossip Bares Home of "Buster."

Nineteenth installment of "The Solution of the Lingle Murder."

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

CHAPTER XX.

The gangland forces which for months had hid and protected the killer of Alfred Lingle were exposed in the last days of that search for the slayer—a search which will go down into criminal history as a rare example of the art of crime detection.

The dénouement began on Dec. 16, 1930.

Up to that date the killer of Lingle was identified only as "Buster," the nickname given by Pat Hogan, gangster pal of "Buster," to John Hagan, the underworld undercover man assigned by Pat Roche and Charles Rathbun to go into the gangs and pry out the secret of the Lingle murder.

On the 16th of December Hogan told Hagan, in their rendezvous at the Schnapp hotel in Excelsior Springs, that he had decided to summon "Buster" so that the latter might join in the crimes being planned by Hogan.

A Letter from "Buster."

Hogan produced a letter which he said was from "Buster," and Hagan was able to see that the letter was signed "George Friedlander," and that beneath the signature was written the following: "P. S.—No more Buster. Address 4900 Blackstone avenue, fone Kenwood 9606."

At the same time Hogan, using the telephone in Hagan's presence, called a Chicago number, Dorchester 4269, and asked for "Benny." The man called was not in, but Hogan explained to his companion that he was Benny Butler, a notorious Chicago beer runner, and that through Butler he was always able to contact with "Buster."

As soon as he was able to leave Hogan, and get to a telephone where he could not be overheard, John Hagan called Roche and Rathbun, and informed them of the new information. It was 3 o'clock in the morning, but the staff was still waiting anxiously for news. What they heard electrified them, and made the wait more than worth while.

Benny Butler was a known gangster affiliated with the south side gang headed by Danny Stanton, who had been a free lance beer runner, but had lately become part of the organization of Scarface Al Capone. Even at that time Stanton was in jail, awaiting the outcome of his lawyer's efforts to prevent his extradition to Wisconsin on the charge that he had murdered Jack Zuta.

To Act—Or to Wait?

Hagan's information made it appear that "Buster" went by the name of George Friedlander and that he lived at 4900 Blackstone avenue. It took but a few minutes to discover that this is the address of the Riviera hotel.

The staff considered the advisability of staging a raid upon the hotel, to discover the whereabouts of Friedlander's room, and to arrest him. But this was a slim chance, and the information was not yet strong enough for the investigators to be certain that "Buster" really was Friedlander, and it was reckoned that if the Lingle staff showed its hand, and failed or erred, then their slim thread of contact with the murderer they had sought so long would be broken.

Investigation of the telephone number given as that of Benny Butler showed that it was a "secret" number, not listed in the telephone book, but it was learned that the number was listed on the telephone company records to "Mrs. B. J. Stewart, 5230 Kimbark avenue, apartment 2."

It was decided not to risk any investigation of Friedlander and the Riviera hotel, and to concentrate instead on a surveillance of the Stewart apartment and telephone.

So on Dec. 17 Roche's detectives got out on the job, and during that day they reported no unusual developments except that the apartment really was occupied by Benny Butler and his wife and baby, all masquerading under the name of Stewart.

Conversations on the gangster's telephone concerned "jobs" that were to be pulled, and ranged all the way down to discussions concerning the health of the Butlers' baby.

On Dec. 18, at 6:15 p. m., Benny Butler called Dearborn 6111 and got "Jack" on the wire. And then:

BUTLER—Well, how are you, Jack?

JACK—Say, I was talking to that guy about that you know.

BUTLER—O, yes; what's new?

JACK—I was over to the city hall and got a raise for those two marble polishers; then went out last night and got taken myself.

BUTLER—No! What did they get?

"Only Home" Short Time.

JACK—Well, I was over at the Atlas at 16th and Halsted with the wife and kid and in walks three guys and takes the joint. I got raised for $55.

BUTLER—Did you know any of them?

JACK—No, but I went with them. I told them I was only home (from jail?) myself for two weeks and did not want to stay till the law come so they said all right and I asked them for $50 and they gave it to me, and the wife started crying, saying it was my first Christmas home and they were okay. Coming down later?

BUTLER—Yea, after the show.

"GET BUSTER READY"

The next day, at 12:40 p. m., a long distance call came through from Excelsior Springs:

FIRST WOMAN—Hello, who is this?

SECOND WOMAN—This is Minian (Butler's wife).

FIRST WOMAN—This is LaDon (Pat Hogan's wife). Is Benny there?

MRS. BUTLER—Yes, just a min.

BUTLER—Hello.

MAN—Hello, fella, how are you?

BUTLER—O, hello, Pat. All right.

HOGAN—Say, Benny, I'm going to bring a fellow in with me so rent a spot, you know what I mean, and have Buster ready.

BUTLER—I don't get you. Do you want a place to lamm (hide)?

HOGAN—No. You remember that bowling alley on Ashland avenue, you know the place where you (won or got) the 25 grand?

BUTLER—O, yes.

HOGAN—Well, that's it. I want you to get me a spot and what time will I call you to find out if you got a spot?

BUTLER—Call me about 5 o'clock; no, make it 6.

HOGAN—All right. I'll call you about 5 o'clock, and have Buster ready.

BUTLER—All right. Good-by.

From this it appeared that Hogan, instead of having Buster go to Excelsior Springs, planned to come to Chicago, and to use Buster in pulling a "job" here. Later, however, it was to appear that Hogan had reverted to his original plans.

Calls for "Mr. Bader."

At 1:18 p. m., 38 minutes after the call from Hogan, Butler called Kenwood 8675, and a conversation ensued which later was to prove of deepest significance, although at the time it seemed unimportant.

BUTLER—I'd like to speak to Mr. Bader.

MAN—Just a minute. I think Mr. Bader went downtown . . . . Yes, he went downtown.

BUTLER—Will you have Mr. Bader get in touch with Benny when he comes?

MAN—Does he know your phone number?

BUTLER—Yes, he does.

At 3:10 on Dec. 19 a woman called, and Mrs. Butler answered.

WOMAN—Did you hear anything yet?

MRS. BUTLER—No. Benny is downtown and he will call as soon as it's over.

WOMAN—Gee, it's a gloomy day. I feel rotten. I went down to see him yesterday.

MRS. BUTLER—Who? Finnegan? [Judge Philip J. Finnegan was hearing arguments on the state's effort to extradite Danny Stanton].

WOMAN—No, Danny and I talked to some politician and they said it was up to the frame department.

MRS. BUTLER—How did he feel?

WOMAN—O, he looked all right. Lou is down there waiting too.

MRS. BUTLER—Well, we better hang up. Maybe she is trying to get you. I'll call you if I hear first, but don't worry, the Supreme court will throw it out on ballistics evidence.

WOMAN—Well, I hope so.

"Bad News" for Danny.

A minute later Benny Butler called his wife.

BUTLER—Well, this is me. I got bad news.

MRS. BUTLER—O, gee.

BUTLER—I had a hunch just like I told you, but he gets 60 days to file an appeal before the Supreme court, and the lawyers said it would be a cinch there. Are you going out?

MRS. BUTLER—Sure, I'm going to the show.

BUTLER—Well, don't leave before 6 because I expect a call and you either get his number or give him Bill's. I'm down here now.

Mrs. Butler then called Triangle 9011 and talked with "Lil."

MRS. BUTLER—Say, Lil, I got bad news. They ruled against Danny.

LIL—Gee, that's tough. Will they admit him to bail?

MRS. BUTLER—No, it's up to the Supreme court.

LIL—That darn old Lyle [Judge John H. Lyle] he started it all, too; just got to railroad some one.

MRS. BUTLER—It's not Lyle, it's Finnegan.

LIL—The old fussie Lyle would have been better, but he knows Danny's record.

To Leave if Lyle Wins.

MRS. BUTLER—Well, some one got to be the goat and he is such a big hearted guy, too, it's too bad. You know if I thought he did it, it would be different, but they ain't got a thing on him.

LIL—I see where some one mentioned Lyle for mayor.

MRS. BUTLER—If he gets to be mayor I'll move out of Chicago.

LIL—Who are Danny's attorneys?

MRS. BUTLER—Nash and Ahern, the best in town.

At 4:30 p. m. a woman called and asked Mrs. Butler what she "thought of it."

MRS. BUTLER—O, that Judge Finnegan, he was afraid to discharge him on account of the newspapers. He is an old heel.

WOMAN—How did his mother take it?

MRS. BUTLER—O, she was crying. Ahern put up a wonderful fight, he raised ned about Goddard and his raw meat. [Calvin Goddard was the ballistics expert who testified Stanton's revolver had been used in the murder of Zuta.]

"BUSTER" CALLS BUTLER

At 5:15 p. m. came a call which quickened the pulses of the investigators.

MAN—Is Benny there?

MRS. BUTLER—No, he's not; who is calling?

MAN—This is Buster.

MRS. BUTLER—Benny said to call him at Bill's, Dearborn 6111.

BUSTER—I can get him there. Just a minute till I get a pencil. . . . That number is Dearborn 6111?

MRS. BUTLER—Yes, Dearborn 6111.

The first peep of Buster! What a thrill the investigators felt to have him so close. And yet he was so far! He wasn't in custody, yet.

At 5:22, seven minutes after the call from Buster, a call was announced from Excelsior Springs.

MRS. BUTLER—Put them on Dearborn 6111; they don't want me.

No one knew at that time what transpired when Hogan called Dearborn 6111, but an investigation of that number revealed that it was listed for the Taylor Amusement company, 224 North Dearborn street, and this was found to be a speakeasy near Wacker drive.

Then Butler called his wife, at 6:15.

BUTLER—Was Buster there?

MRS. BUTLER—No, he called. Didn't he call you?

BUTLER—Yes, sure, he is here with me at Bill's, and he gave me a nice present for you, and it is blue this time.

MRS. BUTLER—Gee, that's fine! Is he there now?

BUTLER—Yes, lit.

MRS. BUTLER—Let me talk to him.

BUSTER—Hello.

MRS. BUTLER—Hello, stranger. Thanks for the present. I ain't seen you in some time.

BUSTER—Yes, pretty near a year ago.

MRS. BUTLER—Yes, it was. Come out and see us some time.

BUSTER—Yes, I will. Hope you have a good Christmas.

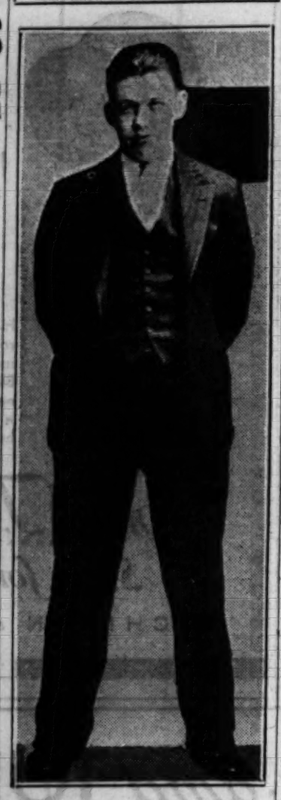
"Buster" Only 3 Blocks Away.

Here was another thrill and a poser. Buster was in a speakeasy only three blocks away from the Temple building headquarters in which Rathbun and Roche and their men sat receiving the reports. He was only three blocks away!

"Let's take him!" came a hasty suggestion, but calmer deliberation stayed acting upon it. There was no disposition to rush in now after the months of waiting. The lines were drawing but closer around the killer of Lingle, and it was better to wait and be sure than crash into a speakeasy now and take a chance. It was possible that Buster would leave before the raiders got there, or he might escape in the confusion of a raid, and then he might be lost forever.

(Another installment will appear in Tomorrow's Tribune.)

LINK TO SLAYER



Benny Butler, gangster, through whom communication was opened with "Buster," sought as the slayer of Alfred Lingle, and over whose telephone wire important information was obtained.

THREE INDICTED FOR KIDNAPING BRIDE OF ONE

New York, April 22.—(AP)—A grand jury today filed an indictment alleging kidnaping against Harry Hamilton Drill, Howard Caldwell, and Elmer Peterson, all of St. Paul, Minn. The men are accused of kidnaping Drill's wife, Helen Fisher Drill, a student at City college, from in front of her home here last Wednesday night.

Bench warrants have been issued and Assistant District Attorney Panger said he would begin extradition proceedings to have the three men returned from Madison, Wis. They were arrested there last Sunday with the young woman.

MILLIONAIRES KEEP U. S. WET, DRY CHIEF SAYS

Detroit, Mich., April 22.—[Special.]—The next two years will be critical for prohibition, Bishop Thomas Nicholson declared tonight in the opening session of the convention of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league. Bishop Nicholson is president of the National Anti-Saloon league.

"No law has ever been so unfairly treated as has the prohibition law," the speaker declared. "Nothing in the history of the world has compared with the campaign of detraction, the insidious and deceptive propaganda which has gone on against this reform.

"The wet and dry issue has developed quite largely into a class war. A group of millionaires and society people who are determined to have their liquor are pouring out millions of money, in large measure controlling the metropolitan daily press, and are determined to overthrow this part of the constitution.

"The rank and file of business interests, of the working people, and of the middle class people are stoutly and solidly for prohibition. The noise the wets are making comes almost exclusively from this social caste and cult."

The public, he said, must be reached through the churches and schools and through the literature issued by the various prohibition organizations.

DRINKS POISON DURING QUARREL.

Mrs. Josephine Weld, 32 years old, last night drank poison in her home at 1923 North Lincoln street following a quarrel with her husband, Edwin, a street car employé, whom she accused of drinking. Physicians said she will recover.

U. S. TAX LIENS AGAINST CAPONE AID ARE SETTLED

Two income tax liens filed against Joe Fusco, a minor Capone gangster specializing in the beer racket, which claimed a total of $70,000, have been satisfied in full, Acting Collector Robert E. Neely of the internal revenue bureau was notified yesterday. Mr. Neely filed a discharge in the federal court.

The original liens were filed in March, 1930. It was reported that Fusco reached a compromise with the government, settling his liabilities for considerably less than the amount claimed.

Fusco, who lives at 7348 Prairie avenue, filed his schedules under the alias of A. Peterson of the Lexington hotel.

PUSHMAN'S is offering ORIENTAL RUGS at Legitimate Low Prices

An unusual economic condition in Persia, China, India, made this possible. These silver money countries suffered a drastic drop in the value of their currency. This automatically made American money almost double in value in those countries. Their situation has already improved, but just at the right moment Pushman's foreign buying offices took advantage of the situation and bought our Spring shipments at tremendous reductions. They have now arrived—and are offered to you at the same low prices—lower than you have ever known before.

Probably never again at such prices

BUSINESS PUTS FULL STRENGTH BEHIND JUBILEE

Leaders Hail Celebration as Great Event.

will be adopted Monday. Another resolution was offered before the board of education by Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, and approved. A further step was the appointment by Col. Randolph of 200 leading citizens to aid in the Jubilee.

They include presidents of the various district chambers of commerce, all the foreign consuls resident in Chicago, leaders of the Board of Trade, the Chicago Stock exchange, the Chicago board of underwriters, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, Cook county commissioners, park commissioners, heads of the major universities in the metropolitan area, and presidents of clubs.

Invitations to the governors of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota were extended yesterday by the sponsors of the Chicago Jubilee. It is believed all will attend. At Springfield a joint legislative committee of ten members was named to participate in the celebration.

Frank P. Hammond, chairman of the all-Chicago committee of Kiwanis club, promised the participation of 3,500 members.

FROM THE CITY

Among the Chicago businesses and business men who acclaimed the Chicago Jubilee and who promised full cooperation are the following, with their comments.

ALLIED FLORISTS, 620 South Wabash avenue—The 350 retail dealers allied with us will be called on to arrange special displays during the CHICAGO JUBILEE week celebration and we will have an elaborate float of flowers in the jubilee parade.

ATLANTIC HOTEL, 316 South Clark street—The CHICAGO JUBILEE will aid greatly in getting Chicago back to where it belongs and will breed a spirit of optimism. We are only sorry that it cannot continue longer than the week. We will make a special effort to make the out-of-the-city guests feel that Chicago is a pretty good place to visit after all.—Ernest Roessler, treasurer.

ATLAS RADIO STORES—We will have special displays and decorations in all stores. During the week we plan to open a new store. We are going to consider a sporting event. CHICAGO JUBILEE week will be THE TRIBUNE'S greatest achievement.—Nate Cohen, president.

BAIRD AND WARNER, real estate—You can count on us cooperating to the hilt. The CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration is a splendid idea and we will participate in it, but we have not completed our program.—Warner G. Baird, president.

BALABAN & KATZ, 175 North State street, theaters—There is no questioning the fact that the CHICAGO JUBILEE will show this city to be wide awake and optimistic. Balaban & Katz expects to make the CHICAGO JUBILEE week the biggest in the history of our theaters from an entertainment standpoint. Larger shows are planned for the five theaters where we have a stage policy, and the other theaters we will book bigger shows and all the theaters will be decorated in holiday dress. We are spending $50,000 getting the theaters in shipshape order in time for the celebration.—Walter Immerman, general manager.

FREDERICK H. BARTLETT REALTY COMPANY, 69 West Washington street, real estate—We will cooperate in every way we can. Active participation by this company may be expected to the fullest extent. I am particularly eager that the CHICAGO JUBILEE shall signalize the renewal of a clean, industrious, and productive Chicago.—Frederick H. Bartlett, president.

BASKIN, INC., clothing—It seems in the light of recent developments the stage is now set for a spirited revival of business. The public is willing to meet the merchants half way and the enlightened merchants are responding. I pledge every cooperation to CHICAGO JUBILEE week in which THE TRIBUNE turns the attention of the entire country to the city and formally raises the curtain on a new economic era.—Salom I. Baskin, president.

THE BASS CAMERA COMPANY, 179 West Madison street, cameras and photographic supplies—I think the CHICAGO JUBILEE will be a fine thing for the city. We will be glad to dress our display windows appropriately and to contribute in any other way within our power to help make the Jubilee a tremendous success.—Charles Bass, president.

BEDFORD SHIRT COMPANY, men's furnishings [several stores]—Our plans have not yet been made. We intend to cooperate in every way possible. We endorse THE TRIBUNE'S plan heartily.—Roy Jolliff, secretary.

BETTY WALES DRESS SHOPS, ladies' apparel—We are opening our newest store at 172 North Michigan avenue and will have four floor of unusual displays, with our mannequins showing the latest Parisian replicas and our Betty Wales originals throughout the celebration of jubilee week.—A. R. Levitt, manager.

BIRD-ECKES COMPANY, 2215 South Michigan avenue, auto dealers—As soon as THE TRIBUNE announced CHICAGO JUBILEE week we started work on a special float displaying a Graham-Paige chassis, which is to be equipped with a broadcasting device. The float is to cost $1,500. We are also to have a special line of models and decorate our building.—I. J. Foley, manager.

A. BISHOP & CO., 143 North Wabash avenue, furriers—We will certainly follow THE TRIBUNE'S movement to boost Chicago and benefit its citizens. Though our plans are not completed we may have a float in the parade, special style shows with living models, and decorations on our building.—A. H. Rich president.

BOND CLOTHING COMPANY, 55 West Madison street, men's clothing—CHICAGO JUBILEE will find us in the ranks of those doing all to aid the movement which further Chicago. We are making plans for our participation.—Harry Lenn, manager.

BOSTON STORE, State and Madison streets, department store—We have formed no plans, but are to have a meeting shortly. We will cooperate to the best of our ability. THE CHICAGO JUBILEE is a great thing for Chicago in that it will present the city in its true light to the country and to the world.—A. G. Hart, general manager.

CAPPER & CAPPER, Men's furnishings [several stores]—We are to have special window displays in our Michigan avenue store and branches. Other features of our participation are under consideration.—A. H. Turner, vice president.

CARSON, PIRIE, SCOTT & CO., State and Madison streets, department store—Our plans are not final, but we will do nothing consistent with our business to spare our best efforts to promote the week.—John Wood.

CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY—Our bank will hold open house during the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration, welcoming all visitors who wish to inspect the various departments, and explaining the detailed functions of the various departments in a metropolitan bank. Our bank will be decorated in keeping with the spirit of the Jubilee, offering an atmosphere of cordiality and welcome to all the visitors.

CHICAGO HOTEL MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION—The CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration is a fine idea. The hotels are all anxious to help in this venture to show the world Chicago's real greatness. Our association is to hold a meeting at the Palmer house to discuss how the hotels can best participate in the CHICAGO JUBILEE.—John Burke, president.

ALMER COE & CO., 105 North Wabash avenue, optician—There is no doubt that CHICAGO JUBILEE week will be one of the best things that can happen to Chicago. We pledge our cooperation in every way possible, both by window displays and by special Jubilee week advertising.—Almer Coe, president.

JOHN A. COLBY & SONS, 129 North Wabash avenue, furniture—This firm is planning to cooperate with CHICAGO JUBILEE week in every way we can. Of course, there will be special window displays.—A. W. Crawford.

CUTLER SHOES, 111 South State street—We intend to participate in the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration and are arranging a definite program during the week's activity.—Truman Metzel, manager.

DAVIS COMPANY, State and Van Buren streets, department store—We have not worked out the details of our plans. We are with THE TRIBUNE in CHICAGO JUBILEE week 100 per cent. It is a splendid movement.—Arthur Davis.

DE MET'S CANDY SHOPS AND TEA ROOMS—Each of our ten loop stores will have a distinctive window display featuring a quotation from Steinmetz about Chicago's power, and each day we will have a candy special, of which samples will be given to the visitors in our stores.—Nick De Met.

THE FAIR, State, Adams and Dearborn streets, department store—We are preparing a float for the parade. We will decorate the State street front of our building and also have special window displays. We greatly appreciate what THE TRIBUNE has done in founding the CHICAGO JUBILEE.—D. F. Kelly, president.

FANNIE MAY CANDY STORES—Our plans have not been completed, but we are preparing to participate fully in the CHICAGO JUBILEE week program. Of course, our shops will all be decorated for the occasion and we will work out something original for our special displays.—H. Teller Archibald, president.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK—It is a good thing and we should go ahead with all force. But we must not think this CHICAGO JUBILEE alone can pull us over the fence. We must make it a sustained effort, and the jubilee celebration will provide a fine beginning.—Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the board.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK—I am enthusiastically in favor of our CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration. It will be of definite evidence of the reawakening of our civic consciousness, and distinctively reveal the real Chicago.—Melvin A. Traylor, president.

L. FISH COMPANY, 208 South Wabash avenue, furniture—We are preparing a float for the CHICAGO JUBILEE parade. Our loop store will be completely decorated and there will be special displays in our windows. Special merchandise sales will be offered during the week.—A. Ludgin, advertising manager.

FLORSHEIM RETAIL BOOT SHOPS—Our shops will have distinctive window displays throughout the week designed to portray the spirit of the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration. We think the jubilee is an excellent idea and will cooperate to the fullest.—Harold Florsheim, president.

GAMBILL MOTOR COMPANY, INC., 2234 South Michigan avenue, auto dealers—We are to continue our spring showing of new models. Our building and showroom are to be decorated. We intend to cooperate in all ways.—D. T. Gambill, vice president.

GOLDBLATT BROTHERS, 1615 West Chicago avenue, department stores—We will enter several floats in the CHICAGO JUBILEE parade. Models of machinery used in manufacturing Chicago products will be displayed in the windows of our four stores. The stores themselves will be specially decorated for the occasion.—Edward Simon, sales promotion manager.

F. H. HALVORSEN & CO., 3145 West 63d street, real estate—I am in hearty accord with the idea of the CHICAGO JUBILEE. We have available window space which will be decorated to advertise the jubilee. We will no doubt make other plans to participate also.—F. H. Halvorsen, president.

HARRIS BROTHERS COMPANY, West 35th street, near Ashland, building materials—We will tiein with CHICAGO JUBILEE week with the spring cleanup season and present attractive price offers for all materials used in painting, repairing, rebuilding, and modernizing homes and surroundings. This is our plan for our Chicago and suburban branch stores.—Martin B. Harris, secretary.

HARRIS TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK—Our bank will participate in the celebration to the fullest extent, cooperating in the welcoming of our visitors and making our bank a cordial place for all who visit us. Of course, we will be appropriately decorated.

HARTMAN FURNITURE AND CARPET COMPANY, 144 South Wabash avenue, furniture—CHICAGO JUBILEE week is the greatest of THE TRIBUNE'S public demonstrations and I predict its influence will be felt throughout the country. We will go along with the program in all our stores in every possible way. We are planning special displays, decoration of our buildings and a float. We are considering some special attraction to be announced later.—Edward G. Felsenthal, vice president and treasurer.

HASSEL SHOES, Van Buren and Dearborn—We will adopt the spirit of CHICAGO JUBILEE week and plan to remain open each evening during the celebration. We are arranging special advertising and store displays and will have special offerings in men's and women's shoes and women's hosiery.—Otto Hassel, president.

HENRICI'S RESTAURANT, 71 West Randolph street—A replica of old Fort Dearborn, made of cake and icing, will be on display in our window. There will also be replicas of the Spirit of Chicago and of architectural features of the city. We are working with the Chicago Historical society in the window display. All the replicas will be made of cake and icing.—Lawrence J. O'Toole, president.

HORDER'S, INC., stationery stores—All our stores will be appropriately decorated and arranged with attractive window displays, showing in particular the various lines we carry which are produced in the Chicago district.

THE HUB, 225 South State street, clothing—Our plans have not been determined upon as yet, but will be fixed within the next day or two. We will cooperate in every way to make CHICAGO JUBILEE week a success.—Joshua Tedford, secretary.

JOHNSON & HARWOOD COMPANY, 27 North Wabash avenue, cloaks—We have reached no definite conclusion on our part in CHICAGO JUBILEE week, but will do our part to harmonize the spirit created by THE TRIBUNE.—Ben Johnson, president.

KERMAN'S INC., 160 North Michigan avenue, cloaks and suits—Our plans are tentative and depend on the general trend of the celebration. We heartily indorse the movement and will cooperate.—Herman Friedman, president.

W. W. KIMBALL COMPANY, 208 South Wabash avenue, pianos—As one of the old piano companies of the city we expect to join in the celebration of CHICAGO JUBILEE week. We shall have special exhibits.—D. W. Kimball, advertising manager.

EDWARD KIRCHBERG, INC., jewelers, 104 North State street—We certainly are going to enter the spirit of the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration, and during the week we intend to have the largest display in the 64 years' history of our firm. Also we will have our store and windows decorated to fit the occasion, with flags, bunting and other gay attractions.—Edward Kirchberg, president.

L. KLEIN COMPANY, 11342 South Michigan avenue, furniture—CHICAGO JUBILEE week will be special sale week at our store. Special spring showings will be made in our windows.—Lawrence Klein, president.

D. S. KOMISS & CO., 201 South State street, ladies' clothing—We are preparing a float for the parade. In our store we will have living models in the display windows, showing the latest creations, and throughout the week we will serve tea on our mezzanine floor to the visitors. THE TRIBUNE'S enterprise in sponsoring the jubilee is about the most commendable work Chicago has had in some time. The jubilee is just what we need now.—D. S. Komiss, president.

LEBOLT & CO., 27 North State street, jewelers—We are certainly planning to do our share in the celebration of CHICAGO JUBILEE week. We will possibly have a float in the parade as well as showing in our display windows rare jewels and those of our own manufacture.—J. M. H. Lebolt, president.

LESCHIN, INC., 318 South Michigan avenue, women's apparel—We will present a continuous style show on living models throughout our store during jubilee week. In addition, our buyers have just returned from special trips and we will have unusual displays in our show windows, with the newest gowns and summer ensembles being shown.—Guy L. Ederheimer, manager.

JAMES LEVY MOTORS COMPANY, 2257 South Michigan avenue—We will have a fleet of Buick cars in the parade and a special exhibit in our showrooms. THE TRIBUNE is doing a great thing and we hail it as a move toward the return of prosperity.—James Levy, president.

LYON & HEALY, 243 South Wabash avenue, musical instruments—On Monday evening, May 11, we will give a concert in Orchestra hall. Those who will participate are a boys' band and a mixed chorus, composed of talent from our store, and other artists. Proceeds of this concert will be turned over to the boys' club of the Union League club. Also, we will supply talent for noon song festivals at various factories.—Cyde H. De Acres, general manager.

MADIGAN BROTHERS, 4030 West Madison street, dry goods—We will make a special drive for sales during CHICAGO JUBILEE week. Our store will be specially decorated and unusual offers will be made in merchandise. Jubilee week is a great idea and we will cooperate fully.—Joseph Madigan, vice president.

MARSHALL FIELD & CO., Wabash, Washington and State streets, department store—We have not yet formed definite plans although we intend to cooperate with THE TRIBUNE in every possible way to make CHICAGO JUBILEE week an outstanding success.—David M. Yates, manager.

MANDEL BROTHERS, State and Madison streets, department store—The month of May is an ideal time to unloose all the winter's pent up forces. Let all our constructive forces join in one mighty wave of justified praise that will carry the truthful glories of Chicago throughout the land. Not only will Chicago help herself by inviting the countryside to look into its inexhaustible chest of superlative achievements, but she may strike a keynote which will enable other cities to find their tune of prosperity again. Mandel Brothers is heartily in favor of the movement and will do everything in its power to help make the week an outstanding success.—Leon Mandel.

MARTHA WASHINGTON CANDY STORES—We plan to dress our girls in Martha Washington costumes during the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration, and have them give samples to our visitors. Our windows and stores will be decorated attractively to suit the occasion.—E. M. Hunt, president.

I. MILLER, shoes—Miller's will present something unusual and distinctive during the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration, but our plans have not yet been worked out definitely.

MORRISON HOTEL—The Morrison will cooperate to the fullest in making the CHICAGO JUBILEE week celebration an attractive event not only for Chicagoans but the out of town visitors. We plan to decorate suitably for the CHICAGO JUBILEE activities.—Harry Moir, president.

NAHIGIAN BROS., INC., 169 North Wabash avenue, rugs—We are sympathetic with the plan for the CHICAGO JUBILEE and feel that it will be an event which will benefit the city materially. This firm expects to take part in the parade and decorate especially for the occasion. We are arranging for exhibits in our display windows including one which will show rugs in the process of weaving. Our collection of rare antiques often shown in art institutes and museums will be on exhibit for the benefit of Chicago visitors during the jubilee.—S. H. Nahigian, president.

NATIONAL BANK OF THE REPUBLIC—Our windows, among the finest along La Salle street, will be filled with appropriate displays during CHICAGO JBILEE week and the bank will cooperate in every way in making the celebration a memorable event in the history of Chicago.

NORTHERN TRUST COMPANY—We are planning to take an active part in the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration. Our lobby and windows will be decorated with attractive displays and during that week our radio broadcast of Chicago's history will be linked with the CHICAGO JUBILEE.

O'CONNOR & GOLDBERG, shoes—We plan to cooperate in every way during CHICAGO JUBILEE week. We will have a float in the parade and each of our stores will be appropriately decorated for the spirit of the occasion and we will have some special features and attractions for our visitors.—John O'Connor, president.

OLSON RUG COMPANY, 32 South Laflin street, rugs—Our windows will be trimmed fittingly for the occasion and we are arranging a series of special features for the week.—Walter E. Olson, president.

PACKARD MOTOR CAR COMPANY, 2357 South Michigan avenue—We are planning to hold a special showing of models and will cooperate in every way with the CHICAGO JUBILEE week program.—C. C. Goodwin, manager.

PEACOCK SHOES—Our store will be decorated with special displays throughout the shop and our windows also will have special displays, including a motion picture showing how our shoes are manufactured.

PEARLIE POWELL, 320 North Michigan avenue, ladies' apparel—Our shop will feature various special bargain attractions during the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration and our show windows will be transformed into distinctive displays featuring the newest fashions.—Clarence Powell, president.

PUSHMAN BROS., 16 South Wabash avenue, rugs—We are planning to have appropriate displays in celebration of CHICAGO JUBILEE week. Among them will be a rug weaver who will show our visitors how oriental rugs are actually made.—G. T. Pushman, president.

RADIO-KEITH-ORPHEUM CORPORATION, 190 North State street, theatrical—Plans are under way to cooperate to the fullest with the CHICAGO JUBILEE week celebration. We will decorate the State-Lake theater and have a float in the parade with theatrical stars. Special programs will be offered at both the State-Lake and Palace theaters to entertain visitors.—William Elson, district manager.

ALEXANDER H. REVELL & CO., 180 North Wabash avenue, furniture—We have not made our plans as yet. We intend to cooperate in every way, but must work out what we consider best for our interests and those of the community.—Alexander H. Revell Jr., president.

O. W. RICHARDSON & CO., 125 South Wabash, furniture—We are enthusiastically in favor of THE TRIBUNE'S CHICAGO JUBILEE plan and are pleased to cooperate in every way. We will combine the jubilee with our own celebration of our 56th anniversary. We are making very definite plans to join in the parade and decorate our windows fitting to the occasion.—R. S. Tiffany, vice president.

RICHMAN BROTHERS, clothiers—We will cooperate in every respect in making CHICAGO JUBILEE week celebration a tremendous success. Our store will be appropriately decorated and we will have attractive displays in our windows and through the shop.

MAURICE L. ROTHSCHILD, 304 South State street, clothing—We expect to be hosts to THE TRIBUNE'S sightseers. On certain evenings we will throw open our windows to the use of THE TRIBUNE. We will decorate our building and have special displays.—Maurice L. Rothschild.

THE ROYAL TAILORS [several stores]—We are to have special displays of new styles, and decorate our windows and buildings. Full cooperation is our pledge.—W. S. Clark, secretary.

A. J. RUBY COMPANY, shoes—We will take part in the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration, and during that week we will present toys to the children whose parents visit our store for the purchase of children's shoes.

SAKS FIFTH AVENUE, 840 North Michigan avenue, ladies' apparel—Our store will be decorated during CHICAGO JUBILEE week and we will have a float in the parade. Special spring sales will be featured during the week with special inducements to the buyers.—George M. Gleason, managing director.

SALLY FROCKS, INC., ladies' apparel—The Sally shops throughout Chicago and the metropolitan area will present new and unusual displays during the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration and will have a float in the parade.—Arthur Kahn, president.

SCHOLLE FURNITURE CO., 121 South Wabash avenue—The officials of this company extend their wholehearted support to CHICAGO JUBILEE week. The event, we recognize, has a paramount civic importance. We have adopted a sales and display program especially for jubilee week.—Charles H. Scholle, president.

SHERMAN HOTEL, Clark and Randolph streets—The CHICAGO JUBILEE is a marvelous idea and the Sherman hotel is prepared to assist in every way it can. It will mean a great deal for Chicago. If we can get the out-of-town visitors to come to Chicago and once see what we have here, we will have them sold on the city. I have heard many skeptical visitors marvel at what a wonderful city we have after they have toured our boulevards and visited our points of interest.—Frank Bering, vice president and general manager.

JOHN T. SHAYNE COMPANY, 150 North Michigan avenue, men's and women's wear—The latest spring merchandise will be displayed in our windows. Our whole staff is working on plans to aid in the general promotion of CHICAGO JUBILEE week.—Thomas Considine Sr., president.

A. G. SPALDING & BROS., 211 South State street, sporting goods—We are happy to pledge cooperation in CHICAGO JUBILEE week originated by THE TRIBUNE. We intend to have special displays of new and novel sporting goods emphasizing new trends in sport. We will also decorate our building in harmony with the general plan.—D. H. Tweedle, western manager.

SPAULDING & GORHAM, INC., 222 South Michigan avenue, jewelers—We intend to cooperate in every way to make the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration worthy of Chicago. Our windows and store will be attractively decorated with unusual displays.

STEVENS BUILDING RESTAURANT—We are planning to participate in the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration to the fullest extent, but have not yet completed the arrangements for our participation.

STOP & SHOP, 16 West Washington street, food shop—We are in perfect accord with CHICAGO JUBILEE week and consider it a wonderful plan. After we know the program, as the oldest food store in the city and yet the youngest in the point of our present establishment, we will cooperate in every way. We are glad to be part of THE TRIBUNE crowd.—Martin Burns, president.

S. W. STRAUS & CO., bankers—Our company intends to cooperate in every way possible to make the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration a huge success. Our building will be thrown open to visitors and we will give complimentary tickets to visit the Straus tower, where our guests can view the city from an advantageous spot. Naturally, all the buildings we own or control will be appropriately decorated in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, and all our officers will extend every courtesy to make the jubilee a real entertainment for our visitors.—Sydney H. Kahn, executive vice president.

STRAUS & SCHRAM, 1105 West 35th street, furniture—Our stores will be brightened by spring decorations and special window displays are being arranged for CHICAGO JUBILEE week. We will also observe the occasion with special sales features.—David Straus, president.

STUDEBAKER SALES COMPANY, 2555 South Michigan avenue, auto dealers—We are to have a special showing of cars and may present a series of cars in the parade. Our building and showroom are to be decorated.—Henry L. Levy, president.

SWARTS BROTHERS, jewelers, 158 North State street—We are going to have a big float in the parade, and are to decorate our store and windows with appropriate background for the CHICAGO JUBILEE celebration. We intend to do everything we can to make the celebration a splendid success.—Harry Swarts, president.

CHAS. A. STEVENS & BROS., 12 North State street, department store—We intend to cooperate in all ways possible with CHICAGO JUBILEE week. Our plans are yet in a formulative stage. We have held several conferences and will make announcements later.—Elmer Stevens.

TOBEY FURNITURE COMPANY, 200 North Michigan avenue—You can count on our hearty cooperation in the meritorious idea of the CHICAGO JUBILEE. THE TRIBUNE should be commended as we think this will be the greatest stimulant to business Chicago has had for many months. We will feature in our windows the newest styles in furniture for the season and will extend a welcome throughout the store to visitors in Chicago.—F. T. Shiverick, president.

THOMPSON RESTAURANTS—We shall cooperate in the CHICAGO JUBILEE. The Jubilee will undoubtedly stimulate all activity throughout the city, and be a great boost for Chicago. It is an excellent idea, and I was very glad to see the response it received. Every business house and organization in the city should be glad of the opportunity to participate in the celebration.—John R. Thompson.

TRIANGLE AUTOMOBILE COMPANY, 2247 South Michigan avenue—We are to have a fleet of Lincoln automobiles in the parade. We will continue our spring showing through Jubilee week. We will cooperate in every way.—Daniel R. Ganey, vice president.

WALGREEN'S DRUG STORES—We are planning to have our Sikorsky amphibion plane at the Grant park ramp each day during CHICAGO JUBILEE week and will give free rides to fifty visitors each day. All visitors may register their names at any Walgreen store and each day fifty names will be drawn for the rides, which will consist of a 20 to 30 minute tour over the city. We will also decorate our stores and show windows with special Jubilee displays.—Charles Walgreen.

WALK-OVER SHOE COMPANY—We are in full accord with the CHICAGO JUBILEE week celebration and will participate in every way. We are preparing special advertising and window displays for that week and will have unusual special offerings.

WIRTZ, HUBERT & LITTLE, INC., 2153 Sheridan road, real estate—We plan to take part in the CHICAGO JUBILEE possibly in the parade or exhibits. The Jubilee will be a fine thing for Chicago.—H. E. Haynie, vice president.

WOLOCK & BAUER, 2 North Michigan avenue, shoes—Our store is already making plans for special redecorating in celebration of CHICAGO JUBILEE week, and we are going to considerable expense to get all dressed up for the occasion. We are going to do our share to make the jubilee a success. The same cooperation will be given by the State street store.—Herman Kohn, secretary-treasurer.

RUDOLPH WURLITZER COMPANY, 329 South Wabash avenue, musical instruments—The Wurlitzer band of 25 pieces and a large float will be our representation in the CHICAGO JUBILEE parade. Our store will be decorated from top to bottom and there will be special displays of merchandise. CHICAGO JUBILEE week will be a great stimulant for Chicago.—Arthur W. Percival, general manager.

NOT BUILT WITH HANDS

"My robe has no personality until I put it on, for the spirit is not there until I inhabit it," once said that greatest of all epigrammatists, Mr. Anon.

Stones and mortar, warehouses and merchandise do not make a great store. If the reputation of Field's has reached out into the hinterlands of the world, if it stands today as a conspicuous example of man's fine achievement, the reason must lie somewhere in a rich heritage of determined spirit and a stout faith in good stuff. That collective personality which is the Field organization is its supreme asset.

Yet—an old and fine tradition is of small worth if it does not function completely in the now.

Good taste does not necessarily make things cost more—but it does make them worth more.

Prices at Field's are low—meeting the needs of the day, as Field's has always met them. But the Field tradition for selling only merchandise of worth and taste, however low the price, has been stoutly maintained. And that insistence has augmented a public confidence in Field's wares and service that is both wide and deep—it is a thing not built with hands.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

SIAMESE RULER IN SECLUSION OF 110-ROOM HOME

Four Police Forces and 30 Servants on Duty.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Plains, N. Y., April 22.—[Special.]—A frail little potentate from the other side of the world ended his 17,000 mile journey today at Ophir Hall in the Westchester hill country. King Prajadhipok, who holds the power of life and death over 12,000,000 Siamese, and who bears among his titles that of "Supreme Arbiter of the Ebb and Flow of the Tide," was relaxing tonight in the 110 room stone castle which he will call home for the next six weeks.

With him was his beautiful consort, Queen Rambai Barni, who bears the title of "Glorious Lady of God," and twelve other members of the royal party. Outside, scattered about the 500 acre estate, were 200 guards and rival police forces from nearby villages did sentry duty at the two great gates in the high stone wall surrounding the flowering grounds.

King Appears Weary.

The king, who has been suffering from malaria and bronchitis, as well as the cataract on his eye which brought him into this country for an operation, appeared tired and ill and immediately announced his intention of passing the evening at home. Soon after the entry of the royal pair into Ophir hall, the country home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, the couple appeared on one of the balconies and waved to those below. King Prajadhipok clasped his hands when he discovered a nine-hole golf course nestling in the valley of the estate and the queen was enthusiastic over the riot of color among the shrubs and flowers in the garden.

After a late luncheon Richard Southgate, representing President Hoover, and Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, representing the secretary of state, left for Washington, D. C., bearing a polite note from the royal visitors expressing their appreciation for courtesies extended. The king will visit Washington, D. C., April 30.

Eye Operation Planned.

Upon the king's return Dr. John M. Wheeler of Presbyterian hospital will perform the eye operation in a specially fitted hospital room in Ophir hall.

The royal train, looking very much like any other commuters' special, drew up at Scarsborough-on-the-Hudson just after noon, and after much kissing of cheeks and stiff bowing in the private car Killarney, the king descended to the station platform followed by the queen.

King Prajadhipok, who is traveling incognito as "the prince of Sukhodaya," wore a soft gray hat, dark sack suit, and rumpled gray overcoat. His shoes were high-heeled, but even then he stood only a head above the little 9 year old schoolgirl who stepped forward with a bouquet in her hand. Some one in the party took the flowers and said, "Thank you, baby," whereupon the little girl burst into tears and sobbingly announced she was not a baby.

Queen Wins Favor.

The queen, a tiny, charming person, caught the fancy of the crowd. She was dressed conservatively in a black and white satin ensemble and a small black felt hat, and smiled bravely at a regiment of photographers on the station grounds.

"All right, king. Look this way, queen. Now one with the hat off." The photographers were entertaining royalty royally. A long, sleek limousine scattered them. It was the imperial automobile with special seating arrangement so that no one behind the driver's compartment would have to turn his back on the king—an old Siamese custom.

The imperial visitors, Westchester's first oriental potentates, drew away at a sedate 30 mile an hour pace for Ophir hall and the solitude one could expect in a home of 110 rooms.

DOAK SAYS ROADS DON'T CONSIDER CUT IN WAGES

Washington, D. C., April 22.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor William N. Doak today denied reports that the railroads of the country considered reduction in the wages of their employés. Mr. Doak, who was formerly general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declared that consideration of any such action by the railroads would certainly have been brought to his attention.

The only serious proposal concerning wage reductions have been made by the bankers, Secretary Doak said, adding that everything possible has been done to prevent completion of such plans.

"If you have not got foreign markets," continued Mr. Doak, speaking of his own attitude toward wage cuts, "then the only way to bring back prosperity is by increasing domestic consumption. How that can be done by reducing the present level of wages is just too much for me."

Denied Also by Robertson.

New York, April 22.—(AP)—The nation's railroad men have not been asked to accept a cut in wages, David B. Robertson, chairman of the National Railway Labor Executives' association, told the Associated Press today.

He denied railway labor representatives had participated in secret conferences with executives to discuss wage cuts, as Wall street yesterday had heard.

MAYOR CERMAK TURNS A COLD SHOULDER TO TESTIMONIAL DINNERS

Testimonial banquet promoters, whose racket flourished under the former city administration, were informed yesterday that their pickings are going to be slim, if not entirely nil, under Mayor Cermak.

The mayor's secretary, Henry Sonnenschein, announced after a long distance telephone conversation with Mr. Cermak in Miami that after his return to Chicago the mayor will have no time to attend testimonial banquets and that he will refuse all invitations to such affairs in his honor. The mayor, according to his secretary, "feels that city business is more pressing than any banquets."

Taking the mayor's cue, it was believed, his department heads and other new appointees will nip any ceremonial affairs planned in their behalf and the result will be the end of the banqueteering racket.

The testimonial banquet vogue reached it height in 1927 soon after the late administration came into power when as many as three and four banquets a week were staged in downtown hotels. Guests paid $5 to $10 a plate.

Boosts Lewis for President.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 22.—[Special.]—Mayor Cermak tonight put forth the name of Senator James Hamilton Lewis as a candidate for nomination by the Democratic party as its candidate next year for President of the United States.

Speaking before the Kiwanis club here during a stopover of a few hours before continuing his return trip to Chicago, the mayor told of the majority by which Lewis was elected as one of Illinois' senators at the same time that the voters in Illinois spoke decisively with their ballots on prohibition.

The mayor will reach Chicago Friday morning.

CHARGES PASTOR KISSED HER; ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES

Jury Is Told Story of Stolen Embrace.

Kansas City, Mo., April 22.—[Special.]—Did the pastor of Mrs. Bertha Thomas' church steal a kiss from her? And if so, was the kiss worth the $5,000 the suit of Mrs. Thomas demands of the pastor? A jury of twelve married men heard testimony upon those questions today.

The trial began today in Judge Clyde C. Glandon's division of Wyandotte county district court, with the Rev. James Cornish, now of Great Bend, Kas., but formerly the pastor of the First Christian church, Kansas City, Kas., as the defendant.

The pastor will deny ever having stolen the kiss, or ever having kissed Mrs. Thomas at all, his attorney, E. S. McAnany, said in his opening statement at the beginning of the trial.

Says Affair Shocked Her.

The disputed incident is alleged to have taken place Dec. 11, 1929 in the pastor's study. Mrs. Thomas says the incident was a shock to her nervous system, and resulted in loss of appetite and sleep. Hence she asks $1,000 actual and $4,000 punitive damages.

On the witness stand Mrs. Thomas described the kiss.

"He stepped toward me, grabbed me around the shoulder with his right arm, pulled me toward him, placed his left hand under by chin, tilted my head back as far as it would go, and put his mouth on mine and held it there for a long time."

"When he saw there was no response," she continued, "he walked to the other side of the room, and he shook from head to foot."

Admits Returning Later.

Mrs. Thomas admitted on cross-examination that she returned to confer with the pastor later in the day, accompanied by another woman.

"There's safety in numbers," she explained.

The pastor again tried to kiss her as she left the library, but unsuccessfully, she said.

Mrs. Thomas is 37 years old and has two children. Her husband, a former railroad man, sat with her today.

Ex-Pugilist Killed as He Threatens Watchman

Samuel Kahn, 41 years old, 3402 Grenshaw street, ex-pugilist and race track hanger-on, was shot and killed yesterday by William Klasing, 51, of 649 West 43d street, a watchman in the barns of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, 43d and Halsted streets. Klasing told Capt. Michael Delaney of the stockyards police that Kahn had repeatedly threatened him. Yesterday, he said, Kahn pushed him against a wall and reached for his hip pocket. Klasing drew his own gun and fired.

YOUTHFUL PAIR CONFESS PLOT TO DEFRAUD A BANK

Two youths confessed at the detective bureau yesterday that they had conspired to defraud the West Side Atlas National bank, 1601 Roosevelt road, of $2,785 with a fraudulent report of a robbery.

They are Fred Brogni, 22 years old, 2145 South Harding avenue, a messenger for the bank, and Nicholas Semetis, 19 years old, 2107 South Harding avenue, an office boy in the collection department of THE TRIBUNE.

Brogni reported to his employers on Monday that he had been robbed of $1,500 in cash and nearly $1,300 in checks at Wabash avenue and Roosevelt road. Yesterday, however, he admitted he had handed his satchel over to Semetis and that the latter had placed the money in a safety deposit box at the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank. Semetis said that they had planned the theft in a pool-room. Both were charged with conspiracy and larceny by bailee.

SUPPORT ASKED FOR BILL TO BAR FIREWORKS SALE

'Bootlegging' Peril Cited in City Club Appeal.

Concerted action by public officials, organizations, and publications interested in public safety for the support of a bill pending in Springfield to put a state-wide ban on 4th of July fireworks was urged yesterday by Warren G. Bailey, chairman of the streets and public safety committee of the City club.

Mr. Bailey sent out several hundred letters explaining the need for state legislation to stop the "bootlegging" of fireworks into Chicago from roadside stands outside the city limits. It was explained that the bill is directed against dangerous explosives and is not intended to prevent the use of fireworks in displays that are under proper supervision.

"Bootlegging" Trouble Cited.

"A great deal of the difficulty has been due to the fact that fireworks of all types can be sold outside the limits of the city and its suburbs and 'bootlegged' into the city, notwithstanding the adequate ordinances in the city," said Mr. Bailey. "For the purpose of overcoming this defect we have prepared a suggested bill limiting the sale and use of fireworks throughout the state, except where proper permits and supervision is given to their use in special exhibits or celebrations."

The bill has been introduced in the house by Representative Thomas J. O'Brien of Chicago and is expected to be acted upon within the next week or ten days.

The City club appeal in behalf of the O'Brien bill came on the heels of the presentation of an ordinance to the city council which would have an exactly opposite effect. The proposed ordinance was immediately condemned by the city's fire prevention officials.

Want City Ban Lifted.

The Lakeside Railway Signal company, fireworks manufacturers of Beloit, Wis., sent the ordinance to the city clerk. Under its terms all of the smaller and less dangerous kinds of fireworks could be sold and used within the city. Merchants handling the fireworks would pay the city a $100 fee for the privilege of selling them between July 1 and 4 each year.

Chief George E. Graves and Capt. Martin Carlson, fire prevention officials of the fire department, expressed their opposition to the proposed ordinance or to any other attempt to modify the present city ordinance prohibiting fireworks altogether. Any letting down of the bars, they declared, would tend to increase the July 4 death and accident toll.

The proposed ordinance will come before the council at its next business session, April 27.

ARRESTED

LADY MARY HEATH.

Detroit, Mich., April 22.—[Special.]—Failing to appear to answer a charge of being drunk, Lady Mary Heath, noted British flyer, was found guilty by Police Magistrate D. M. Brodie of the Windsor police court this morning and fined $10.

She and her private secretary, G. A. R. Williams, were arrested last night in Windsor by two constables, who reported that Lady Mary's car was being driven erratically and that Lady Mary was attempting to take the wheel from Williams, who was driving.

Showing no anger at the police, Lady Mary discussed the night's events at the hotel with frankness. She was attired in black silk pajamas, trimmed in blue.

"I had to sleep on a hard wooden bench until 7 o'clock this morning," Lady Mary said. "I wasn't drunk. The men at the police station know that I wasn't, and they were angry at the constable for arresting me. I had two beers and a small whisky at the party, and every one knows one can't become intoxicated on that."

CANNON ABLE TO ARGUE CASE BUT NOT TO TESTIFY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 22.—[Special.]—Bishop James Cannon Jr. has written the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures that he is not strong enough to examine his bank accounts and files in connection with the $65,300 campaign contribution which the committee has under inspection, but he thinks he might be able to meet the committee to show them why their inquiry is not legal.

BISHOP JAMES CANNON JR.

The committee made public the bishop's letters today in answering his challenge of their authority to inquire into the use he made of the $65,000 furnished by E. C. Jameson for the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia in 1928.

Bishop Cannon's protestations of ill health were in part answers to a letter written by Senator Gerald P. Nye, insurgent Republican of North Dakota, to the bishop's physician, Dr. R. L. Sexton, calling attention to published reports of Bishop Cannon's activities in California, where he is taking treatments for rheumatism. The reports told of various public appearances by Bishop Cannon.

"These things," wrote Senator Nye, "tend to make it appear the bishop is merely making sport of the committee."

Bishop Cannon's replies said his exertions were moderate and made only on his doctor's orders. His activity as presiding officer of his church's general missionary conference at New Orleans, to which Senator Nye had referred, was, he said, "purely perfunctory."

"While my physician here indicates I may not be strong enough to take up the work of examining in detail my bank accounts and my files and preparing for an an appearance before the committee on factual matters involved in the investigation," he said, "yet he thinks it is possible I may be able to meet the committee with or without counsel for the purpose of this legal discussion any time after May 11."

CAKES AND PIES HAVE IMPORTANT DIET VALUE

Their Flavorful Goodness Makes a Meal Complete

America has made its pastry popular the world over. And of all desserts, few can be made in more pleasing varieties than pies and cakes.

Every normal person should have pastry frequently, because it helps balance the diet. A piece of fruit pie, or a slice of light-textured cake, is an ideal ending to a meal composed of meat, and vegetables, both leafy and starchy.

If you don't make your own pies and cakes, the ingredients and manufacturing methods employed by modern bakers, great and small, insure the highest quality in these popular American desserts. Their freshness can be depended upon and their price is within reach of all.

A nationally known nutritional authority recommends a generous vegetable salad followed by a piece of pie, cake or any similar dessert for those dieting in order to reduce weight. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

FARM BELT WILL HEAR DEFENSE OF HOOVER POLICIES

Will Uphold Tariff and Relief Program.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—(AP)—Republican leaders determined today to carry to the farm belt a vigorous defense of the tariff and the farm board.

In the face of recent Republican slaps at the high tariff law a group of party leaders at a conference today outlined a campaign of "ecopomic instruction" for the agricultural area, including insistence upon maintenance of a higher standard of living in this country.

Walter Newton, executive secretary to President Hoover; Secretary Hyde, Senator Dickinson of Iowa, and other Republicans in the administration circle participated. The conference was called to map out the party drive in the middle west.

Dickinson to Direct Campaign.

Senator Dickinson, chairman of the Republican agriculture advisory council, will direct the campaign, which he describes as "economic rather than political." He will leave next week for headquarters in Des Moines.

It is the apparent intention of the administration to prepare for the proposed Democratic issue in 1932 of economic recovery. Moreover, there is an apparent willingness on the part of the Hoover forces to center the next presidential race on the tariff and agriculture issues rather than the more controversial prohibition subject.

The program adopted today followed closely the recent thrust at the high tariff by Representative Snell of New York, a Republican candidate for speaker, and a more general attack upon tariff walls of all nations by W. W. Atterbury, Republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania.

Senator Dickinson said the conferees agreed upon a threefold program: "First, discussion of world economic conditions; second, a defense of the tariff; and third, a vindication of the farm board."

Reports of the administration farm experts at the meeting were to the effect that the agriculture situation is "steadying." There was no discussion of additional or supplementary legislation. Nor was there any indication of any change in policy on the part of the farm board from its program for gradual disposition of last year's tremendous wheat surplus now on its hands.

Growers May Sue Farm Board.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 22.—(AP)—George E. Suis, president, today announced the North Dakota-Montana Wheat Growers' association has severed "all connection with the farm board." The association, he said, will continue operating independently and may bring legal action to recover claims totaling $620,805.93, which it has lodged against the farm board.

Charging "the public's money has been lavishly spent, much of it going to sources which had no right to benefit from the stabilization efforts of the federal farm board, Suis, who is also a vice president of the National Grain corporation, said:

"If farm relief is to be what the federal farm board has handed agriculture through their co-operatives to date, it is certain that members of the North Dakota-Montana Wheat Growers' association have had all of that kind of relief they want."

AUTOGYRO CONVERTS WHITE HOUSE LAWN INTO A FLYING FIELD

JAMES G. RAY.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—[Special.] — A Pitcairn autogyro "windmill" airplane landed and took off from the south lawn of the White House grounds today, the first time such a feat has been attempted. James G. Ray, vice president and pilot of the Pitcairn-Cierva Autogyro company staged the landing exhibition as a feature of the presentation by President Hoover of the Collier air trophy to Harold F. Pitcairn and his associates.

President Hoover and a group of distinguished guests, including Orville Wright, who was awarded the Collier trophy in 1911 for his pioneer work in the field of aviation, were present when the airplane, its revolving wings whirling in windmill fashion, dropped on the lawn less than 200 feet from the White House. Mrs. Hoover and her grandchildren, Herbert Hoover III. and Peggy, watched from the south portico. The space in which the plane landed is about 300 by 100 feet bounded on one end by the White House and the other by a water fountain.

BUTTER AND EGGS SELL AT LOWEST IN TWENTY YEARS

BY PAUL POTTER.

With butter and eggs selling in Chicago's wholesale markets at the lowest prices in twenty years yesterday, dairy and poultry industry leaders from coast to coast were meeting here with officials of the federal department of agriculture and the federal farm board to take stock of current and oncoming conditions.

Butter scoring 92 per cent was selling at 22¼ cents a pound and "fresh first" grade eggs at 16½ cents a dozen. Not since April, 1911, when butter was bringing 21 cents, and May, 1911, when eggs sold for 16 cents, have such bargain counter offerings prevailed, according to C. L. Pier of the federal market news service.

Retail Trade to Benefit.

That these low prices would be reflected within a few days in the retail trade was the prediction of several brokers in the Chicago Mercantile exchange, and by officials of several chain stores with Chicago branches. Farm leaders attending the two day session that ended last night also expected increased consumption as a result of the low prices.

"Even at the present distressing prices dairy farmers and poultrymen who are grading and marketing extra quality products are in a more favorable position, comparatively, than many others who rely upon grains or other products for income." This was the statement of Roy C. Potts, chief of the federal bureau of poultry and dairy products, while in Chicago on his return to Washington from an extended study of conditions in the south, west and middle west.

Potts predicted from his survey that, with cheap feed and with cows and hens on hand, farmers would continue production during the spring and summer as a means of cash income regardless of cost, but that improvement in prices and curtailed production might be expected next fall. C. E. Eckles, also of the federal bureau, reported that a survey over some 2,500 miles of territory indicated similar probability.

Discuss Conditions at Meetings.

At the call of William Schilling, member of the farm board, a meeting of dry milk and skim milk producers of the nation was held at the Bismarck hotel on Monday. Yesterday, following the annual meeting of the American Dry Milk institute, a committee of nine which Schilling appointed was considering means of readjusting production of the nation's dairy products and of increasing consumption.

C. E. Gray, president of the institute and chairman of the farm board's new committee, expressed the belief that more milk would be used in bread baking than ever before. He asserted that more milk was already being used in bread than in previous years.

That farmers would gain from skimming their milk, selling the cream for butter, and feeding the skimmed product to chickens or live stock, or even throwing it away, was the final recommendation of the conferences.

WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES.

Mrs. Katie Owen, 78 years old, died at the county hospital yesterday of injuries incurred in a fall ten days ago in front of her home at 1855 West 100th place.

SEES PERPETUAL PERMIT IN CAR FRANCHISE OFFER

Lawyer Continues Attack on Transit Plan.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Attorney Stephen A. Foster, in behalf of two taxpayers, yesterday continued his attack in Superior Judge William J. Lindsay's court on the validity of the local transportation plan. It was his second day of argument.

He contends that the franchise offered to the new consolidated transit company is null and void because of defects in the ordinance and because, he asserts, that the terminable permit law, the transit commission act, the subway act, and the amendments to the corporation act and to the railroad act are in conflict with the Illinois constitution.

Mr. Foster confined his argument yesterday to the transit commission and the terminable permit acts, and it is expected, therefore, that he will require a day or two more to make his arguments on the other three laws. Then Attorney Walter L. Fisher will reply for the city.

Attacks Terminable Permit.

Mr. Foster said the terminable permit law, which conferred authority upon Chicago to grant a terminable permit to the new transportation company, violates section 13 of article 4 of the state constitution because "it does not express in its title, but in fact conceals, the subject of said act." The title says that it is "an act conferring powers upon municipalities to grant terminable permits."

"The act does not grant authority to grant a terminable permit," said Attorney Foster. "It grants authority to give an indeterminate or perpetual franchise. There are three insurmountable obstacles to granting a terminable permit.

Lawyer Lists Obstacles.

"First, the city lacks the financial power to terminate the permit. Second, it lacks the corporate power, and third, the people will not vote in a referendum to purchase and operate the transit system. The only way to terminate it is by purchase. It cannot be terminated for misuse or nonuse. This franchise opens the door for abominable or no service, and the city cannot terminate the franchise therefor.

"If the city chooses to terminate by purchase, it must buy the property as a unit. That means the city must dig up $260,000,00 in cash at present, and in 10 years $460,000,000 in cash. The city is within $28,000,000 to $33,00,000 of its power to borrow. The city lacks the financial alibity to buy.

"If the city had the cash and legal power, it could not buy until it obtained first a vote of the people to own the transit properties and then another vote approving operation.

"The phrase 'terminable permit' was a device to fool the people. The terminable permit grants a perpetual franchise."

ARREST PUBLISHER FOR SNAPPY ITEMS ABOUT CLARA BOW

Los Angeles, Cal., April 22.—[Special.]—Two deputy United States marshals this evening arrested Fred Girnau, publisher of The Coast Reporter, sensational local paper. Girnau is accused of sending obscene matter concerning Clara Bow through the mails.

At the same time Los Angeles deputy sheriffs sought two men accused of approaching Rex Bell, movie cowboy and Clara's "boy friend," with a proposition to buy Girnau's paper outright for $25,000, $10,000 to be furnished by Bell. The two men talked to Bell in Clara's beach home. Girnau's paper devoted most of its last four weekly issues to Clara Bow.

Unable to post $1,000 bail, Girnau went to county jail. Articles in the paper stated that Daisy De Boe, Clara's recently convicted ex-secretary, had disclosed many of the sensational revelations of Clara's love life. Miss De Boe denied this tonight. She also denied giving Girnau an affidavit providing him with material. Miss De Boe is out on a writ, pending high court decision on her appeal for a new trial.

37TH CONVICTION IS OBTAINED IN VAGRANCY DRIVE

Alcock Avers Campaign Is Proving Effective.

Prosecutions under the vagrancy law have been effective against the underworld, Acting Police Commissioner Alcock declared yesterday following the 37th vagrancy conviction in the Municipal court.

Henry Robinson, 44 years old, confessed bootlegger, companion of Frankie Foster when the latter was arrested in California last August in connection with the Lingle murder, was No. 37 on the list of those convicted. He was fined $100 by Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the South State street court. A total of 105 cases have been brought to trial since the vagrancy campaign was started last year.

"Making Progress," Says Alcock.

"Unquestionably we are making progress," said Acting Commissioner Alcock. "There have been some failures because of incomplete evidence, but in the carefully planned cases we are getting convictions. In my opinion the vagrancy prosecutions have been successful."

Twelve policemen testified against Robinson and branded him an outlaw and a vagabond. Sergt. Harry O'Connell of the Des Plaines street station testified that in August, 1929, Robinson participated in an extortion scheme and Detectives William Drury and John Howe told of Robinson's assertions that he was a bootlegger when he was questioned on a robbery charge.

On that occasion Robinson was released on $2,500 bond, which was forfeited. Evidence also was submitted to show that he was convicted of robbery in Reading, Pa., and sentenced for vagrancy and petty offenses in Toledo, O.

The 36 other police characters who have been convicted on vagrancy charges, as listed by Police Attorney William Luthardt, are:

Sam Sirota	Maurice Quirk
Charles Furnish	Frank Davis
Otis Balfour	Samuel Wilson
Bernard Scully	Curley Perkins
Frank Buglio	Edward Schon
Alexander Pope	George Overheidt
James Gay	Charles Miller
Jettie Brown	Thomas Fredinardo
Charles Ellis	Joseph Centorno
William Elmbeer	James Howard
Louis Trust	John Austin
Vincent Chapa	Robert Burns
Ulysses Childress	David Fleming
"Captain" Freeman	Patrick O'Brien
James Garvey	John Peterson
Henry Ellis	Vito Montalbano
William Duggan	Albert Busilio
Joe Battaglia	Richard Smith

The Robinson case was one of three vagrancy cases before Judge McCarthy yesterday, the other defendant being Sam Jacobson, alias "Sammy the Greener" and Sam Kaplan. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Klenha moved to have these cases nolle prossed. Judge McCarthy, however, continued them until May 4.

Suggests New Weapon.

Another development yesterday in the campaign against lawlessness was a recommendation by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court that the habitual criminal act be applied to men who are rearrested while on probation. Judge David informed State's Attorney Swanson that these men, if found guilty, could be sent to the penitentiary for life.

OF THE CHAMPAGNE OF GINGER ALES

When Canada Dry first came down from Canada, it became—almost overnight—the most talked-about beverage in the world.

And last week, history repeated itself. In the locker rooms of country clubs, over bridge tables in the afternoon, as friends met during the day, there was one subject of conversation which was good news to every one—"I see Canada Dry has reduced its price."

More value than ever

At its new low price the value of Canada Dry is outstanding—convincingly so. Its wonderful flavor, its gay sparkle, its distinctive charm have made it the preferred ginger ale all over the world. Yet in spite of its superior quality, Canada Dry is now priced well within the range of all other ginger ales.

3 to 5 cents lower

As in the past, the new low price of Canada Dry will vary. Sometimes, particularly at night, or when it is iced or delivered, it may be slightly more because of the extra service. But in all cases, you will find that a bottle of Canada Dry is now 3 to 5 cents cheaper than before.

Take advantage of this low price and have The Champagne of Ginger Ales always on hand for your parties and for the family's enjoyment. You'll find it very convenient to buy the handy Hostess Package.

RADIO "UNFAIR" ON ADVERTISING, PUBLISHERS SAY

Time for Drastic Action, Report Asserts.

New York, April 22.—[Special.]—Radio advertising, which was only a lusty infant five years ago, has grown into a formidable and unfair competitor of newspapers and is annually making vast inroads on publishers' revenues, according to a report today by the radio committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, in annual convention at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The report is signed by Elmer Roberts, publisher of the St. Louis Star, as chairman; Amon G. Carter, John S. Cohen and J. R. Knowland.

It asserts, among other things, that the American newspaper publisher has been "just as shortsighted in recognizing radio competition as railroad men were in recognizing bus and truck competition ten years ago."

But, the report intimates, the newspapers have only themselves to blame, since it has been "the habit of newspapers generally to nurture radio's growth like a fond mother."

Overexploitation Seen.

"The conclusion is inescapable," the report continued, "that a large part of the lineage loss of newspapers is the price paid by them for the privilege of overexploiting radio."

"With radio as a major industry," it said, "there is no more reason for newspapers to exploit it than for radio to exploit newspapers. The radio does not announce the contents of the daily newspapers, except, of course, in a few newspaper owned stations, and there is no reason for newspapers to do it for radio."

Propose U. S. Regulation.

Speakers who proposed remedies for what they called unfair competition on the part of radio broadcasters suggested not only government regulation but the elimination of radio programs from newspapers except in the form of paid advertisements.

The formidable nature of radio competition is shown in a study just completed by the advertising bureau of the association and included in the report. This study covers 212 companies using newspaper, magazine, and radio advertising. Whereas the percentage of radio advertising was negligible in 1926, it has amounted for the first three months of 1931 to 59.2 per cent of the total spent by these companies for newspaper lineage.

Comparative Figures Given.

Following are the comparative figures of the last three years:

1928—Newspapers, $93,604,000; magazines, $60,366,208; radio, $7,366,289.

1929 — Newspapers, $108,481,000; magazines, $77,554,709; radio, $23,201,825.

1930—Newspapers, $86,053,797; magazines, $77,554,709; radio, $23,201,825.

These 212 companies are all, presumably, national advertisers.

On the "unfair" side of the subject, the report points out that none of the laws against lotteries or other restrictions surrounding the newspapers have as yet been applied to radio.

Col. R. R. McCormick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in presenting the report of the committee on freedom of the press, said that "All over this country and the world the general principles of individual rights are under attack."

"Governments everywhere feel more free to assail what used to be called individual rights," declared Col. McCormick. "Next year I hope to bring before this assembly a concrete plan for defense. Collectively newspapers can resist assault on any one of us. Usually the one assaulted is weak. We owe it to our industry as a whole to come to the defense of those attacked. A successful attack on freedom of the press in Bangor, Me., proves oppressive even in Hollywood, Cal."

The committee report said that the appeal against the so called Minnesota gag law under which the courts of that state are permitted to issue injunctions against any publication declared to be "malicious, scandalous or defamatory," had been taken to the United States Supreme court in January of this year and that a decision was expected shortly.

Mrs. Hilda Schroeder, once wealthy head of a bond and mortgage company bearing her name at 10 North Clark street, probably will know today whether she is to be held liable for the loss of the funds of many of her clients. She was placed on trial yesterday before a jury in Judge Charles A. Williams' Criminal court and by evening the evidence in the first of the fourteen embezzlement indictments against her was completed.

Closing arguments will be made this morning and the case will be given to the jury for deliberation by early afternoon.

CAMEL

soon to be announced

IT is expected the judges in the $50,000 Camel Cigarette Prize Contest will be able to render their decision within a short time and that public announcement of the prize winners can be made soon.

At this time the officers and directors of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company wish to thank the nearly a million men and women for their interest in entering this contest. We wish to assure you also, most emphatically, that every single letter received, despite the enormity of the task, is being carefully read and studied.

It is because of the extreme care being taken to insure the absolute fairness of this contest that we ask you to be patient just a little longer.

Entries in the Camel cigarette $50,000 prize contest were received so fast that it was more than a week after the close of the contest before all the mail could be opened. In this pile were more than 500,000 letters awaiting reading by the judges and their staff.

THE VIEW FROM HOSPITAL WINDOWS.

The legislature is to be asked shortly to indorse the proposal to establish a state park surrounding the medical center on the west side. If adopted, the plan will preserve to the people of Illinois one of their greatest if least appreciated assets.

There are more than 4,000 hospital beds concentrated within a few blocks of the Cook county hospital. In no other area in this country, and perhaps in the world, is there so rich an opportunity for the study and treatment of disease. In addition to the county hospital there are, among others, the Presbyterian, University, and West Side hospitals and the Durand hospital for contagious diseases. Rush Medical college, the University of Illinois medical school, and numerous training schools for nurses are established nearby.

While these institutions have grown steadily through the years, the neighborhood in which they are situated has as steadily deteriorated. There is no disguising the fact. Our hospital windows open on mean streets, noisy, dusty and depressing. Our nurses, internes and medical students are obliged to live in a quarter of the city which might well be the last they would choose under other circumstances. The surroundings are as unfavorable as possible for study and retard recovery from disease as well.

Students from all over Illinois come to this area and are obliged to spend three years in the midst of it. The sick from all sections of the state, seeking expert treatment in Chicago, are faced with the squalor of a run-down neighborhood. Unless the surroundings are made more attractive it is certain that the enormous investment already made in hospitals and schools will be in large part wasted. One after another the institutions will be removed to more attractive neighborhoods, and the most fertile field in the state for medical studies and research will be lost.

Fortunately, the cost of reclaiming the district is far from prohibitive. Land values have depreciated in many instances, and buildings for the most part have long outlived their usefulness. The tearing down of whole blocks of them will cause no hardship to the community. When the mean streets have been replaced by open spaces, attractively planted, the hospital center will be secure for generations to come.

THE COMPULSORY SCHOOL AGE.

Mr. Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the Committee on Child Welfare Legislation, has written to THE TRIBUNE at some length in justification of the proposal to raise the compulsory school age. His letter was published in the Voice of the People on April 16.

At present in Illinois a child may not go to work until he is 14, and if he goes to work then he must attend continuation school until he is 16. The proposed law would forbid children from working until they are 16 and would require them to attend continuation school until 18.

Mr. Chandler has supplied interesting statistical material. He reports that in the decade from 1920 to 1930 the number of children between 14 and 16 certified for employment in Chicago fell from 20,000 to 2,500. Several conclusions might be drawn from these figures. Either the law is being generally evaded, which leads to the conclusion that a more exacting law would be even more generally evaded, or the necessity for changing the law is not great. If in the face of increased population only an eighth as many children of 14 are employed today as were employed ten years ago, child labor, so-called, is disappearing spontaneously at the will of parents and children.

Mr. Chandler notes that "only a small number of children, fast decreasing, are employed now below the age of 16. That number, however, would seem to be entitled to protection against premature labor which a law would give them." Not content with the progress achieved, he would employ the force of law to keep a boy in school even though teachers, parents, and the child were agreed that the boy was getting no benefit from formal education and, on the contrary, was acquiring habits of mind which would handicap him for the rest of his life.

This may work a serious injustice to the boy, his parents, and society. The fact must be recognized that all children of a given age are not alike and that in the adolescent years, especially, their differences are most striking. Some children reach the critical period earlier than others. Adult passions appear in some youngsters at an age when most of their contemporaries are still immature. These passions characteristically are unrestrained by the experience which comes with greater maturity. The home and school guide the great majority safely through this difficult period, but there are not a few individuals who would be steadied by the sterner discipline of regular employment, but will deteriorate under enforced school attendance. It is in the adolescent years that criminal tendencies are likely to develop. Veteran policemen are agreed that the boy with a job does not commonly get into trouble. His excess energies are absorbed in his work.

Raising the compulsory school age may do some children good, but it is at least as likely to do great harm to others. The case for amending the law is still far from proved.

SOME POINTS IN THE VETO.

Gov. Emmerson's veto of the prohibition repeal presented several assumptions which are worth a second consideration. One contained an idea of duty. The governor exercised a privilege. No duty was involved. An executive might think of his privilege as a duty in some circumstances, if, for instance, a legislature in excitement or without proper consideration had passed a foolish act. A proper conception of duty could prompt a veto. The personal judgment of an executive is always sufficient reason for disapproval. But duty is a strained word when it is attached to a decision to negate a public policy long debated, many times voted upon, approved by a great majority of the people voting on the question and then passed by a legislature.

Duty is not then the guide of the executive. The guide may be judgment, political expediency, personal choice or almost anything other than duty. No duty is involved. Mr. Emmerson made a political decision for effect upon his own political future. That was his privilege, but it should not be called something else.

A supplement to this idea of duty was the assumption that the veto was the only protection the people had from lawlessness. Trade in alcoholic beverages could not have gained any lawful status by the repeal of the Illinois law. Such trade remained illegal and lawless and legal remedy remained for it. A source of corruption would have been stopped by the repeal, but no increase in lawlessness would have been authorized. There is plenty law in Illinois in addition to the Volstead act to abate the nuisance of liquor trade carried on in any community.

Mr. Emmerson said he was not a nullifier and thus accused the majority of the people of the state, who are desirous of modifying the liquor control laws, of attempting nullification. The prohibitionists should be held to a stricter accounting in their use of words. The denial of equal representation to Cook county is nullification. The passage of a bill for the repeal of a state law is not. One denies the authority of the constitution and makes it a dead letter. The other is provided for in the constitution and remains the right of the people in their general assembly.

WELCOME, REPUBLICAN SPAIN.

The appointment of Don Salvador de Madariaga to be the first ambassador of the Spanish republic to the United States will be most gratifying to the American people. Señor Madariaga is a distinguished man of letters whose writings have given him a European reputation. Although by birth of the Spanish aristocracy, he is a liberal who will understand the language of a democratic people, as he shares its ideals and essential political principles. His appointment is a symbol of the profound change which the entrance of Spain into the sisterhood of free nations must bring about in the relations of the Spanish and American peoples.

It has always been the American belief that democratic peoples have a treasure in their common keeping and must be drawn together by bonds of amity and understanding. That the United States was not the first to welcome republican Spain on the threshold of political freedom we hope will not be misunderstood as indicating any lack of friendly sentiment in the American people. If diplomatic commitments or any special pressure postponed the formal official act, the American people have watched the effort of the Spanish to cast off the monarchical incubus with intense sympathy and greet their success with enthusiasm. And it is this spirit which will control our policy in essential matters.

Difficulties, disappointments, and dangers wait along the path upon which republican Spain has entered. The American nation knows them well. They did not prevail over our people; they will not prevail, we are confident, in Spain. They constitute the problems of free government, the problems of civil order, of authority under liberty, of voluntary coöperation for the common prosperity and progress, of organization for advancing intelligence, of the just distribution of material wealth, and, above all else, the keeping of our faith in progress through the individual. We Americans have held and hold this faith in dark days and bright, in spite of errors and ill happenings. We hold it as a high trust and welcome the Spanish people to a share in its keeping.

Editorial of the Day

THIS REASON FLIMSY.

[Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

Gov. Emmerson made it a part of his argument, in the veto of the state "baby Volstead" law, that the popular referendum upon this subject had been voted upon by many fewer than the total number of voters who cast ballots in that election. The same fact has often been brought forward by reformers in support of their contention that the result of the referendum was somehow invalidated.

Whatever may be said about the merits of the veto, or of the wet and dry issue in general, this particular argument is flimsy and absurd. It happens to be a fact that special referendum propositions, voted upon in a general election, never receive the consideration of as many voters as does the principal ballot. Legislators have tried every expedient they could think of to change this situation, to induce the voters to declare their sentiments upon important proposals of public policy, but without success. In the election of last November they went so far as to print one referendum proposal at the head of the principal ballot.

The significant fact is that the referendum proposals having to do with prohibition, while voted upon by much less than the whole electorate, received at the same time a much larger vote than did any other referendum question presented. The proposal for women to serve on juries was decided by a quarter of a million fewer voters than was the proposal for prohibition repeal, but nobody has ever questioned the validity of that decision. The proposal for amendment of the state banking act was voted upon by fewer still, but everybody accepted the verdict of those voters who did vote upon it.

This is the common and the necessary interpretation of elections of all sorts in any government pretending to democracy. No government is conducted by persons who fail to vote, nor is there any method of canvassing an election by speculating upon the motives of the nonvoters.

THE ENEMY, TUBERCLE BACILLUS.

THAT tuberculosis is coming under control is one conclusion which Prof. Van Es draws from the most extensive research on types of tuberculosis that has ever been conducted in America, if not in the world. His conclusion is based on the small number of specimens of tuberculosis in children and the larger proportion of bovine tuberculosis in specimens received from adult human beings. He concludes that people from whom these specimens came were infected in childhood and the disease did not develop until maturity.

The evidence indicates that few children are now being infected; that the eradication campaigns against tuberculosis in cows and those for pasteurization of milk are accomplishing results. While Prof. Van Es works at the University of Nebraska, his specimens came from without as well as within his state. He found that the tubercle bacillus which caused far the greater part of tuberculosis in human beings was the human bacillus. The campaign to control consumption in human beings needs to be bolstered. It is not keeping pace with that directed against bovine tuberculosis.

Another conclusion is that man has but little to fear from avian tuberculosis, at least in America. Of all the tubercular specimens from human beings, gathered from widely scattered sources, there was not one which contained avian tubercle bacilli. Some cases of avian tuberculosis in humans have been reported from Europe, but, says the essayist, "the hazard, at least in this country, is apparently a slight one." However, we must not hold the danger of avian tuberculosis too lightly. Any type of tubercle bacillus, however harmless, may become harmful. We must not accept any one of them as being a friend, or even as a friendly enemy.

The avian bacillus may not endanger man's life, but it eats big holes in his pocketbook. Tuberculosis in chickens is very expensive and practically all of that and much of the hog tuberculosis are due to the avian bacillus.

This study of Dr. Van Es showed that the human bacillus was responsible for most of the bone and gland tuberculosis in humans. The old teaching that surgical tuberculosis was generally contracted from cows and rarely from humans was probably true once upon a time, but it is no longer so.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES.

E. B. H. writes:

1. What is the difference between hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure?
2. What, if anything, can be done about it?
3. Does it make any difference what one eats?
4. Or drinks? Coffee, for instance.

REPLY.

1. High blood pressure is the usual and principal symptom of hardening of the arteries.
2. Much can be done for high blood pressure in the stage in which fluctuation in the pressure is marked. Less can be done in later stages.
3. Yes, though diet is not the most important factor in cause or cure.
4. About the same as answer to No. 3. By stopping coffee one may contribute to comfort in many cases.

TRENCH MOUTH.

H. N. writes:

1. What is trench mouth?
2. What are the causes?
3. Are teeth extractions necessary?

REPLY.

1. An infection of some part of the mouth with two certain micro-organisms in combination. This causes inflammation and ulceration.
2. Lack of mouth cleanliness is the principal contributing cause. Infection is the direct cause.
3. Eventual extraction of some teeth may be advisable. Immediate extraction is not.

HERPES OF LIPS.

B. C.: I have an eleven year old boy who very often gets blisters on the lower lip. What is the cause? The cure? The child says they are painful.

REPLY.

I presume the boy has attacks of herpes. If so, he should change his habits. How about his bowels and eating habits? Sleeping sickness has been known to follow herpes of the lips or fever blisters.

CITIZENSHIP AND CHANGE OF NAME

Chicago, April 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I was married in the year 1924 to a citizen of the United States. Does that make me a citizen also? If not, what proceedings do I have to go through to get my papers? What should a person do if he wants to change his name legally? D. Y.

The writer should fill out the form A-2214 attached and forward it to this office with photographs and money order as described on the back of the form. After a record of her arrival shall have been verified she will be notified to appear with her witnesses. The naturalization law provides that at the time of naturalization an applicant for citizenship may have his name changed by order of the court.

GRATUITOUS SERVICE.

Chicago, April 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am taking care of my aged mother and have been doing so for the last five years. I have two brothers who have not contributed any money for her board or doctor bills. She has a will made which gives all her property to her eldest son. Can we put in a claim for her board and other expenses after she passes away? A. B. C.

The law presumes that such services, between near relatives, are gratuitous. You should insist on a proper settlement during her lifetime.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, April 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a man who has failed in business and who is being continually harassed by his creditors, and unable to hire an attorney, secure the necessary relief at a minimum cost? Kindly advise what procedure to follow. V. C.

You can purchase the printed forms for petition and schedules at a stationery store. After studying them, you might discuss with the clerk of the United States District court the feasibility of handling the matter for yourself, including preparation of a pauper affidavit.

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M. S.

THE KING WHO STAYS.

The twilight of the kings has come,
One by one crowned heads succumb;
Thrones are covered with dust and mold,
Or in auction shops wait to be sold;
But, hold! In one land they make the welkin ring
With the gladsome chorus, "God Save the King!"
Though politics may convulse and throb,
There's one king sure he's got a job;
When exiled monarchs sob and moan,
He smiles and lays a cornerstone;
If alarms are spread from sea to sea,
He smiles again and goes to tea;
For kings may rise, then fade away;
But England's king is there to stay.

Red Russia shot the czar to death,
Bill Hohenzollern ran 'til out of breath.
The sultan of Turkey dropped from sight,
The Greeks bade their king a last good-night.
The Portuguese monarch had to scoot,
Then Alfonzo Bourbon got the boot.
The Italian king thought he'd better get,
But the Duce now keeps him for a pet.

For kings may rise, then fade away;
But England's king is there to stay.

CHARLEY SCHWAB says to the married ladies: "Spend all you can, never mind what your husband says; that is the best way to spread prosperity." And we will guarantee any lady that she will not only spread prosperity that way, but she can also be pretty sure that she'll be the best dressed woman in the poorhouse. And that's something.

"WHEN KAISER BEGAN to question the speaker," says the esteemed Her-Ex, "the party on the other end slammed the receiver." What kind of a party was it at the other end, please? A tea party, a dinner party, a bridge party, or the Republican party? But what's the use? Just when we've shamed four telephone girls into promising not to refer to a person as a party along comes this cruel blow. We give up!

BILLY SUNDAY, the w. k. evangelist, boosts Gov. Emmerson as running mate to Mr. Hoover in 1932. But Billy is too modest. Why not in 1932 let the Republican ticket be: For President, Billy Sunday; for Vice President, as he suggested, Gov. Emmerson? Any Democrat will tell you this would make a grand ticket for the Republicans.

APRIL.

April when the Dull rain drips
Points a finger
On her lips.

With her promises
Secreted,
April sees her whims
Completed.

This is wind and
This is weather
When all lovers
Stroll together;

Children linger
In the sun;
Little tasks are Left undone;

Traffic blocks each
Narrow street;
Pavements echo
Dancing feet;

Pennies saved are Counted for Trips to Spain and Singapore.

Call us old—
Laugh up your sleeve—
We will never Quite believe,

For in April's
Wind and rain
Nothing's lost and
All's to gain!

FERRY ADAMS.

SCIENTISTS who have made laborious studies for years say that ants are just like humans and support the theory by pointing out that the cunning little animals prefer blond ant-ladies for their queen, that they enslave other ants to work and harvest their crops, and that coarse, ill mannered ants are regular bandits, kidnaping respectable and well to do ants and holding them for ransom. Pretty human, all right, but we won't believe entirely that that is true until we find out that ants vote dry and drink wet.

THE IOWA LEGISLATURE, required by law to adjourn at a certain time, remained in session but kept the clock stopped for five days. Maybe that's what's the matter with Iowa. They try to fool old Father Time by keeping their clocks stopped. And it doesn't work any better than the old idea of a man's trying to raise himself by pulling up on his boot straps.

LAGNIAPPE.

BANDITS held up the Detroit city treasury the other day and got $23,000. Well, Chicago may be the bad boy among cities, but one day we don't expect we'll ever live to see is the day when bandits will hold up the city treasury and get anything.

THIS WEEK doubles up; it's both "Be Kind to Animals Week" and "Clean-Up Week." So, while you clean up, be kind to animals, especially poor father, who is hiding in the bathroom, hoping in time to be able to find his way through the water buckets, soap, heaped up rugs, paint pots, and other house cleaning paraphernalia to the kitchen, where he hopes to salvage some cold chicken and a crust of bread for his meager supper. DROWN HIM OUT

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 23, 1915.

LONDON.—From today on all steamship communication with Holland is stopped by order of the British government. Taken in connection with news from Berlin that British submarines have been in the bight of Helgoland, where the German admiralty lays claim to having sunk one, and perhaps more, this is believed to indicate that a battle is brewing in the North sea.

LONDON. — A Sofia correspondent says that fugitives from Enos, Turkey's most southwesterly port on the Aegean sea, state that following a bombardment by the allies the British landed a force at Enos and the Turkish commandant ordered the evacuation of the port.

ROME.—Rioting of a revolutionary nature is proceeding at Trieste, Austria. Serious disturbances also are reported in Bohemia.

CHICAGO. — Neighbors who have seen Mayor Harrison looking blankly at a little patch of ground in the rear of his Sheridan road home are mistaken if they think he is grieving over anything. He's not. His soul is rejoicing. He's watching his mint bed. He calls his mint juleps "a vision from Heaven." Here's his recipe: "First a large, clean glass; put in a teaspoonful of sugar and a little water. Then a life size jigger of old Virginia applejack brandy, add half a jigger of French brandy. Fill up the glass with ice, put over it a large shaker, and shake until frost gathers on the outside of the shaker. Now the mint. As you put it in give it half a twist, not enough to start the oil. Then you put your face down in this bouquet of mint and then—go to heaven." But he warns, "take just one."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 23, 1901.

LONDON.—A St. Petersburg dispatch reports a new hostile movement in Manchuria. An expedition under Gen. Alexieff has started to disperse Chinese troops who are entrenched at three points around Mukden. The Boxers are said to number many thousands, armed with Mauser rifles, and they have thirty Krupp guns.

CHICAGO.—May Yohe [Lady Francis Hope] collapsed on the stage at the Chicago Opera house. Nervous prostration was the verdict of the physician. She was a favorite here in the days of David Henderson's extravaganza troupe, after which she went to London where she married Lord Francis Hope, the second son of the late duke of Newcastle.

LONDON.—Dr. C. K. D. Tanner, the noted Irish national member of parliament for the middle division of Cork and "whip" of his party, died of consumption. He was born in 1849.

NEW YORK.—Ada Rehan, the actress, has been obliged to cancel her engagements in the west because of ill health. She returned to this city from Cleveland and is now at her home here.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 23, 1881.

CHICAGO. — Mayor Harrison and Commissioner Waller are investigating alleged crookedness on the part of some persons who have weighed coal furnished the city, and by which the city is out a considerable sum of money.

MEXICO CITY.—The alleged friendship between Gen. Grant and Gen. Diaz is injuring the latter here without benefiting the former. Many worthy people give credence to a story circulated in the old "Conservative" circles that Gen. Grant has come here in pursuance of an agreement with Diaz that he will establish a kind of protectorate to be supported by the United States.

CHICAGO.—At a city council meeting Mayor Harrison sent a message stating that the Western Indiana Railroad company has submitted a proposition for the straightening of the river south of 18th street. The mayor said that it is a needed improvement and, if it can be done without expense to the city, he did not think that opportunity should be lost of doing so.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE has received from Edwin Lee Brown $25 for the widow of John Brown, who was hanged at Harper's Ferry. It is to be hoped that many others will follow Mr. Brown's example so that a large sum may be raised for the benefit of the widow of one who did so much for his country and received so little in return.

DEPRAVITY ON SHERIDAN ROAD.

Chicago, April 20.—As one who has the good name of Chicago at heart and wishes to see her go forward to a cleaner and better goal may I take this opportunity to write on an evil that is daily becoming more a disgrace to our city? I mean the annoying of women and girls by motorists on Sheridan road. Every evening I take a stroll around this neighborhood and every time I do so I see the same things happen. No young woman can walk down any of these streets without some alleged man following in a car and offering insulting invitations to accompany him.

Lately the pests are becoming so brazen that not content with honking their horns they drive right into the curb and wait until the girl or woman comes abreast of them and then lean out and insult her.

Surely there must be some remedy for this. If a resident of the neighborhood cannot take a walk without being subjected to insult then it is time to move in the matter. Matters have reached a point of late where decent women will only go out when escorted by a male friend and it doesn't fit in with our American conception of freedom that women who have probably worked hard all day should be denied the right to take a walk in peace.

MARTIN A. TRAVERS.

HIGH TAXES.

Chicago, April 18.—I am one of those poor misguided individuals who, back in 1922, listened attentively when a real estate salesman told of the wonderful advantages of owning your own home and bought a modest frame house [50 years old] for a little less than $10,000 in Hyde Park.

The 1922 taxes were $256.47, and have gradually increased each year until the 1928 bill was $422.84, and I have just received my 1929 bill for $518.08 [an increase of $84.24 over 1928] and if that isn't confiscation of a person's property then I would like to know what is.

After receiving this last tax bill I am afraid I have turned into a sort of bolshevik, as I am thoroughly disgusted with the city and county political grafters and their methods of reassessment and taxation, and I believe the time has arrived for the taxpayers to "wake up", and assert themselves. As far as I am concerned I am going to vote "no" on all future bond issues. When I can sell my property here [which is almost impossible when a prospective buyer learns the amount of the taxes] I am going to try and find some place to live where the people are not taxed to death.

HYDE PARK TAXPAYER.

MUSIC IN THE MIDLANDS.

Dubuque, Ia., April 20.—May I correct an erroneous idea Mary Ellen Evans of Dubuque has of a symphony orchestra?

A symphony orchestra is an organization which consists of all orchestral instruments even to oboes, bassoons, etc., necessary to produce the coloring of a symphony as it should be.

I do not believe we have oboes or bassoons in any of our orchestras in Dubuque, i. e., not played in symphony orchestra fashion. Again, I have not heard a so-called symphony orchestra in Dubuque unless it had a piano in it to strengthen up weak second violins, violas, cellos and bass viols.

JOHN JONES.

AMERICAN SHIPS.

Chicago, April 20. — Mr. Henning's article on American shipping in your issue of April 19 is enough to make any red blooded American weep with chagrin that a great American newspaper writer should make such a display in the interest of certain small but noisy vested interests as against the interests of the American people as a whole.

Is British shipping so efficient that American shipping interests have to go squealing to the government for paternal legislation to prevent British ships from serving the American people? The wealthiest country in the world, whose people have the finest physique and the most brilliant brains in creation, admitting that Great Britain can lick it in the open market—how absurd.

No one likes a whiner, but the United States lines seem not to know it. Instead of servilely trying to copy their competitors and then weeping because their competitors still get business, why do they not show some originality and carry the war into the enemy's camp?

For example, in these days when speed is a sine qua non, why do the U. S. lines not concentrate on Boston instead of New York? Boston is almost half a day's sail nearer Europe, and is as near Chicago and the middle west as is New York. But no, that would never do. Chicago must go to Europe via New York, New York says so.

The British flag shipping companies already recognize that the middle west is a really important section of the country and deserves real transportation service and so they are putting their crack ships on the St. Lawrence service. Soon our cry baby American lines will be damning the middle westerners for not supporting them out of New York. JOHN GRAHAM MCDONALD.

MR. WALES' DISPATCHES.

PARIS, France, April 10.—I write to express my keen interest in the articles on Russia written by your Henry Wales which appear every day here in the Paris edition of your great daily paper. As soon as we receive THE TRIBUNE every morning our first interest is to see what Mr. Wales has written. Considering the high reputation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, we feel that we are getting the whole truth of conditions in Russia. Mr. Wales is to be highly commended for his able work. It is with pleasure that I congratulate you on having him on your staff.

THOMAS MCGREGOR.

THE ZODIAC.

Chicago, April 18.—The architect of the World's Fair Administration building apparently does not believe that ancient symbols, patterns, etc., used in modern decoration should be reproduced accurately. He has designed a zodiac unique unto himself, which, however, does make a rather fine showing on the north side of the entrance to that building. But perhaps he is not aware that the 12 signs start with Aries the ram on the upper left of the lower half of the zodiac and proceed counter clockwise in their changeless order through Taurus the bull, Gemini the twins, Cancer the crab, Leo the lion, Virgo the virgin, Libra the balance, Scorpio the scorpion, Sagittarius the archer, Capricorn the goat, Aquarius the water bearer, and Pisces the fishes.

LEON TROTSKY writes about RUSSIA

THE first leader of the Red Army, himself an exile from the country that, with Lenin, he started on its amazing career, writes his version of "The Russian Revolution."

¶ Every man or woman who seeks a true understanding of Russia's influence on today and on the future, will want to follow this vivid historical document.

¶ Carefully, colorfully and without passion, Leon Trotsky in his opening chapters traces the forces which combined to precipitate the revolution.

¶ His record is written against the flaming background of war. He shows you a weak and shallow ruler, drinking tea, taking walks, shooting crows, absorbing himself with trivialities while gigantic events conspired to destroy his dynasty.

¶ He pictures a Czar consulting hypnotists, listening to a peasant priest, eating an apple blessed by Rasputin to strengthen his will, while the Russian Army whispers ugly rumors.

¶ Could a palace revolution have saved Russia from a complete debacle? Did the plot for a palace revolution really exist? Future historians may well look to this remarkable document, written by one of the principal actors, for an answer to such questions as these.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

MISS PATTERSON BAGS RARE BEAST IN JUNGLE HUNT

Tribesmen Hold Big Feast to Celebrate Exploit.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 22.—Miss Alicia Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patterson of Chicago, arrived at Shanghai today from Indo China with the head and antlers of a rare beast known as a sladang, which she killed in the course of a big game expedition in the mountains and jungles of the interior of the French colony.

According to French officials, the sladang is the largest bovine of its type in existence, and this one is claimed to be the only specimen ever bagged by a white woman.

Escorted by Tribesmen.

Miss Patterson entered the interior of China by way of Bangkok, Siam, and Angkor and ascended the Kongquo and Kongannam rivers to a district known as Bunnethout, where natives escorted her to the mountainous area, interspersed by narrow valleys and swampy streams.

Accompanied by members of Moi aboriginal tribe as guides, she finally sighted a sladang, which she wounded. It escaped into the bamboo thickets and tall elephant grass. The natives became panicky, as the animal is ferocious when wounded.

The following day she sighted another sladang and brought it down with a Mauser 10-5 cartridge through the shoulder. The beast was coal black with a white face and feet, and its horns were four feet from tip to tip.

Natives Hold Feast.

The natives, elated by the exploit, held a feast over the carcass and staged a tom tom ceremony, part of which consisted of killing a chicken and marking a cross on Miss Patterson's forehead with chicken blood, deifying her as the "hunt lady."

Miss Patterson returned to the coast with her trophy by way of Saigon.

She reported that the revolutionary situation in Tongking makes travel in the interor precarious and that a French officer and 20 soldiers were killed during a night attack shortly before her arrival in the interior. She said the natives used poison arrows and spears. Miss Patterson will leave for Tokio on Friday.

U. S. EXPERT FIXES PERUVIAN PESO AT 28 CENTS GOLD

Lima Adopts Report of Kemmerer.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, April 22.—After banking hours at noon last Saturday, a slight, gray haired gentleman, wearing spectacles, walked into the dingy offices of the Peruvian finance minister, located in one of the older and more dilapidated corners of the government palace. The caller was Dr. Edwin W. Kemmerer of Princeton university, internationally known as a writer of financial volumes.

On the finance minister's desk he placed the concluding chapter of his latest work, compiled by himself and his staff of experts during the three months they have been in Peru. That chapter is entitled: "The stabilization of Peruvian currency on the basis of the gold standard." It recommends fixing the valuation of the Peruvian sol or peso at 28 cents in United States gold instead of 40 cents, the figure at which the late Leguia administration endeavored to peg it last February.

Recommendation Is Adopted.

A few hours later the provisional government had promulgated the Kemmerer recommendation into a national law. Actually, since the great war, the value of the Peruvian sol has fallen from 48 cents to 28 cents.

The commercial, financial and political repercussions of the Kemmerer recommendation cannot be forecast. In offices, clubs, and cafés hotly contested debates are the order of the day. Discussions of political personalities and rumors of army defections have been swept overboard by controversies over statistical figures and economic truths and fallacies.

Actually the Kemmerer recommendation fixed the sol at the value around which it has been fluctuating in recent months. It merely ratified an accomplished fact, but large sections of the community, headed by importers, who had hopes of the sol returning to a higher value, declare that Dr. Kemmerer has "sold out" to large producers of cotton, sugar and oil, who produce on low currency costs here and sell abroad in dollars.

Expect Stabilizing Effect.

Generally, however, the impartiality of the Kemmerer commission is recognized and action on its recommendations is expected to have a stabilizing effect on the political and commercial situation.

It is worthy of note that Dr. Kemmerer's personal delivery of the stabilization report, as well as the time of the delivery, was arranged deliberately. It had been known that the recommendation might fall anywhere between 20 and 40 cents and a large volume of exchange speculations hung on advance news of the exact rate.

The stabilization report is only one of eleven distinct reports made by the commission during its three months' stay here.

A second report recommending the establishment of a central reserve bank on a broader and more ample basis than the existing reserve bank was made a law on Sunday.

Yesterday in the magnificent suite of offices on the ground floor of Peru's modern reserve bank building, where the commission has worked, boxes were nailed up and archives and records of the commission prepared for shipment to the United States to accompany the members of the mission, all of whom sailed today.

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What You Think It Does?

If your car should be burned or stolen, will your insurance company pay you the amount stated in the policy? The amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. This is the policy known as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY, which covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Other services of the club are: Free mechanical first aid and towing service, home district service, accident prevention work, travel service, and bail bond service.

MAURICE L. ROTHSCHILD concentrates 71% of his advertising dollars in 1930 in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE

His 1930 Success Is Called "One of the Most Outstanding Achievements in the Clothing Industry!"

REPRINTED here is an article from the April 8th issue of the Men's Wear and Chicago Apparel Gazette. It discusses the business principles of Maurice L. Rothschild, Chicago clothing merchant since 1907.

"Satisfied with the results of his intensive advertising campaign of the past fall and winter seasons," the article begins, "Maurice L. Rothschild, head of three big men's stores bearing his name in Chicago, Minneapolis, and St. Paul, has started his spring newspaper program with practically the same type of advertising.

"The promotion of these stores was unquestionably one of the outstanding achievements in the clothing industry in 1930 . . .

"Mr. Rothschild for years has been considered one of the shrewdest clothing merchants of America. His success during the past year . . . made him probably the most discussed men's wear retailer west of the Alleghenies . . ."

Aggressive Advertising Maintains Volume for Maurice L. Rothschild

How Well Known Men's Wear Merchant Appeals to Both High Price and Low Price Customers — Forceful Promotion Plans to Be Continued Through 1931— Advises Clothiers to Do More Work and Less Loafing

SATISFIED with the results of his intensive advertising campaign of the past fall and winter seasons, Maurice L. Rothschild, head of three big men's stores bearing his name in Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul, has started his spring newspaper program with practically the same type of advertising. The promotion of these stores was unquestionably one of the outstanding achievements in the clothing industry in 1930.

The Rothschild advertising has been successful because it accomplished two definite purposes—convinced the buyers of the finer ready-made apparel that they could receive the utmost in style and tailoring, and sold buyers of medium priced clothing who wanted the same merchandise for less money that they could find this merchandise in these stores. Thus, they were able to hold both types of customers. The advertising was probably more convincing because of its aggressive, attractive and at times drastic presentation.

Mr. Rothschild for years has been considered one of the shrewdest clothing merchants of America. His success during the past year, when innumerable stores near him were suffering from general business depression, made him probably the most discussed men's wear retailer west of the Alleghenies.

It might be interesting to mention that Mr. Rothschild is more than a few years past 60 and probably the wealthiest independent retail clothier in the world. His personal fortune, it is said, is approximately $15,000,000. Yet, Mr. Rothschild recently said without a twinkle in his eyes that he couldn't afford to loaf, play golf or stay away from business.

"Had to stay on the job and work," he explained one day in the middle of a week after demonstrating that about 100 men and women were busheling garments sold by the Chicago store. "And my men worked hard. It was and is imperative that we give our customers greater values and service than they had ever received. It can't be done hitting a ball around the golf course."

Advertising Describes Policy

Spending more money in newspaper advertising than possibly any other independent clothier in the country, the Rothschild advertising in 1930 carried a more definite message than at any time in years. More than $500,000 was spent for newspaper advertising by the Chicago store last year. The copy was devoted not merely to description of merchandise. In most simple language a big story was told. One of the ads which pictured the Rothschild policy was headlined, "We're aggressive, but in our eagerness to serve and to bring you big values we've never lost sight of quality." This ad goes on to say, "We've grown in prestige, as we've grown in size—and we've grown both in size and prestige by giving just such quality and value offerings as this one." The ad stressed the wholesale surplus of a high grade clothing manufacturer, silk-lined suits and overcoats at $55.

The fall and winter campaign of this store was especially noteworthy. Almost every clothing ad was headlined with a convincing argument dealing with the strength of value, quality or service rendered by the store. Action seemed to be the keynote of the copy.

One of the large advertisements had a 36-point headline, "Turning dreams into deeds." The message followed with "This is a time for action—prompt, vigorous, drastic action. We've acted—promptly, vigorously, drastically. We've dreamed our dreams, and turned them into deeds. We've created the finest clothes the world knows how to produce—and we're offering them at a price that is down within the means of thousands instead of hundreds—unquestionably the greatest values of our entire career."

Believes Public Knows Quality

Although many of the Rothschild advertisements had a "sale" tone, the store counteracted this impression by the offering of high grade merchandise. Mr. Rothschild asserts that while the public is looking at prices more critically than ever before, it is still cognizant of quality. In this manner, the store could not be associated with low price establishments which constantly are staging sales of ordinary merchandise. Thus Mr. Rothschild discounts the possibility of declining volume in the future through his present methods is evidenced in the caption of another recent advertisement in which he stated, "We're laying the foundation for still greater business with values that are powerful and irresistible." As a concluding argument on value, one piece of copy declared, "The secret of the success of this institution is simple—we've always offered the finest qualities at the very lowest possible values."

"Don't Wish for Business—Work for It"

As a clear illustration of Mr. Rothschild's contention that more work brings satisfactory results, he published an editorial advertisement on New Year's Day. It mentioned no special offering or any merchandise. It started with "New Year's greetings and a New Year's suggestion" and went on to say, "Don't wish for business—work for it. We haven't wished for business—we've worked for it. Worked with service, with quality, with values, and business has come to us. We have today more people at work than a year ago, and we haven't had to reduce any salaries either. This isn't a brag—just a suggestion."

Building Good Will

The factor of good will is not ignored by "M. L.," as he is known to the trade. The headline of one advertisement read, "Good will means more to us than anything else—and we're making this great store to earn it." Almost identical reiteration was made in another "good will" ad, in which the store claimed that it is doing everything humanly possible to earn good will.

"This institution is built on the fundamental principle of making customers—not merely sales," read one of the closing advertisements in the fall and winter quality-value-service campaign. "This great event (referring to the offering of silk lined suits and overcoats at $55) is our way of living up to that principle. They're clothes of striking superiority—suits and overcoats of every type—as fine as human hands can produce—the finest fabrics loomed, richest, costliest silk linings."

Comprehensive Stocks Important

Mr. Rothschild has said on several occasions that progressive stores ought to carry comprehensive stocks. Although the store at State and Jackson streets was enlarged last September, it was necessary at times to pile garments on cases in the department. He has persevered in the thought that customers should be able to find what they want in his store, and that their tastes were within reason.

Mr. Rothschild, himself, selects many patterns and styles for the men's and young men's clothing lines. He keeps in close touch with the types of merchandise selling throughout the store by devoting some time each day in the various departments. The Chicago store is reported to do about $1,000,000 annually, and those in the Twin Cities do about as large.

TIBETAN TROOPS INVADE AND LOOT CHINA PROVINCE

Report British Subjects Leading New Revolt.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, April 22.—The Nanking government is alarmed over the situation in Szechwan province, on the Tibetan border, where the danger of warfare between Tibet and China is reported to be growing increasingly serious.

Only meager details are available from the frontier, where Tibetan troops loyal to the dalai lama, head of the Tibetan government, have forcibly entered the newly created Hsikang province, the capital of which is Batang. British subjects are reported to be commanding the dalai lama's troops, but the legations here doubt this.

How Dispute Began.

A dispute between the adherents of two Buddhist temples located on opposite sides of a small stream known as the Small Golden Sand river precipitated the trouble.

Since this high tableland of Central Asia, popularly known as the "roof of the world," is largely controlled by priests, fights between the adherents of rival temples are of frequent occurrence. But in the present instance the situation seems to be more serious, as it has involved the relations of China and Tibet.

The real seat of the trouble appears to be based on Tibetan animosities created by China's attempt to carve a new province out of the Hsikang district. Hsikang is located almost due west of Szechwan province, on the long overland trail that connects China and Lhasa, capital of Tibet.

Order Cessation of Fighting.

The national government has issued a mandate ordering a cessation of fighting. A delegation representing the Mongolian and Tibetan affairs committee in the Chinese capital has been sent to the scene of hostilities to investigate. Due to the lack of modern roads or other means of transportation, the Chinese delegation will not reach Batang until the middle of the coming summer.

The dalai lama demanded that the Chinese government cancel its mandate creating a new province in the Hsikang district and permit the area to be incorporated into Tibet. The government refused and the dalai lama sent troops into Hsikang and occupied considerable territory, including two important temples. The Hsikang tribes have organized a defense corps and appealed to the Chinese military authorities in Szechwan for assistance.

A telegram, dated April 17, from the National Frontier Defense association of Hsikang and Szechwan says Tibetan cavalry, 3,000 strong, taking advantage of the retreat of Chinese troops, have invaded Anchin, where the people have been ruthlessly plundered.

SHOT TO DEATH AS HE ROBS INN IN WEST SUBURB

Michael Ferelli, 30 years old, 2030 Narragansett avenue, was shot and killed by Policeman Anthony Malone of the Melrose Park force yesterday morning while he was robbing a guest in the Palais Rue inn at 45th avenue and Lake street in Melrose Park.

Accompanied by George Ryan, 27 years old, 3120 West Van Buren street, Ferelli had robbed three business places within an hour before the time of the shooting. Ralph Carbon, manager of the Palais Rue, had requested the police to guard his place, fearing the robbers were coming there after he had been notified of the other stickups.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide and commended Malone for the shooting.

Showing How That City Influences Him.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE reading public will be very New York conscious if it listens to the siren call of three of the spring books. The two which are factual guides to New York are published on the same day (tomorrow). The other is a delightful reminiscential volume about changing New York during the last 50 years.

CHARLES HANSON TOWNE [Portrait by Leonabel Jacobs]

"This New York of Mine," by Charles Hanson Towne [Cosmopolitan], has a prologue by the author which proclaims "This is not in any sense a 'history' of New York. Nor is it an autobiography. Nor is it a guide book. It is but a timid attempt to tell of the city where I have lived practically all my life, as it has affected me. . . . New York may rob us of much of our strength, but likewise she adds immeasurably to the glory and wonder of life."

Mr. Towne makes that last half sentence about New York adding immeasurably to the glory and wonder of life a fact. He even makes the first half of the sentence a reality, too, for as New York grew in size his own life became so crowded with people, things, food, and talk that you have no trouble in believing that it must have robbed him of much of his strength. But the statement that "This New York of Mine" is not in any sense a history of New York, also that it is not an autobiography, are, after you have read the book, flatly untrue. For in the most delightful sense of the words, this book is both of those things.

You get more of the sense of the passage of time and the growth of a great metropolis out of the pages of "This New York of Mine" than you could out of ten solemn histories. You KNOW New York as you never could learn it from chronological data, however expertly set down. The spirit of the city, its soul, that intangible thing that makes it New York, not Paris, London, San Francisco, or Chicago, Mr. Towne has put into his book. New York is the heroine of "This New York of Mine" just as a beautiful but perverse woman is the heroine of a modern novel. And her character emerges in Mr. Towne's skillful handling as that other heroine's character would develop in a skilled novelist's.

"This New York of Mine" might also be a romantic novel, with the author's devotion to the heroine taking on, as the years pass, a fragrance and a charm. For Charlie Towne really does love his New York—not falsely as many of her blatant devotees have loved her, for what she can give them but deeply, with all of her faults as dear as sunshine to him.

And as for its being an autobiography, the hero of "This New York of Mine" is in every phrase, every paragraph, every gesture of the pen, Charles Hanson Towne revealed frankly. It's more of an autobiography than are many formal volumes of memoirs. You understand why its author is one of the most popular diners out in New York and why Charlie Towne always is counted on by his friends—a rare quality for a New Yorker to possess!

As for "This New York of Mine" not being a guide book, it isn't, in the sense that it tells you where (addresses) and how and how much. But it is a guide book in the sense that it turns your desires toward New York. It guides you straight to a ticket office.

The exact where and how and every other possible bit of statistical information about New York, you will find in "New York Is Everybody's Town," by Helen Josephy and Mary Margaret McBride [Putnam], and "New York, an Intimate Guide," by Walter R. Brooks [Knopf].

"New York Is Everybody's Town" is a companion book to those two delightful guides, "Paris Is a Woman's Town" and "London Is a Man's Town." Believe it or not, I read every word of "New York Is Everybody's Town" just for the fun of listening to the collaborators' talk. They give you exact facts, but in the most amusing manner. I wasn't particularly interested in the fact that you can pay $17,000 for a string of Japanese pearls, but I couldn't resist the authors' explanation that they were "the kind the oyster makes to order instead of in due course of nature." I wasn't even faintly intrigued by at least half of the facts which they so thoroughly have gathered, but how those girls can make guide book an amusing piece of literature is nobody's business!

Mr. Brooks is less amusing—although it is no mean humorist who instructs you about the New York taxis: "And don't be alarmed by the photographs (in them). They are not there to scare you. Remember what your own passport pictures looked like." "New York, an Intimate Guide," is in form and method of treatment more like the ordinary guide book than the Josephy-McBride collaboration.

Armed with these three books, New York ought to be anybody's oyster. They almost converted me to that city's charms, and I'm probably the oldest living white woman who, with assorted chances to live in New York, always has unregretfully said "No."

If these books give you such a yen to go to New York that you have to harness up the old four or six or eight cylinder and start off this week-end, you'll find "Roaming American Highways," by John T. Faris [Farrar & Rinehart], published today, a pleasant volume. There is a long chapter on "From New York to San Francisco" by the Lincoln highway that will just about fit your case going backwards. The book isn't in any sense an actual guide book, but a sort of spiritual one.

BRITONS NOW TRYING TO RETAIN TREASURES OF RARE PUBLICATIONS

LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—American buyers are out of the rare books and art markets, and as a consequence there is a wave of reform.

The "First Edition club" is telling English dealers in rare tomes that they would do well to seek home buyers for their wares, instead of rushing them into the hands of American collectors.

A. J. A. Symons, secretary of the "First Edition club," spoke bitterly against Englishmen who bemoan the sale of rare books across the Atlantic.

"If an Englishman wants a $15,000 yearling he can always find the money," Mr. Symons said, "but purchase of a valuable first edition for a fraction of such an amount doesn't tempt him until some American has acquired the treasure."

Good morning!

Well, for charm "The Prodigal" has it over any picture the old loop has known for quite some time!

If you know your movie oats, your siller will tinkle merrily before the queens at the Roosevelt box office windows. ["O, no, no!" said she laughingly, "the picture isn't Scotch. Only the poetry."]

The story's locale is an old Kentucky home and th'ah'bouts. The "prodigal" is a glamorous hobo, named Jeffery Farraday, who loves the open road. He returns to his childhood home just to kiss his dear old mother—he being lonesome for her. He sticks around for a number of very good reasons that the picture unveils so alluringly that I haven't the heart to put you wise in advance. [You glance at the cast.]

"Can Esther Ralston be ONE of the reasons?" you ask mischievously.

"WHAT!" comes the indignant reply. "And she Jeff's brother's wife!"

But under your searching gaze the false front collapses. Your correspondent breaks down and admits that, yes, yes she IS one of the reasons. Jeff's brother's SUCH a rotter. . . . ! As a matter of fact Jeff's sister's a pill, too. But his MOTHER . . . ! Now there is a darling! The most engaging blend of all the things a mother should be! She's old fashioned—and tremendously up to date. She's soft—but she's shrewd. She is vurr', vurr' dignified—but you should see her wrastle with her newly returned box car traveler when he balks at taking a bath . . . ! You'll adore her. [And her name isn't even on the cast!]

Lawrence Tibbett gets under your skin from the minute you meet him in a hobo "jungle" till, well—till . . . ? He makes Jeffery a thoroughly delightful person who can sing, of course, like n's b. Esther Ralston is lovable as Antonia; the villains ring true and Roland Young and Cliff Edwards as Jeffery's buddies of the open road keep you chuckling from the drop of the hat.

"The Prodigal" has been expertly directed and its lines are crisp. Sets and scenery are charming and there are some ringing darky choruses. Summed up—

Laughter and tears and a song or two,
Romance and roguery; eyes of blue;
White-pillared house and a mother true,
Make "The Prodigal" a real treat to you.
[AND the children!]

See you soon.

Mary Garden Plans to Give Concerts in Boston, Minneapolis

New York, April 22.—(AP)—While Mary Garden has not renewed her contract with the Chicago Civic Opera company this year, she will sing before American audiences, her representatives disclosed today.

For the first time in her varied operatic career, Miss Garden will sing with a symphony orchestra accompaniment. She will open under this new arrangement, Oct. 22, when she plans to present a special De Bussey program with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra.

After filling a series of engagements with the Minneapolis orchestra, Miss Garden will present the same program with the Boston symphony orchestra, the first week in December. Her representatives said she has reserved the season commencing Dec. 23 for operatic appearances in New York.

No statement could be obtained as to whether Miss Garden had been approached with a contract by the Metropolitan Opera company or whether she would, as has been reported, organize her own company here.

Nation to Turn Attention to Care of Babies

Welfare Stations Here Open for Lessons.

Throughout next week, which will be observed throughout the country as Baby week, visitors will be welcome at the 21 stations of the Infant Welfare society.

The society, which for 20 years has been saving Chicago's needy babies from illness and death, reported that it gave expert health supervision to 16,293 underprivileged children and expectant mothers in Chicago last year. Of that number only 97 babies died, or nine out of every 1,000 babies cared for, as compared to 53 who died out of every 1,000 babies born throughout the city, before completing their first year.

Visitors will be welcomed at the Infant Welfare society stations, where conferences are held weekly as follows:

Monday and Thursday.

1 p. m.—Alice H. Wood station, 1964 North Halsted street.
1 p. m.—Armitage station, 1952 West Armitage avenue.

Hoovers Are Hosts to Helen Keller at White House Luncheon

Washington, D. C., April 22.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Hoover were unusually attentive today to a serene faced woman who was their luncheon guest.

She was Helen Keller, whom Mark Twain called one of the greatest characters of the nineteenth century. As always, she seemed happy and was amazingly aware of all that went on about her.

Through Polly Thompson, her secretary, and Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, her teacher, she shared in the conversation.

Placing her sensitive fingers upon their lips, or hands, she grasped their meaning almost instantly. Sometimes she responded in a pleasant voice, but if eager to express herself quickly she tapped out her words on the hands of her guardians.

Just a little while before she had conquered a slight attack of "mike" fright by, in her own words, "rebuking it." She urged those listening over the Columbia Broadcasting system to care for their eyes scrupulously.

Prussian Church Synod Gets More Liberty by New Proposal

BERLIN, April 22.—(AP)—The synod of Prussian Evangelical churches today accepted in open meeting a concordat which in effect gives the former state church, whose titular head used to be the former kaiser, its independence and puts it on the same basis as the Roman Catholic church. By virtue of a similar concordat two years ago the Catholic church receives 2,800,000 marks ($672,000) annually.

Today's vote, which followed an hour's debate, was 166 in favor of the pact and 47 against. The concordat, which was submitted by the Prussian state, must be ratified by the Prussian diet.

There was considerable argument over the political clause whereby Prussia reserves the right to veto appointments of high ecclesiastical dignitaries for reasons of state. Otherwise the churches are not restricted as to administrative and property matters.

Business Women's Council to Give Benefit Saturday

The Federated Council of Professional and Business Women of Chicago is sponsoring a benefit bridge party and fashion revue, to take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the exposition hall of the Palmer house. The proceeds of the affair are to be used for emergency relief work for unemployed business and professional women.

The federated council was organized to continue the work begun by the Alliance of Business and Professional Women in maintaining an emergency relief headquarters, and includes 16 clubs as charter members.

THE STAGE

"MELO," a drama from the French of Henry Bernstein, was recently submitted to the first nighters of Broadway. Percy Hammond of the New York Herald Tribune tells what it is about in this fashion:

"Pierre Belcroix [Earle Larimore], a first violinist of the Opera, is happy in his suburban home near Paris with his pretty wife, Romaine [Edna Best]. Into their lives comes Marcel Blanc [Basil Rathbone], a distinguished music maker, one of Kreisler's most prosperous pupils. Romaine and Marcel swelter for one another in the usual assignations, he being less desperately lost in the unholy heats than she. For Romaine, whose character is sweet although unreliable, adopts a Borgian procedure and seeks to annihilate her husband by poison."

This same "Melo" is one of the plays that the Shuberts intend to send on their subscription audience circuit next season, which means that it will appear here under the auspices of the Dramatic League of Chicago. "Peter Ibbetson," with Dennis King as star, and "The Silent Witness," with Lionel Atwill as star, are other possibilities for the Dramatic League's third annual program.

Three English plays and one of American authorship are promised for next season by Messrs. Macgowan and Reed, Jane Cowl's managers. They are: "Love Story," by S. N. Behrman; "Cynara," by H. M. Harwood [author of "The Man in Possession"], and H. Gore Brown; "Autumn Crocus," by C. L. Anthony, and "The Mulberry Bush," by Ronald Jeans.

Sir Philip Ben Greet and his Shakespearean players will begin a New York engagement in the auditorium of Columbia university this evening. Their repertory includes the first quarto edition of "Hamlet," which has never been acted in New York; "Macbeth," "As You Like It," and "Much Ado About Nothing."

Two new songs have been added to the informal whoopee in the second act of "Stepping Sisters," which will repeat its New York history by moving from the Apollo to the Cort theater next Sunday night. Their titles are typical—"I'm Dreaming of You" and "Always Alone"—and they boast of Chicago authorship. Philip Dakin sings the former, Joan Blair and Mr. Dakin the latter.

Maurice Schwartz's Yiddish Art theater company, now at the Lawndale, offered "The Man with the Portfolio," by Alexis Faiko, a drama of soviet Russia, last night. This evening Mr. Schwartz will stage Ernest Toller's "Bloody Laughter," a German war play. "Riverside Drive," an American-Yiddish play by Leon Kobrin, will be given tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday.

"The Trip to Pressburg," a play which was staged by Max Reinhardt in Vienna recently, has been secured for American production next fall by the Ray-Miner corporation. It was written by Leo Perutz, Viennese novelist and dramatist, and will be adapted by Dayton Stoddart.

Everett Marshall, a baritone who has appeared with the Metropolitan Opera company, has been engaged for the eleventh edition of George White's "Scandals." This revue will have a premiere on Broadway early in June, and is counted upon to entertain Manhattan through the summer.

Peggy Joyce Hopkins, famed for matrimonial adventures, will be the headliner on the vaudeville program at the Palace theater of Chicago during the week of May 9. C. C.

BLIND BRITISH HEROES PLACE WREATH FOR THE UNKNOWN YANKEE

Washington, D. C., April 22.—(AP)—Two blind British war veterans placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier today in the name of their 2,500 comrades who lost their sight in the world conflict.

They were Capt. Ian Fraser, for five years a member of parliament, and Clutha MacKenzie, a former member of the New Zealand parliament.

The wreath bore the following inscription:

"To the glory of God and as a token of admiration and respect to the memory of an unknown comrade in arms this wreath is laid on behalf of the Brotherhood of St. Dunstan's, which is composed of all the officers and men of the British imperial dominion and colonial forces who were blinded in the great war."

Capt. Fraser is managing executive of St. Dunstan's and MacKenzie is director of the Jubilee Institute for the Blind, Auckland, New Zealand. The two were here with 110 delegates representing 37 nations to the world conference on work for the blind.

Cardinal from Chicago Given Honor in Rome

Mundelein Will Attend College Dedication.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 22.—Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago arrived in Rome tonight. He came especially to participate in the inauguration ceremonies on Friday of the new College of Propaganda Fide, the construction of which was made possible through the $1,500,000 loan which Cardinal Mundelein raised.

His eminence was greeted on his arrival in Rome by Msgr. Francis Spellman of the American college here and a score of other prelates, who escorted him to the hotel where he will reside during his week or ten days' stay.

"I hope to spend some time in Rome on this occasion, but the exact duration will depend on the wishes of the holy father," the cardinal said.

The Chicago cardinal was accompanied by the Rev. Father Robert McGuire and the Rev. Father George Casey of Chicago. His eminence recalled his last visit to Rome three years ago. He then came bringing funds for the construction of the new college. That loan will be repaid in 20 years through annual collections in the Chicago archdiocese.

Cardinal Mundelein will spend tomorrow morning receiving visits at his hotel and tomorrow afternoon he will attend the ceremonies of unveiling the bust of Pope Pius XI. in the hall of the new college. At these ceremonies Archbishop Salotti, secretary of the Propaganda Fide, will make an address. He probably will point out that the Propaganda Fide college accepts only students who come from far countries to Rome and then return to the countries of their origin. There now are 32 different countries represented in that college.

Cardinal Mundelein's visit to Rome, it is expected, will give added impetus to a movement among American Catholics for the canonization of Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton, who died in 1821 after founding the parochial school system, the first Catholic hospital, and the first orphan asylum in the United States. A pilgrimage of American Catholics will come to Rome in July, bringing a petition of 100,000 names to Pope Pius in behalf of Mother Seton.

Rome Gives Cardinal Honors of Visiting Prince.

ROME, April 22.—(AP)—Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago was accorded all the honors of a visiting prince in accordance with the provisions of the Lateran treaty between Italy and the holy see. He walked from the station on a red carpet usually laid for royalty while the municipal police stood at attention.

The Rev. K. J. Alter Is Named New Bishop of Toledo, O.

VATICAN CITY, April 22.—(AP)—The Rev. Karl J. Alter, president of the National Catholic School for Social Service Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference at Washington, D. C., today was named bishop of Toledo, O. Msgr. Urban John Vehr, rector of St. Mary's Theological seminary at Cincinnati, O., today was named bishop of Denver, Colo.

Will Wait Until Late in June; Native of Ohio.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—(AP)—The Right Rev. Karl J. Alter, LL. D., named today bishop of Toledo, O., has been director of the National Catholic School of Social Service since 1929. He will not assume his new duties until the end of the school year in June.

Dr. Alter was born in Toledo in 1885 and educated at St. John's college there and at the Cleveland Diocesan seminary.

The Right Rev. Urban J. Vehr, J. C. L., will go to Denver from Mount St. Mary Seminary of the West at Norwood, O., of which he is now rector. Dr. Vehr was born in Cincinnati in 1891 and made his philosophical and theological studies at Mount St. Mary.

Present Bishop of Denver Resigns; Auto Crash Victim.

Denver, Colo., April 22.—(AP)—Bishop J. Henry Tihen, 69 years old, of the Denver Catholic diocese, offered his resignation several months ago because of ill health. He received his appointment in Denver in 1917 while serving as bishop at Lincoln, Neb. Bishop Tihen was seriously injured in 1926 in an automobile collision.

Chicago Historical Society Now 75; Will Celebrate

The Chicago Historical society will celebrate its 75th birthday on April 24 in commemoration of the day a group of Chicago's foremost citizens got together in a building on La Salle street to form a society to collect and preserve historical material on the development of the city.

William B. Brown was chosen the first president.

The first real home of the society was destroyed by the fire of 1871, together with many rare documents. A second temporary home was built and later demolished to make way for the present home. Now in its 75th year, the society will soon build in Lincoln park a new house for its treasures.

Good Display of Paintings at Arts Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture by the professional members of the Arts club has just opened and it has, to the casual glance, a number of points of merit. It is a diversified show and a colorful one. If Gerald Frank shows himself a little on the sentimental side [and he does] and if Roy Collins plays the gun-man with one's feeling of delicacy [and he does], there is possibly enough other work on view to make up for their having fallen from grace.

Before we leave them though, for their canvases, Gerald Frank's "Lady or the Tiger" and Roy Collins' "Diana," are among the largest in the gallery and catch your eye the minute you enter the room, we would like to warn Mr. Frank on the one hand of pernicious sentiment and Mr. Collins of the danger of overdoing a good thing. His "Diana" should be called "Venus." She is a lovely Venus and the bow and arrows are obviously designed, but Venus though the lady may be she is also undoubtedly someone else and charity ought in this as in other cases to begin at home. A nude fails to remain a nude but becomes a portrait when the face is as familiar as is this charming head of "Diana."

Frederic Clay Bartlett has perpetrated the strongest piece of modernist painting that has yet been shown by him. The "Art School" should hang beside his earlier canvases, a superb illustration of his later manner. Charles Biesel shows a delightful study of flowers, "Still Life," and Frances Badger has a stunning arrangement of color, line and design in "Chinese Still Life." Joseph Allworthy offers an exquisite arrangement of yellow roses against blue, although the pink garters on the table tend to thrust it into the pretty-pretty category.

Katharine Dudley shows a delicate and charming portrait of Mrs. Harrison. Robert Lee Eskridge has a fine piece of work in "Young Mangravan." "Levelling the Street" by Laura van Pappelendam is a strong canvas and Josephine Reichmann's "Still Life" is a fresh and vivid bit of color. Elisabeth Telling has an adorable pencil portrait of two of the Arthur Aldis grandchildren.

Among the other artists represented are Eleanor Duke, Thomas E. Tallmadge, Lee Sturges, Increase Robinson, Pauline Palmer, Anna Lee Stacey, Anna Lynch, Sylvia Shaw Judson, Jessie Benton Evans, Harriet Blackstone, and Joseph Birren. The exhibit will continue for two weeks.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

FLOWER GARDEN CONTEST.

Entries by the scores already are being received following the announcement in last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE that another semi-annual Flower Garden Honor Roll of outstanding gardens in Chicagoland would be selected this spring by THE TRIBUNE.

Ballots again will appear in metropolitan sections of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of April 26 and May 3, with the deadline for entries set for midnight, May 5. Endorsement of each entry by two neighbors is all that is required for nomination.

Even the ballot is not necessary, if the entrant will send in the nomination with the required endorsements to the farm and garden editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE before May 6 giving the address at which the garden is located.

In the fall of 1930 the first of these semi-annual projects was started. Hundreds of gardens were judged and as a result 34 were named as worthy of being called representative of the best types of floral beauty in all sections within a 40 mile radius of Tribune Tower. Many of the entrants this spring, it is expected, will be from those who became interested last fall, but who felt they would have gardens of better appearance in the spring of the year.

The purpose is a stimulation of interest in flower gardening. Suburban as well as city residents have done much in recent years to make permanent plantings enhance their dwellings. One condition is enforced. This is that no garden will be honored with designation as an outstanding garden if there has been paid professional work done in the garden.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, April 22.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas gave a party this evening in honor of Col. and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick of Chicago. Among those invited were Mrs. James Cox Brady, Mrs. William Clow Jr. of Chicago, Miss Lucrezia Bori, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wise Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, Charles Hanson Towne, the Grand Duchess Marie, Grand Duke Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barlow, Mrs. Henry Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Talbott, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Manship, Mrs. Benjamin Rogers, Count and Countess de Forceville, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus T. Kirby and Louis Wiley.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Pell had Mrs. Stephen H. P. Pell, Mrs. S. Osgood Pell, and Mrs. Marjorie Oelrichs in a party for luncheon at Sherry's yesterday.

Mrs. Samuel H. Valentine returned today from Palm Beach and will remain in the city a few weeks before opening her house at Narragansett Pier.

Lake Forest Group Takes Up Einstein

BY THALIA

IF MEMBERS of a certain group of young Lake Forest matrons are scintillating more brightly than usual as dinner partners these days, the "philosophy" class is the reason therefor.

The class is one of those informal sort of unorganized organizations conceived with the idea of studying any and all subjects about which the members happen to be curious and desirous of knowledge. They have a teacher, a well read and scholarly one who is prepared to answer lots of questions.

They meet on Mondays at the homes of the various members, with luncheon preceding the serious discussion of the day. They are apparently dauntless in their choice of subjects, too, because I understand that they "took up" Einstein at one recent meeting.

The personnel of the class includes Mrs. Charles Glore, Mrs. Danfel Winter, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Allen Manierre, Mrs. Carter Harrison Jr., Mrs. Albert B. Pattou, Mrs. David Peck, Mrs. Edward Shumway, Mrs. Robert Hixon, and Mrs. Jerome Bryan.

Tavern's April Fooleries Will Be Given on Monday.

The production and performing personnel for the Tavern's second annual "April Fooleries," to be given next Monday evening at the Goodman, were spurred on to more energetic rehearsing than ever the other day by the news that the show is a "sell-out." There are more than 50 members engaged in putting on a snappy program of music and burlesqueries designed to regale an audience of about 700. Daily rehearsals and consultations about props, sets, and costumes are going on.

Benjamin Leslie Behr, Mrs. William E. Coe Jr. and Mrs. Howard Linn will be among the Chicagoans at the Maryland Hunt cup meet near Baltimore on Saturday. The Austin Nichols will go up from Aiken for the race.

Janet Chase to Be Married on May 9 to Frederick Hauck.

Matters of moment these days—Invitations have been sent out for Janet Chase's marriage to Frederick Hauck on May 9 at the Chase residence in Lake Forest [Mr. Hauck is coming from Pittsburgh this week-end for a brief visit], and for the marriage of Miss Marian Elizabeth Roberts to Carroll H. Sadler Jr., to take place on May 16 in Baltimore. . . . Martha Doty of Evanston was picked as one of the 25 prettiest girls in the freshman class at Wellesley to be aids for the annual spring promenade on Friday evening. . . . Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt is to attend the Coolidge festival of chamber music in Washington, D. C., today, tomorrow, and Saturday, and is to give a program of her compositions before the American Association of University Women tomorrow. . . . Mrs. John F. and Anna Lee Stacey, the artists, are to be guests of honor at the annual art exhibit of the College club on Saturday afternoon, May 2 [Mrs. Cyrus Mark is chairman of the exhibit].

Sojourners all—The Kenneth Templetons and the Telfer MacArthurs at the Homestead at Virginia Hot Springs; Mrs. Francis Johnson, the Hamilton L. Ames Jrs. and Mrs. Stanley Field at French Lick.

Lawson Trots Out Its "White Elephants" for Charity.

Glances at the calendar—Today's events include the all day white elephant sale for Grove House for Convalescents in Evanston; the Japan-America society's luncheon at the Palmer house for the new Japanese consul and Mme. Muto; the Women's symphony orchestra benefit bridge party at the Bendix gallery this afternoon [a quartet of the orchestra members is to play in the drawing room during the party], and the Association of Arts and Industries dinner of the Cliff Dwellers this evening [Alfonso Iannelli is to give an address, illustrated with lantern slides, on "Art, the Psychology of the Age"]. . . . The committee for the Madonna center dinner-dance on Saturday night at the Sherman has invited Blanche Ring, Helen Raymond, and Grace Huff of "Stepping Sisters" and Allan Dinehart of "That's Gratitude" to attend the party [the David Bremners, the Lester Armours, the Joseph W. Crehans, the Allen Ripleys, the Frank Gardens, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Hurley Jr. are among those interested in the settlement who have taken tables]. . . . Col. George T. Langhorne is chairman of the reception committee for the Japan-America society's entertaining of the Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan when they are here on May 11, and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick has been asked to be chairman of the dinner committee. . . . The exhibition of Maude Phelps Hutchins' sculpture is to open at the Chester Johnson galleries on May 25. . . . The Woman's City club is to give an informal tea for Barclay Acheson tomorrow afternoon, with Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, chairman of the distinguished guest committee; Mrs. Ralph Clarkson and Mrs. Murry Nelson receiving. . . . A benefit performance of "His Majesty Bunker Bean" is to be given at the Eighth Street theater tomorrow and Saturday evenings by the young people of the Presbyterian churches [Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed is honorary chairman of the box committee, and the proceeds are to help with the work among the underprivileged children and mothers of the Presbyterian Neighborhood houses].

HEIRESS TO DODGE MILLIONS ELECTED AS AUTO BOARD MEMBER

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, widow of the late John F. Dodge, automobile maker, and now the wife of a wealthy lumberman, has been elected to the board of directors of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation. She was named a director at the annual meeting of stockholders of the company when Herbert L. Lord, vice president of the Detroit Lubricator company, was also elected to the board.

MRS. ALFRED G. WILSON.

Mrs. Wilson is rated as one of the world's wealthiest women. On the death of her first husband she came into an estate estimated at $60,000,000. She was also awarded the $7,500,000 estate of a posthumous child, Anna Margaret Dodge, who died at the age of 4 years. She was married in 1925 to Alfred F. Wilson, millionaire Detroit lumberman.

Science Finds Virus Causes Common Colds

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Hope for a vaccine to prevent the common cold has been found at the Presbyterian hospital of Columbia university medical center.

The vaccine making stage has been approached through use of an artificial cold produced in the laboratories—a real cold purified so as to be stripped of many uncertainties that ordinarily hinder the making of discoveries.

This work and the seven years' research leading up to it are described in a paper by Drs. A. R. Dochez, K. C. Mills, G. S. Shibley, and Yale Kneeland Jr., in the Courier, official publication of the International Catholic Federation of Nurses. The research is financed by the Chemical Foundation, Inc.

At first real colds were given to chimpanzees until Dr. Dochez and his associates felt quite sure that no known ordinary bacteria cause colds, but that they only become aggravated, active, and often dangerous as a result of a virus which is the real cause.

"A filterable virus," the paper describes this cause, "one of those infinitely small and mysterious agents the exact nature of whose biological activity still remains obscure."

Their finding of a virus cause agrees with discoveries recently published from other American scientific institutions. The synthetic colds were produced by infecting the "chimps" with nasal washings completely purified of disease bacteria, and which presumably contained only the filterable virus.

Exposure to these synthetic infections produced in 50 per cent of the chimpanzees colds "exactly similar in all respects" to real colds. Tried on human beings, the artificial cold performed with precisely the same percentage and effects.

"The experiments lead us to certain definite conclusions," says the paper. "The contagious cold in human beings is due to an invisible agent which passed readily through filters which hold back all ordinary bacteria, and in all likelihood belongs to the group of so-called submicroscopic viruses.

"In apes one of the significant effects of infection with the filterable virus of the common cold is the stimulation to greatly increased activity of any dangerous organism that may happen to be present in the upper respiratory tract.

"This we regard as of great importance, since it seems to explain organisms as pneumococcus, streptococcus hemolyticus, and the influenza bacillus which lead to the severe complications which sometimes follow the common cold and influenza."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 22.—President and Mrs. Hoover this afternoon received the delegates to the continental congress of the D. A. R.

The secretary of state and Mrs. Stimson gave a beautiful reception this afternoon at Woodley, their Washington home, in honor of the delegates to the Pan-American conference on health being held here this week.

Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin of Chicago, who is spending the spring season in her apartment here, gave a large party tonight in honor of Princess Alexandra Victoria Schleswig Holstein and her husband, formerly a captain in the German navy. They are her house guests.

Patterns by Clotilde

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

A model like this one of washable crêpe silk is particularly desirable. In the favorite white crêpe with skipper blue binding and leather belt, it may be worn for general day occasions or active sports. Pastel washable crêpe silk, shantung, linen, eyelet batiste, printed batiste, pastel wool jersey and men's shirting fabrics, etc., are also smart.

Pattern 3060 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3⅝ yards of 29 inch material with 2¾ yards of binding.

Food Talk.

Mrs. S. W. R. writes: "Why should soda and baking powder be included in some of the yeast bread recipes that we often see these days in newspapers and magazines?" I assume that Mrs. S. W. R. is an experienced cook and knows something about the reactions of leavening agents because her question indicates that she is a careful and critical reader of recipes.

Just now I can think of only one reason for adding soda and baking powder. These leavening agents, which are alkaline in nature, neutralize the acids that develop when dough is allowed to become sour. Soda and baking powder will sweeten fermented doughs and produce tiny bubbles of carbon dioxide in addition to that produced by the yeast. This gas well distributed through the dough is what makes the bread light and fine grained. Our grandmothers used soda in their buckwheat batter to sweeten it when fermentation had progressed too far.

The best of yeast breads, however, may be made without soda and baking powder. Yeast needs no assistance if it is handled carefully. And the good roll and bread maker never allows her dough to become sour. Hundreds of modern housewives, who are otherwise excellent cooks, however, have difficulty with any food that contains yeast. There is nothing magical about yeast. It is a mass of microscopic plants and the conditions for their growth and multiplication are much like those required for the visible plants with which we are familiar. Yeast must be supplied with food, moisture, and the proper temperature if it is to produce the results we desire. Sugar and starch are perfect foods for yeast. The moisture is the liquid in the dough.

A most important, but often neglected condition is the proper temperature for yeast growth. This temperature is from 86 to 92° F. If the dough is kept too cool the yeast won't grow or it grows so slowly that the housewife finds that the time required is too long for practical use. If the temperature is too high the yeast may be killed and the dough ferments. If the following rules are kept in mind the making of yeast breads will be found comparatively easy:

1. Choose fresh potent yeast and a good bread flour.

2. Make the dough up either by the sponge or yeast method and let rise at an even temperature from 85 to 89° F. Keep the dough covered and out of drafts.

3. When adding flour to make a dough for kneading, use barely enough to prevent sticking to the board. A dough that is too stiff with flour never makes the best bread.

4. Knead the dough vigorously. When thorough kneading is accomplished one can see tiny gas bubbles under the surface and as the dough is kneaded it pops or "sings."

5. Allow the dough to rise a second time at a little higher temperature, 89 to 93° F. Keep the surface of the dough moist while rising and do not mold until the dough has increased its bulk 2¼ times.

6. Mold the dough and again allow to rise until bulk is increased to 2¼ times before baking.

Among Those Sailing.

Indirect Fears Are Hardest to Detect and Cure

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

As we were saying yesterday, many fears that children have are self-evident and when they are so the cure of them is comparatively simple—as in the case of the fear of dogs. The indirect evidences of fear are more difficult to detect and the covered or buried fear more difficult to dissipate.

Right here it might serve to strike a balance if I point out one thing, which is that this is one more aspect of child rearing in which we must not expect perfection. An ideal—a psychological ideal—would be to prevent a child ever having a deep rooted fear. But not living in a perfect social order we cannot do that. We can't supervise other people's actions or hand pick the influences that play upon a child. We can't—and it's just as well perhaps—wrap our children in cotton wool.

There are some things beyond our control. We can't prevent "the world, the flesh, and the devil" and, most of all, ignorance from an impact with various child temperaments which may result in fears. We can only do our best to prevent fears. And then, if a fear is born, to uncover it to the light of day—that is, to common sense and understanding—and get rid of it. Hang it out in the air and sunshine and show it for what it is.

Sometimes the evidence of fear is plain and the removal of it simple. Sometimes it is more involved, as where a fear exists, but instead of showing itself directly as fear of the original cause, it will be translated into fear of other things. Such an example will be given tomorrow in an actual case.

A serious warning to women about danger in ill-made substitutes for Kotex

Surface resemblance to Kotex is not enough—safety demands equal care in manufacture.

SOONER or later you may be tempted to try a substitute for Kotex. It may look the same—and may cost a few pennies less.

But what do you know about it? Is it hygienically fit for such intimate personal use? Who made it? Where? How?

You know, of course, that there's a reason for any substitute's lower cost. What is it? . . . Careless manufacture? . . . Doubtful sanitation? . . . Low-class workers?

These are the risks you take when you accept a questionable substitute, of whose makers you know nothing.

For your health's sake, demand the purity of Kotex. If you have personal ideals of cleanliness, insist on nothing but Kotex.

Kotex is a hospital product. It is scientifically made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding in surroundings of hospital-like cleanliness. Kotex is immaculate, pure, clean.

Greater comfort, too

In addition to health protection, you have every refinement of comfort in Kotex. Careful shaping, for utmost comfort and inconspicuous lines. Super-softness—because Kotex is made of a wonderful substance that leads moisture away from the surface, keeping it soft and delicate.

This same material is chosen by 85% of America's leading hospitals for their patients. Their choice should guide you. Kotex Company, Chicago.

IN HOSPITALS . . .

1—The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

2—Kotex is soft . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

3—Can be worn on either side with equal comfort, no embarrassment.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT!

FIVE million modern mothers will tell you that children DO cry for Fletcher's Castoria. For mothers always give a few drops of this pure vegetable preparation when a child has any of the symptoms that tell of sluggish bowels, colic, or other upsets. When tiny tongues are coated and breath is bad. When a child is restless; irritable. Always soothing and comforting to an infant—yet it is effective for children in their teens. You never have to coax children to take Castoria; they love its taste.

Be ready for the next case of sour stomach, constipation, or other need for Castoria!

When buying look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on wrapper.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Iris de Bertincourt lives in a remote section of Paris with her 15 year old daughter, Clare. She and Maj. Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together in several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave next day for Africa. Clare is acting in a school play and is to be brought home by friends.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of enormous charm, but utterly lacking in moral sense. Iris and he are cousins, and the possible heirs of their aunt, Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmauroux. Iris plans to divorce her husband and marry Alan when he returns, but she is keeping her plans secret, as she wishes to avoid the interference of her aunt, who has until recently ruled her life.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A CONTINUED PERSECUTION.

"I dare say you've told me some of this before," said Charnwood, "but I didn't take it in. When did you begin to find him out?"

"I, fortunately. He had married because his parents were pressing him to do so. The whole thing was arranged between them and my aunt. But he had no intention of altering his mode of life or inconveniencing himself in any way. Pleasure came first, and I'm afraid after a few weeks I didn't mean pleasure."

She broke off, thinking of her bitter disillusionment.

"O, well, I'll not dwell on the rest of it. As I've said, when Clare was about four years old I found myself at home again, sometimes at the château, sometimes in Paris, but always, because I was beholden to Tante Victoire and it was the line of least resistance, letting her order my life for me in every detail. Outwardly I was sort of an automaton; I believe my brain ceased to function."

She mused lightly, letting her hands lie in his. He kissed the bright parting of her hair.

"At all events it's functioning now extraordinarily well! How did you come alive like that?"

"Entirely through Helen Roderick. You know, my working partner."

He nodded. On the occasion of his last visit he had met Miss Roderick, a vivid American woman, go ahead, full of decision.

"How was that?"

"She offered me a job. I hadn't the courage to attempt it, but she insisted. I happened to be alone for once; Tante Victoire had gone to Aix. So, half as a joke, I tried my hand at some work on L'Etoile—chiefly social articles. I'd a certain pull with the older, conservative people who are hard to reach. Well, to my amazement, I succeeded, began to earn money. O! The joy of it! It went to my head like champagne."

"And your aunt?"

"She was furious, tried to make me give it up. But it was too late, the leaven was working. I could never be the same inert lump again. That's

"There! What did I tell you?"

all, really," she wound up, smiling at him. "In a year I was making a regular salary, a little longer and I was able to do without financial help. Then I made a bold stand, took this little place of my own, and voilà! my bonds were broken. Since that time I've not accepted a penny from any one, and——" with a humorous shrug, "Tante Victoire has never forgiven me!"

"And you don't regret that?"

"Do I look as though I did? Why, it's been my salvation! During those awful years I was stifling something vital within me which turned into slow poison. Once it was set free I became a different being."

"But did it never occur to you that you could be free in another sense? Marry again, I mean."

"Dimly, perhaps, but till I met you it didn't seem a necessity. See how you've changed me?"

"Iris," Charnwood said compellingly, "I'm too old to waste time. Give me your word to go straight ahead with this divorce business. You won't put it off?"

"Am I likely to? No, my solicitor has everything prepared. He's only waiting for my instructions."

"Good! I believe French law manages these matters quickly. Supposing I am back from Uganda in the middle of the summer—there'll be nothing after that to keep us apart?"

"Nothing, nothing!" She had slipped into the big chair beside him, her face close to his. "O, to think I have lived all this time, and have only just found—this!"

The pressure of his arms closed about her, and for a long interval they remained thus, yielding themselves up with the completeness possible only when minds as well as bodies find the desired response.

A portion of the log burned through, sending up a fiery powder of sparks. From the photograph above their heads Clare's dark-lashed eyes looked out, direct, untried, inscrutable. They had forgotten her.

Suddenly the telephone on the table pierced the silence with a nerve shattering peal. Iris shivered, sprang to her feet, brows drawn together in any angry frown.

"Are we never to be left alone? Who is it now?" And crossing to the instrument, she caught it up impatiently and called, "Allo, allo!" in a tone of sharp vexation.

Charnwood, watching, saw her expression alter.

"My aunt's butler," she whispered, listening intently. "What can he want?"

She banged down the receiver and looked at Charnwood in consternation.

"There! What did I tell you? She, Tante Victoire, is on her way this very minute to see me. Tonight, of all times! How utterly damnable of her!"

"Coming here? But why?" he exclaimed indignantly.

"You may well ask. The butler says she heard from Clare that I was indisposed. I pretended I had a sore throat, you know, as an excuse for not going to the school. But I don't for a moment believe it's that. No, depend on it, she's got hold of a rumor. Somehow she's found out about you, and she's going to make sure. I know it!"

There was a fierce fatalism about her assertion. He scotched her as though she were an unreasonable child.

"Rubbish: the things' impossible. No one but you knows I'm here. She's not clairvoyant, I suppose?"

"O, you may joke, but there's some suspicion at the back of her brain, otherwise she'd never dream of coming out at night. If you know how she spied on me, ringing up Mathilde when I'm out, trying to discover whom I'm with, what gown I'm wearing, when I'm expected home. . . . It's a continual persecution!"

She was trying to speak lightly, but that she was seriously disturbed was only too apparent.

With an impetuous movement she buried her face on his breast.

"If only I hadn't got to face all this alone!" she murmured brokenly. "Don't think me a fool, Alan, but I shall feel desperate about it when you are far away."

"It's going to be a good deal harder going for me than for you these next eight or nine months," he answered her simply.

"I know, dear," she whispered, taking his face in her hands. "Forget how silly I am."

With the feeling that much remained to be said they gave up all effort at conversation, and for the next few minutes clung together, comforting each other with mute caresses. At last Iris glanced at the clock and pushed him resolutely away.

"You must go now, at once. Any moment she'll be here."

She watched him get into his coat. He was a full head taller than she, broad of shoulder, with a hard edge of masculinity about him which struck some chord in her being never before aroused.

In the gloom of the hallway Charnwood turned.

"Iris!" he called softly.

For a last time she was strangled in his embrace, felt the tense dilation of his arm muscles under her fingers. There was a rush of tears to her eyes, a lump in her throat.

"Remember, now, everything is going to be all right," she heard him whisper. "Nothing whatever can separate us."

His last glimpse of her showed a straight black figure framed in the open door, hair like a halo of yellow light, eyes poignant with longing. So he would see her always during the lonely months to come.

The leaves of a laurel bush caught on his sleeve as though trying to detain him. He shook them off and strode through the gate to the street.

When he looked again the house was in darkness.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Family Needs Clothing.

"I am the father of four boys, none of whom is old enough to work. I haven't been able to locate anything for months, although I have had much experience as a freight shipper and would do anything. We are in need of clothing which you may be able to get for us. The boys are 11, 12, 14, and 15 years old. I wear a suit size 36; shirts, 14½, and shoes, size 7. My wife wears size 34 or 36 and shoes size 5½ or 6. A. M."

With the support of four growing boys to think of and no prospects of employment, this man is worried to the point of distraction. He is eager to work and most deserving. Can you help him?

Bright Sayings of the Children

Lester was playing with his friend's little sister. He hid himself and then called to Avis:

"Find me. Come on and try to find me."

Never having played hide and seek before, she answered, "Why? Don't you know where you are?" M. E. A.

Little Jean, aged 3½ years, was visiting her Aunt Jennie one day when the minister called. After shaking hands he politely inquired: "How is my little girl today?" She replied: "Physically, I am fine, but financially I am poor."

It is needless to say the minister was convulsed with laughter. D. D.

Spring Overhauling Brings Its Reward of Renewed Vigor

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A great flock of inquiries about complexion blemish remedies is the usual spring harvest from correspondents. Each year I think it is a heavier mail receipt than the year before. But this year it is so heavy it might indicate almost an epidemic of blackhead, pimple and acne trouble. More likely, though, it is that with each year the social aspect of a flawless complexion is more and more recognized due to all the heavy cosmetic and health propaganda about.

Anyway, there's no question that the well cared for skin, the blemish free skin, yearly achieves a more exacting standard. And so for the benefit of those whose complexions are not up to standard, let's lose no more time in generalizing. Because the season claims the greatest number of victims, it is more than reasonable to suppose that the blood is not in any too good condition. That's got to be looked into first.

I suggest beginning with a good internal housecleaning. Take a good laxative, such as mineral oil or psyllium seed, or some nonhabit forming thing. Take enemas, if necessary. Anyway, get thoroughly cleaned out, inside.

Drink water. Trite as the advice is, you can't beat water for its assistance as an interior cleanser. Then get out and do a three mile sprint a day to stir up the sluggish circulation. All this, understand, purely for complexion benefit. Lay off all heavy, fatty, fried or rich foods for two weeks at least, and keep as close to a fruit and vegetable diet as you can arrange.

Then, if you haven't the cold shower habit, get it now, for your complexion's sake. If you can't take the water cold, take it cool and rub up a good circulation. These baths are marvelous for getting rid of pore contents that develop into blackheads and pimples.

And to refine the skin texture, you just can't beat the cold water system. I've just had a report from a young woman on the improvement in her skin due to a consistently attended swimming course. After the swim she took a shower, ranging from quite warm water to very cold, and she tells enthusiastically that her complexion is cleared of blackhead trouble completely and the pores are normal again for her naturally good textured skin. Tomorrow, because the need is pressing, I shall go into the more developed blackhead and pimple trouble—acne.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MISS P. R.: WRINKLES AROUND the eyes may come from lack of sleep. You must have eight hours of sleep every night. Massage the lines with a good cold cream on the finger tips, letting the movement be outward from the inner corner of the eyes.

E. G.: COFFEE, IF TAKEN TO excess, is overstimulating to the nervous system. Coffee contains caffein, which is stimulating, hence should be taken in moderation. One cup of coffee at each meal should be sufficient.

Paris Stylists Use Tweeds for Sports

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS—[Special.]—Tweeds have come back into the smart sports mode, much to the delight of sportswomen, for nothing has yet been discovered that is so comfortable and practical. The new tweeds are extremely interesting. They are in loose weaves, picked up with very vivid colors: Irish green, Chinese red, Parma violet, and such like. You would call them loud if they weren't so beautiful.

Schiaparelli uses these gay tweeds trimmed with hand crocheted yokes and pockets in plain wool to match their brightest tone. Jane Regny likes them, as do other sports creators.

Philippe et Gaston make the traveling ensemble sketched today in Rodier's black-white-and-Irish-green twin tweed in two weights—a heavy one for the coat and a lighter, more transparent one for the frock.

The skirt is cut with a slight flare toward the hem and it also has a flaring panel cut in one with a pointed band that is encrusted at the top and forms pockets on the hips. An encrusted band in the waist carries out the same decorative pointed lines.

The detachable collar, cuffs and belt are of black patent leather edged with white machine stitching. They may be replaced at will by white piqué ones stitched in black.

The full length coat shown on the small figure has a bias fold that suggests a bolero, and bias folds at the elbows simulating double sleeves. It has a triangular scarf of the tweed passed through slits under the tops of its revers instead of a collar. It is belted with stitched patent leather.

Girl Encourages an Old Man, Then Can't Ditch Him

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"No fool like an old one" is the note on which a girl in her early twenties closes her recital of an amour gone sour. Why the script shouldn't be changed to read: "No fool like a young one," I don't know. But judge for yourself. She, as said, is in her early twenties. Romeo is a grandfather, wife still living, too, and with her husband.

"He tries to dress like the young fellows," "Sorry Plight" recites. "Wears flashy clothes, spats, red neckties, uses sachet and perfumes. At first I admired him. But now I don't care if his wife has a terrible temper. I don't see how she can stand for him, anyway. But I can't shake him. When he comes for me in his car all smiles, I just want to say to him: 'Act your age, you old fool!'

"The worst of it is, there's a fellow just a couple of years older than I that I am crazy about, but this old one says that just because I encouraged him in the beginning, I've got to stick now. I can't go anywhere but he bobs up unexpectedly. You'd think he must have my telephone wire tapped to know where I'm going, all the time. If I go to a movie, he's there waiting outside. When I go to work in the morning, he's there and when I come out at night, he's waiting around. What can I do about him?"

If you must play with fire, young lady, you can't get off scot free when your mind takes a turn for a better prospect. The man may prove more than a nuisance. He may become a real danger. Perhaps police protection may have to be applied for yet. But that's not going to put you in a pretty light, either. Bad, bad business, this of applying to married members of your community, or acquaintance, to furnish you the excitement of falling in love. You never know how bad it can be until the excitement palls and you meet some one who looks like the real thing. It doesn't add appreciably to a young lady's stock to be pointed out as the love of a flashily attired elderly gentleman, either.

No, I must just insist that all the idiots aren't the red-necktied old ones who try boy capers. "Sorry Plights," like yourself, mademoiselle, make up quite a representative body.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

No Symptom of Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: A fellow I love always talks of girls he goes with when I'm around. Is this to effort to win me? ALICE."

He wouldn't be so anxious to impress you with his popularity were he intent upon winning you, do you think? Those aren't the usual methods, you know.

He's Not Interested.

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a fellow who doesn't pay any attention to me. "MISS BROWN."

He's not interested, otherwise he would be attentive, so it seems useless to exert any effect on him, dear.

Larry for her partner, but she must keep off her feet!

Nature plays cruel pranks on girls who haven't learned

A marvel at tennis. Everywhere at once, alert and dangerous. Deftly returning each swift play. Stopping the fastest volley with amazing skill.

What a pity she has not learned to stop periodic pains as easily! In just a few moments, with Midol.

One or two tablets, taken in time, will render those dreaded days entirely painless. If your suffering has already started, it will subside in five to seven minutes. No matter how great your usual discomfort. Whether you are fourteen, or forty. Midol ends the pain! Safely, and in a hurry.

Midol does not halt or even hinder the natural periodic process. But it does banish the unnatural pain.

Specialists produced Midol. It is not a narcotic. So you may use it, with perfect confidence, as often as there is the slightest need.

More than one million modern women have turned to these tiny tablets for relief of such suffering. And Midol has removed every excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains; headaches, neuralgia, etc.

THOSE BACKLESS EVENING FROCKS

THEY are here . . . enchanting frocks that dip daringly toward one's waistline, at the expense of one's spine . . . or pause half way down to give emphasis to shoulder blades. So lovely . . . if what they reveal is lovely . . . so brutal if they expose angular lines, humped shoulders, or bumps and blotches on what should be a satiny skin surface.

In Elizabeth Arden's Salon you may quickly become a credit to your loveliest evening frock. Intelligent individual exercises that seem effortless because they are so interesting . . . effective body massage . . . the Ardena Bath that fairly melts away "fatty spots" . . . these and other famous Arden treatments will be used to soften and round out angles, to banish bumpiness, to proportion your figure into lines of slim elegance.

It seems almost unnecessary to add that, at the same time, your skin will be made clear and fresh and exquisitely smooth, for Miss Arden's international reputation as an authority on skin care assures every woman who follows her methods of skin health and beauty.

CANDIDATES IN RACE FOR 7 D. A. R. OFFICES

Delegates Make Call at White House.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK,
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., April 22.—[Special.]—When nine ladies run for seven offices, two are going to be out of a job when the ballots are counted.

MRS. JAMES F. TROTTMAN. [C. F. de Longe Portrait.]

So tonight as nominations were made for seven vice presidencies general of the American Revolution the ripples of controversy began to flutter the calm waters of this 40th annual congress.

The interest centered about Mrs. James F. Trottman, Wisconsin's state regent and national candidate. Somebody started the rumor that she is "friendly with the La Follettes." Mrs. Trottman's friends insisted that there was campaign malice in some adjacent states. Both Michigan and Indiana are booming candidates. Illinois' candidate, Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, is thought to be assured of election and the Illinois delegation is very friendly to Mrs. Trottman.

"Ridiculous," She Says.

"Friendly with La Follette? That's ridiculous," said Mrs. Trottman this evening just before she was nominated. "I have worked like a slave throughout the state, fighting communism. And it's been a hot-bed of it in some places. I have toiled among the schools.

"It's been difficult at the university, too. All this talk is just mean propaganda."

Mindful of the fact that two delegates had yesterday slipped on the marble stairs of the auditorium and knocked knees and arms, today from the platform came this solemn warning:

"Will the daughters please lift their feet when they walk?"

A Slight Accident.

But even this was not sufficient protection. For shortly afterward two "daughters" riding in a taxi, were tumbled when their car collided with another.

The only other casualty of the day was a general one—the mighty downpour of rain at 4 o'clock, just when the entire convention was entering the White House to be received by the President and Mrs. Hoover.

SEABURY CALLS FOR BOOKS OF WALKER OFFICE

New York, April 22.—[Special.]—Samuel Seabury made his first major move as counsel for the legislative investigating committee today by subpoenaeing every record of the office of Commissioner of Accounts James A. Higgins since Mayor Walker took office six years ago.

The subpoena is returnable on May 4, when the legislative committee reconvenes to begin private hearings on the state of the city government.

The subpoena means that Mr. Seabury will inspect all the acts of the mayor's own investigating agent, the commissioner of accounts, learn what instructions the mayor gave him about rooting corruption out of the administration, and what the commissioner reported back to the mayor.

SEARCH FRENCH LINER FOR DOPE AND RUM ON TIP

New York, April 22.—[Special.]—The Ile de France, flagship of the French line, was searched today from stem to stern, from hold to bridge by 135 armed customs inspectors acting on a tip that an attempt was being made to run in $100,000 worth of liquor and one of the largest shipments of drugs ever brought into this port.

The search, which started when the Ile de France was met at Sandy Hook by three customs harbor patrol boats loaded to the gunwales with inspectors, is expected to continue for two days, until every item of the cargo has been scrutinized and every corner of the luxurious liner examined.

Follow These Simple Rules

1. Each evening, for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturdays) W-G-N will broadcast 3 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the Song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles COMPLETELY to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize			$1,000.00
2nd Prize			500.00
3rd Prize			250.00
Next 2 Prizes	$100.00	each	200.00
Next 5 Prizes	50.00	each	250.00
Next 10 Prizes	25.00	each	250.00
Next 100 Prizes	10.00	each	1,000.00
Next 310 Prizes	5.00	each	1,550.00
430 Prizes Totaling			$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may submit as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

It will pay you to make this correction in your tire-buying:

"I WILL BUY ONLY the LEADING MAKE OF TIRE!"

Maybe it IS "too good for the money!"

JUST about a year ago Goodyear set to work to develop a special new tire for 1931. One specification was paramount: it must be an eighteen-karat knockout in style and value!

Ambitiously, the aim was to surpass in looks and utility the standard Goodyear All-Weather Balloon, already the most popular tire in the world.

When the long grind on the test cars was over, the drivers gave their curt and expert verdict:

"Only trouble is, this tire is too good for the money!"

Now this strikingly handsome, stoutly serviceable tire — the new standard Goodyear All-Weather — is ready for you; come see it.

One glance will tell you it is the smartest thing in rubber that ever graced a motor car. As for value, under test on sand, gravel, concrete and brick roads it averaged 24% longer tread-wear than the famous Goodyear it succeeds.

Despite its de luxe look and de luxe performance, it costs you not a cent extra to buy.

Maybe this new Goodyear is "too good for the money."

Certainly it is the latest, greatest reason why "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

SIX IMPORTANT FEATURES

among the many that distinguish the new and improved standard Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tire

1 Its center non-skid pattern is 10% deeper

2 Its shoulder non-skid pattern is 50% deeper

3 Riding ribs and outer non-skid blocks have outside bracing as on truck tires

4 Outer non-skid blocks are handsomely prismed into sidewalls

5 Cross sections are equal to Heavy Duty measurements

6 Styled to 1931 motor car design

PRICES ARE LOW

The following prices on popular sizes are typical of the values now being offered in this new Goodyear

4.75-19 Size $8.55

5.00-19 . . 9.15
5.25-18 . . 10.35
5.50-18 . . 11.50

SOX ROUT INDIANS, 10 TO 2, IN HOME OPENING

HOME RUN KING TEARS LIGAMENT CHASING LINER

Injury Follows Crash at Plate.

Boston, Mass., April 22.—[Special.]—Helping the Red Sox inaugurate the American league season here this afternoon before 15,000, the Yankees won, 7 to 5, but simultaneously suffered a stunning blow to their hopes of making an early pennant dash when Babe Ruth collapsed in the sixth inning from a severely strained ligament in his left thigh and had to be carried from the playing field.

Physicians tonight said Ruth would be out of the game from two weeks to a month. An X-ray examination revealed no broken bones.

The mishap occurred directly after Ruth twice had escaped serious injury in the first half of the same inning. First, he turned his left ankle in running from second to third, and a few seconds later he crashed into Catcher Charles Berry at the plate after scoring after a fly catch.

In the second half of the same inning Tom Oliver, with two of his comrades on the bases, drove a liner down the left field foul line. Ruth turned sharply about but covered only a few steps when he went down in a heap, and as he lay writhing on the grass two of the Red Sox runners crossed the plate.

Carried Off by Mates.

Time was called and there was an immediate rush of players, attendants and photographers to the stricken home run king, who then was carried off the field by six of his team mates. In the clubhouse Dr. Earle Painter, club trainer, advised his removal to a hospital, and Ruth, accompanied by his wife, was conveyed in an ambulance to the Peter Brent Higham hospital, where the injury was diagnosed as a strained ligament in the left thigh.

"It's just a charley horse," boomed the Babe, "and the most painful one I've ever had, but regardless of what fancy titles the doctors may call it, I won't be out for more than a week at the most."

Gets Three Hits Before Injury.

Up to the time of the mishap, Ruth had played a prominent part in bringing about the downfall of the Red Sox. In the first inning he contributed a single to a four run rally. He drove in a run with another single in the fourth, and in the fifth he scored Lary with a double.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Homecoming for the White Sox yesterday almost developed into an afternoon of regrets. They stumbled all over themselves when the party got under way, and a welcoming committee of 10,000 was getting ready to call the cops when everything suddenly changed. The south siders got down to work in a serious way and went bowling along merrily to an impressive 10 to 2 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Not a little of the tumbling that spread woe among the spectators, who already were in a sad state because of frigid weather, was indulged in by the lad who had been touted as the keystone of a rebuilt Sox team. Luke Appling is the name. His antics for three innings proved beneficial to the Indians and annoying to Pat Caraway, but after that he revealed himself at his true value. He did this not alone in the field but by employing his bat on three occasions to promote belated Chicago runs.

Indians Take Lead.

Provided with a fairly tight defense, Caraway might have turned out a performance in which no enemy runs would have been recorded. One sneaked home on him in the first inning because of Appling's slip. The Sox grabbed it right back, but Mel Simons promptly got himself into a tangle over a fly ball and the tribe resumed the lead. Then Appling put Caraway in another jam in the third, but he wriggled free and from then to the finish didn't come even close to trouble. In the seven closing sessions he surrendered only four hits, and a double play started by Appling nullified two of these.

Bush's men hit in about the same fashion in which they fielded. They started slowly but finished strong. In four innings they boasted only four safe hits and one run off Mel Harder. In the fifth, inspired by Appling, they began to pick up and a 2 to 2 tie was created. They added another in the sixth, Appling again playing the heavy rôle. Then in a noisy seventh they not only ruined Harder and a couple of other hurlers, but carried down in the wreckage their old co-workers, Bill Hunnefield, who kicked in with a pair of errors. Four runs blossomed from this disturbance, and then, to

CANZONERI AND BERG.

TONY CANZONERI, lightweight champion, and Jack Kid Berg, junior welterweight titleholder, will toss stuffed gloves at each other tomorrow night at the Stadium. From the known tactics of the two boys, it should be a clever tossing affair of action for the assembled spectators. That's the kind of mill which appeals to the modern fistic fan.

TONY CANZONERI.

Aside from the title questions involved, it will be the first real championship fight offered in Chicago for some time. Incidentally it is an effort by Matchmaker Nate Lewis to show boxers of high caliber that Chicagoans will pay just as much as New Yorkers to see this kind of milling. So there will be some curiosity on the part of others than the boxers and managers to know what amount finds the box office.

With a top admission of $10.80, the house is scaled for a gross of $100,000. Advance sale has been good. The final two days will determine the financial result. The principals are boxing for a percentage, according to the new Stadium policy.

The reason for feeling at least fairly certain there will be action galore is that both the lightweight champion and the Briton are of the aggressive type. Canzoneri starts fast. He sometimes does not end quite as fast. He'll take a crack to land one, and to several opponents has not been difficult to hit.

Berg, likewise aggressive, has been able to travel full routes at his accustomed speed. Fistic opinion is that if there is a knockout it is more likely to be by Canzoneri than by Berg, but if the battle goes the ten round route the junior welterweight, who will scale 135 pounds for this fray, is more likely to receive decision of judges and referee.

Disappointments always are possible, but here is a contest where The Wake, in advance, thinks spectators are more likely than not to get their money's worth.

McATEE SEEN AS BEST JOCKEY OF COMING SEASON

This is the fifth of a series of articles on horses, owners, and jockeys who are expected to figure prominently in the coming turf campaign.

BY FRENCH LANE.

"The best horse in the stable is often the jockey" a wise wag once remarked. So get on the job again, Mr. Binoculars, and tell us who the best of these tiny horsemen will be in 1931.

"Pony McAtee" is his answer. And, according to Mr. Binoculars, McAtee has been the best horse in several men's stables for a good many years even when the racing throngs were acclaiming Sande, Fator and others.

McAtee, a Baltimore native, is a veteran of many years' experience. He has a cool head and in spite of a great many spills which often have brought painful injuries he is still game.

Will Ride at Arlington.

In other years McAtee has done most of his riding in the east. But with Chicago stakes growing in value each year, and the best eastern horses fighting for them Chicago crowds will see more and more of McAtee this season particularly at Arlington in July, where he expects to put in the whole month.

His contract is held by George Odom, who trains Marshall Field's horses. But McAtee fills more outside riding engagements than he does for his contract employer. He will ride Jamestown in that colt's big races this year. He is a master rider of 2 year olds and the stake money he picks up in the wealthy juvenile events and on Jamestown in the 3 year old specials will likely find him at the head of the jockey list in so far as money winning ability is concerned.

Garner Is Overconfident.

Mack Garner, who is to work for Joseph E. Widener, is probably the best of the veterans after McAtee. But Garner has one glaring fault. That is overconfidence. He often takes his horse up too soon and is beaten in the final strides. He lost the Pimlico Futurity in 1929 in that way. Garner had the race won with Spinach. He became overconfident and did not ride his horse out. Weazened old Bill Kelsay on Heeltaps

PHIL BALL HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN PLANE CRASH

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—(AP)—Phil Ball of St. Louis, baseball club owner, and two men riding with him had narrow escapes from injury today when a cabin monoplane was damaged in making a forced landing in Washington county. The pilot, Frank T. Dunn of St. Louis, went to a Washington, Pa., hotel following the accident, while Ball and Lloyd McCoy, St. Louis iron manufacturer, returned to Pittsburgh, where they had been during the day on business.

The ship was caught in a snowstorm and when it was brought to the ground one wing, the landing gear and propeller were smashed. The occupants were unhurt.

Ball is owner of the St. Louis American league club and the Milwaukee club in the American association.

CUBS' GAME WITH PIRATES BLOCKED BY BAD WEATHER

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—At the exact time when the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates were supposed to be gathering around the floral horseshoe and preparing to open the National league season here this afternoon, a great snowstorm broke loose.

No one was snowbound, however, for the opener had been called off several hours before, because rain had started falling at 10 o'clock.

More than 35,000 had been expected at the opening ceremonies. Warm weather had prevailed until this morning and the advance sale had indicated a record turnout. The magnates are not so optimistic about the crowd tomorrow if the weather man is right in his forecast, for, although he has promised fair weather, he says it will be pretty cold.

Blake and French to Pitch.

Fred Blake and Larry French are expected to do the pitching if the opener is played tomorrow. Each of these gents suffered defeat in the Pirate-Cubs series in Chicago last week. French dropped the Chicago opener to Root by a count of 6 to 2 and Blake lost to Spencer in the third game, 4 to 3, on a homer by Grantham in the eighth which drove in two runs.

Grantham, incidentally, couldn't have played today because of a lame leg. It is improbable that he'll be able to play tomorrow, it was announced.

Kiki Cuyler, who was out of the last Cub-St. Louis contest, because of a stiff neck, said today that he feels ready to return to work.

Umpires Moran, McGrath, and Magerkurth, who officiated in last Sunday's game which was protested by Manager Street of the Cardinals, came to Pittsburgh on the same train with the Cubs and will work the series here.

Ruling Is Discussed.

Their presence on the train revived discussion of the unusual ruling which brought forth the Street protest. It now seems that Moran's decision was based on the impression that Stephenson had caught the ball but had let the ball slip into the crowd in an attempt to throw it. On this premise he called Bottomley out. Orsatti was given two bases because the ball went into the crowd.

32 to Battle Tonight for A.A.U. Titles

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Central association of the A. A. U. tonight will choose its boxing team which will fight in the four day national tournament beginning Monday in Madison Square Garden, New York. Thirty-two boys will fight at the Stadium for the eight division championships.

NICK SCIALABA.

Four Golden Gloves boxers who fought in the Chicago-New York intercity bouts on April 3 are included in the list of competitors. Others were members of the Chicago Golden Gloves squad, while many of the remaining boys have downstate city championships and sectional titles to their credit.

Nick Scialaba, Golden Gloves intercity champion in the 115 pound class and a member of the American team, which on May 12 will face the champions of France at Soldiers' field, heads the contestants. Nick should add the central title to his collection, although Woodrow Chancellor, winner of the qualifying tournament in Minneapolis, is a serious contender.

Nick is a tough, rugged customer who has met the best of the bantamweights in the central states at one time or another and generally with victory as his portion. Scialaba, not satisfied with having earned the right to meet the French champion, is seeking the national title and a berth on an American team which will tour Europe this summer.

Dave Yaras, another member of the Golden Gloves squad, also bars Nick's path to the Central A. A. U. crown. The fourth boy in the division is Ernest Cifone.

James Eliopoulos, the runner up in the Golden Gloves and one of the three Chicago boys to lose to New York, is fighting for the flyweight title. Jimmy has an excellent chance to come through since Leo Rodak, 112 pound intercity champion, will not compete.

George Holden, intercity winner and runnerup to Scotty Sylvano, Golden

CANZONERI, BERG READY TO FIGHT FOR TWO CROWNS

Englishman Makes Weight for Tomorrow's Bout.

His weight dispelled any doubt of his ability to reach the lightweight limit, a contention that led to apprehension even in the Briton's own camp ten days ago. Both Berg and Canzoneri have completed their training, excepting the customary day before visit to the gymnasium today for routine exercise.

Berg Still Favorite.

Berg continued to rule a favorite over the New York Italian, although Canzoneri's chances for an early knockout have been more seriously accepted in the last two days. His showing in daily drills, in which he has dropped his spar boys frequently, has led to a switching of sentiment in many quarters.

With Berg down to weight and apparently as strong as ever, ring followers are not anxious to wager on Canzoneri's chances. General opinion seems to favor Tony if he can land a knockout punch in the early rounds. After that, though, Berg gets stronger and travels faster, smothering his opponents with an incessant barrage to the head.

Few men have been able to hurt Berg. His stamina and absorbing qualities are one of the mysteries of the ring. Not particularly robust looking, he musters more energy than almost any other fighter today. The pace at which he carries his opponents in nine cases out of ten discourages men less stolid and courageous than Canzoneri.

Still Going Strong.

Petrolle bounced him off the floor nine times in one round and 15 times in five rounds. Yet when the referee stopped the fight Berg was on his feet throwing punches and begging to be allowed to continue.

Canzoneri can punch harder than any man Berg has met. At present, the lightweight king is said to be hitting his hardest. In their last meeting, however, Berg so completely smothered him that Tony had no opportunity to land a telling punch. That fight was fought over the limit, though, and Canzoneri's handlers expect to meet a different Berg this time. It is their contention that making the weight will slow down the Whitechapel flash.

mat bouts at the Stadium Tuesday night. That was a somewhat anomalous position for a confessed skeptic of the sport, if any.

Mat showmanship has improved notably in the last few years. In fact, at times Tuesday night it seemed almost "apparent." Some bouts looked too good to be true. Nor do we understand why a grappler whose left toe has been twisted by an "excruciating" hold should limp on his right leg thereafter.

Still, when 17,250 persons pay $34,000 in these times and are more than satisfied, we must concede that's something. If that's what they want—and it IS interesting as a spectacle—by all means let them have it. However, you won't mind, will you, if we still think Barnum lived too soon?

Maroons Send Ten Athletes to Penn Relays

Ten members of the University of Chicago track team are headed for the Penn relays today to compete in four races tomorrow and Saturday. The 440 team, composed of Everett Ramsay, Robert Wallace, Jerome Jontry, and Capt. Allen East, will run tomorrow afternoon. Last year the Chicago team defeated Ohio State in a runoff after tying the Buckeyes, making a time of :42 4-10. Last Saturday at the Kansas relays, the quartet was one-fifth of a second under the Penn time made last year.

The sprint medley team, considered the best Maroon team, will also compete tomorrow afternoon. The runners will be Lawrence Brainard in the 440, East and Ramsay in the 220, and Dale Letts, conference half mile and mile champion, in the 880. Coach Ned Merriam expects this team to come close to the record of 3:28 held by Georgetown.

No Chicago teams will compete in the Drake relays this year.

13 ON N. U. TEAM

Nine track men and four members of the football team, who will compete in a special invitation quarter-mile football relay, will represent Northwestern university at the Drake relays tomorrow and Saturday. The squad leaves for Des Moines tonight.

The Wildcat delegation will be headed by the one mile relay team which won first place at the Texas relays and placed second at the Rice relays. The team consists of Ed McAuliffe, Norm Heyne, Stan Culver, and Ted Burgess. Other track men entered are Tom Warne, pole vault; Carl Hall, hurdles; Ed Mandelbaum, high jump, and Paul Engebritsen and Sulo Harkonen, hammer throw. The football relay team consists of Bob Hails, Bill Griffin, Roy Leming, and Ralph Eylar.

Other schools entered in the grid relay event are Notre Dame, Alabama, Tulane, and Kansas.

Anton Zukas Wins A. A. U. Diving Title

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Anton Zukas, a newcomer in swimming circles, last night won the junior 10 foot springboard diving event in the C. A. A. U. championships at Medinah Athletic club. He also took third place in the 50 yard swim.

Zukas was crowded out of second place in the 50 yard event by Mike Valentine of the Lake Shore Athletic club, who lost the race to his teammate, Casmier Chutro. Chutro won by such a close margin that at first it was considered a draw between him and Valentine.

Emma Shemaitis, Illinois Women's Athletic club, was an easy winner in the 300 yard individual medley swim for senior women, despite the fact that school work and mid-term examinations have been demanding their toll from her practice hours.

A 300 yard exhibition medley swim was given by the Lake Shore Athletic club's relay team, which recently set a new world's mark of 3:05.6 in the National A. A. U. meet. The trio consisted of Walter Laufer, Richard Hinch and Don Horn. Summaries:

50 YARD SWIM, JUNIOR MEN—Won by Casmier Chutro, Lake Shore Athletic club; Mike Valentine, Lake Shore Athletic club, second; Anton Zkas, unattached, third. Time, :26.04 seconds.

200 YARD INDIVIDUAL MEDLEY, SENIOR WOMEN—Won by Emma Shemaitis; Isabel Smith, second; Marion Dose, third. Time, 4:46.4. All girls from the I. W. A. C.

10 FOOT SPRING BOARD DIVING FOR JUNIOR MEN—Won by Anton Zukas, unattached; Ken Willard, Northwestern university, second; Fred Strauch, unattached, third.

NEW GEM MICROMATIC RAZOR and BLADES MAKE ALL OTHER RAZORS OUT OF DATE

Men are so amazed at the new Gem Micromatic Razor—the first real shaving invention in over twenty years—that millions of razors, even those recently marketed, will soon be abandoned as old fashioned.

SCIENCE ACCLAIMS SURGICAL STEEL IN NEW BLADES

The newly developed surgical steel used in Gem Micromatic Blades is one of the greatest metallurgical advances in recent years. The steel experts have finally discovered how to produce a steel that takes a micromatically perfect edge yet is so tough that it stands the strain of daily use for many extra shaves.

Two U. S. Patents

The new Gem Micromatic Blade has a patented construction. The U. S. Government has granted it Patent No. 1,739,280 and Patent No. 1,773,614.

Fits ALL Gem Razors

The new blade fits ALL Gem Razors—but in Gem Micromatic Razor it gives shaving joy never before experienced.

Easier to Operate

The Gem Micromatic is mechanically different from any other shaving instrument. Twist it and it opens. Twist it and it closes. Automatically the blade moves into the correct shaving position and is locked there. No vibration.

All One Piece

The new Gem Micromatic is all one piece—nothing to take apart—amazingly easy to load and to clean. Perfect balance.

A Shaving Marvel

But the big surprise of the new razor is its gentle shaves. Due to its unique shaving angle, it glides down your face so easily you think you have missed your whiskers—but every hair is smoothed away! You find a completely new shaving sensation. The Gem Micromatic shaves easily under the nose . . . Get this gold plated razor from your dealer today. Money back if you're not enthusiastic.

BRAVES MAKE IT FIVE IN ROW OVER BROOKLYN, 4 TO 0

Zachary Holds Robins to Four Hits.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 22.—(AP)—A couple of sprightly veterans, Tom Zachary and Rabbit Maranville, conspired to utterly spoil the official homecoming of the Robins today, as the Boston Braves made it five straight over the flock, 4 to 0.

While Zachary pitched the Braves' third shutout victory in three days, holding the Robins to four widely scattered hits, Maranville provided the runs. The 33 year old Rabbit scored two personally and drove in the other pair.

So well did Zachary have the Dodgers subdued that pinch hitters were inserted for Babe Herman and Lefty O'Doul in the last inning. Score:

CARDS TRIM REDS, 3-2.

St. Louis, Mo., April 22.—(AP)—Welcomed home by chilly weather but with 7,500 fans clamoring for another pennant, the Cardinals supported Johnson's pitching with heavy hitting and won their first home game of the season today, defeating Cincinnati, 3 to 2.

The Cardinals scored their first run in the initial inning, but Roettger's homer in the fifth, the first hit off Johnson, tied the score and the Reds took a one run lead in the sixth. St. Louis evened the count in the seventh and added a run in the eighth. Bottomley and Watkins, with three hits each, made it hard going for Kolp, who was supplanted by Frey.

Hughie Critz's homer off Benge in the seventh started a three run rally that sewed up the game. Lindstrom scored what proved the winning run on Jackson's squeeze bunt down the foul line. Though hit hard, Clarence Mitchell went the route for the winners. Score:

WHITE SOX COME HOME AND ROUT INDIANS, 10 TO 2

Eichrodt Surprises Tribe.

As proof that a fellow turned loose will invariably bounce back to surprise his former employer there was Fred Eichrodt, playing in left because of Smead Jolley's indisposition. The young man served several seasons with the Tribe before being banished to the minors, whence he was rescued last fall by the Sox. As an indication that he thought the Indians made a mistake, Eichrodt taunted them yesterday with four hits and a sacrifice bunt in five appearances.

Today Tommy Thomas will make another attempt to get into the stride that made him a sensation in 1929. His opponent will be none less than Wes Ferrell.

There was no mistaking Appling's offense which led the Indians to a run in the opening inning. Luke had been making perfect throws all spring, but this was one he couldn't control. He picked up Burnett's grounder, juggled for a moment in an attempt to get the proper grip on the ball and then turned it loose. It came down somewhere in the foul territory beyond first base and was not recaptured until Burnett had dashed as far as third. He went home with the unearned run when Fonseca smacked a fly of healthy proportions to Eichrodt in left.

Sox Tie Score.

The run with which the Sox restored themselves to even terms in their first attack also was slightly tainted. After Blue had introduced himself to the home folks by flying out, Simons pushed a hit between short and third. He was forced by Reynolds on a tap to the pitcher. Eichrodt came along with an every day fly to left and that should have been the end of the inning, but Hunnefield didn't want it that way. In his anxiety to annoy his former mates he raced back to make the catch and thus interferred with Vosmik. The result was a double, Reynolds scoring.

Peckinpaugh's men leaped back into a one run lead in the second on an incident similar to that in which Hunnefield did the Sox a favor. In this session the irrepressible Vosmik banged a single to center with one out. Hunnefield sailed a fly in the same direction, and nothing would have happened if Simons hadn't started in the wrong direction. He's only a country boy not accustomed to picking fly balls out of the shadows of double deck stands, so he can be forgiven. By the time he located the ball it was on the ground, Hunnefield was on second, and Vosmik on third. A pass to Sewell crammed the bases, but Harder fanned. Then Burnett scratched a single to short and Vosmik registered.

Appling began to redeem himself when he led off in the fifth and what he started wound up as a run. He singled over Hodapp. Tate flied out and Caraway played safe by laying down a successful sacrifice bunt. Blue shoved a single past third base and Appling legged it for home with the tying tally.

Only two hits were involved in the production of the run that put the Sox on the long end in the sixth. Reynolds opened impressively by singling to left and Eichrodt nudged him up a station on a bunt. Cissell walked and Kamm popped out, whereupon Appling rammed a single into center, Reynolds scoring.

Game Becomes Rout.

The inglorious collapse of Hunnefield, Harder and some other guys in the seventh started with Blue walking. Simons sacrificed and Jablonowski was summoned to the relief of Harder who probably was beginning to freeze up. Reynolds welcomed the newcomer with a single. Eichrodt also singled and Blue scored. Cissell filled the bases with a Texas league hit and Jablonowski was excused in favor of Fay Thomas. Reynolds was forced at the plate on Kamm's bounder to Burnett. Appling scratched a single to short and when Hunnefield threw the ball into remote territory, both Eichrodt and Cissell registered. Then Hunnefield made another erratic peg to first on Tate and this enabled Kamm to carry home the fourth run of the inning.

In view of the weather the Sox could have performed a real service if they had desisted from hammering three more runs across in the eighth. This began when Blue was hit by Thomas. He stole second and Simons walked. Reynolds doubled to right for his third straight hit, Blue counting. Simons and Reynolds tore in on Eichrodt's safe drive down the third base lines. Ike figured he could make two bases on his wallop, but was thrown out.

Izaak Walton League Opens Annual Conference Today

BY BOB BECKER.

Important news for more than six million hunters in the United States will be made public today when Paul G. Redington, chief of the United States biological survey, addresses the Izaak Walton league game conference which opens this morning in the Sherman hotel.

Representatives of Walton league chapters from more than 35 states, conservation heads of many states, and other game and fish experts will hear Mr. Redington when he speaks on "Unfavorable Wild Life Conditions and Some Means of Relief." In this address, the first since the government placed further restrictions on waterfowl shooting, the survey chief is expected to tell of the serious situation which faces the sportsmen of the country as a result of small quail crops throughout the United States and decreasing flocks of waterfowl, and he will suggest how conservation organizations and sportsmen may remedy the situation.

Col. Randolph Welcomes Waltons.

The game conference and convention of the Walton league opens officially this morning when Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, delivers an address of welcome to the gathering. Following reports from Willoughby G. Walling, the Chicago sportsman, who is chairman of the national executive board of the league and who will tell of conservation progress in 1930, and from M. K. Reckord, general manager, the conference will dig into the problems of growing more game birds, producing more fish for America's lakes and streams, and linking the farmer to a nation-wide program of conservation.

Tonight Gen. Milton A. Reckord, executive vice president of the National Rifle Association of America, addresses the convention. Tomorrow night more than a thousand Waltonians will hear Admiral Richard E. Byrd tell of his polar adventures.

Delegates Check In.

As delegates to this ninth annual convention checked into the city last night in order to be ready for the official opening this morning, outdoor enthusiasts in Chicagoland swarmed to the National Sportsman's show at the Sherman hotel, which is being held in conjunction with the Waltonians' meeting, to see more than 125 exhibits.

They found the latest models in tents rigged up ready for use, the newest fishing lures being demonstrated in tanks full of water, shiny new shotguns and rifles (the latter available for tryouts on the rifle range), freshly painted canoes and motorboats, and hundreds of other gadgets and items which are used by the twenty million American outdoor fans every season. This sportsman's show will continue through Saturday night.

Chiefs Threaten to Strike.

Two of the show's most distinguished Indian visitors, Chief Crazy Horse and Young Skunk, from the Black Hills, continue to be one of the prize features of the exhibition and are surrounded by admiring boys wherever they go. But these Sioux chiefs threatened last night to go back home because they do not like to sleep in a white man's bed and hotel floors are not nearly so soft as a tepee bed made out of animal skins placed on the ground.

CENTRAL A. A. U. BOXERS CLASH IN FINALS TONIGHT

Tony Sutton, the light heavyweight Golden Gloves runner-up to Jack Kranz and winner in the intercity matches, is top choice tonight. Leo Mylanski is his outstanding rival. Sutton knocked out his first opponent in the early rounds and stopped his second foe to reach the Stadium semi-finals.

Frankie Knauer, winner of the Milwaukee Golden Gloves tournament last February, is outstanding in the 147 pound division. Frank lost a four round decision to Johnny Phagan in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions at the Coliseum.

Haywood Storey, national junior middleweight champion, is conceded an edge in the fight for the Central A. A. U. title. Storey won his national title recently at Boston. Ossie Jefferson, another excellent Negro boxer, is also in the same division.

Tonight's bouts will start at 8 o'clock. Twenty-four fights will produce the eight champions and it is expected that at least four hours will be necessary to finish the program. Harry Berz of the Central A. A. U., in charge of the weights and drawings, will introduce a new order of events tonight. The show will start with the semi-finals for 175 pounders and heavyweights and then revert to the fly-weight division.

The list of competitors follows:

112 POUND CLASS—James Eliopoulos, Thomas Wiggins, Albert De Schepper, Lynn Thompson.

118 POUND CLASS—Woodrow Chancellor, Ernest Cifone, Nick Scialaba, Dave Yaras.

126 POUND CLASS—Davie Day, Michael Drazel, Joe Chevatier, Paul Stepright.

135 POUND CLASS—Tony Tonielli, George Holden, John Esposito, Einar Hedquist.

147 POUND CLASS—Walter Newton, George Trapp, Tom Murray, Frank Knauer.

160 POUND CLASS—Haywood Storey, Ossie Jefferson, John Pryhil, Roy Skeldon.

175 POUND CLASS—L. A. Orr, Leo Mylanski, John Persche, Tony Sutton.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS—Raymond Drehobl, Sol Jackson, Jess Baker, Earl Satner.

All contestants will weigh in before 6 o'clock tonight at the Stadium and drawings then will be made for the semi-finals.

JOCKEY ROBERTS KILLED BY FALL FROM MOUNT

San Francisco, Cal., April 22.—(AP)—Jockey Felix Roberts, 16 year old apprentice rider, was killed here today when his mount, Laumaia, crashed into the rail and hurled Roberts 30 feet down an embankment. The boy's neck was broken. Roberts' home was at Winnipeg, Canada. He was under contract to Mrs. Tom Hunt.

RING LARDNER HEARS FROM WILLIS CLOUGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—Dear friend, this is the big opening day here at home and we open up with the Chicago Cubs for a series and maybe we will be able to get even with them for what they done to us in Chicago where they beat us 3 games out of 4, so in order as to get even with them we will have to beat them 3 games out of 4 here and that will make us even with them on the both series.

I found last night that I come pretty near not coming here with the Pittsburgh club as Bill Hinchman told me that Manager Howley, the manager of the Cincinnati club, had tried to get me in a trade. Manager Howley said I would just round out his club and he could not understand how the Cincinnati scouts had come to overlook me and asked what league was I in last year so Bill told him I was not in no league and Manager Howley said that made it all the harder to understand how his scouts come to overlook me.

The deal fell through because Manager Ens wanted Red Lucas and Manager Howley would not trade Lucas unless Manager Ens throwed in Forbes field. Am anxious to meet this field as have heard a lot about him, but Bill says he never reports till late. WILLIS CLOUGH.

LONDOS' PURSE CAUSES LEWIS TO CHALLENGE HIM

Ed [Strangler] Lewis, claimant of the world's wrestling championship, read in Wichita yesterday about the big house that Londos and Kwariana drew at the Stadium Tuesday night. Then he wired Promoter Jim Mullen and Joe Coffey, for whom he is wrestling at the Coliseum next Tuesday night, as follows:

"Keep Londos in town if possible and see if he will not wrestle me at the Coliseum on April 28. I have thrown him so many times that two more falls won't hurt him much. I will be in Chicago Saturday to go before the state athletic commission in an effort to force Londos to wrestle me or get out of Chicago."

If Londos will not wrestle Lewis next Tuesday night at the Coliseum then Jean Le Deaux of France will get the assignment.

CUBS ANNOUNCE SALE OF OSBORN TO PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—[Special.]—Manager Rogers Hornsby announced this evening that the Cubs had sold Pitcher Bob Osborn to Pittsburgh for a cash consideration. He said no other players were involved.

Osborn first came to the Cubs in 1925 from the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league. He remained with Chicago for two years and went to Los Angeles and Reading for a year each before returning to the Cubs in 1930. Last year he won ten games while losing six during mid season.

IZAAK WALTON LEAGUE of AMERICA

FILLY VICTOR IN HIGHLAND STAKE FOR THIRD YEAR

Kensington Beats John F. by a Length.

New York, April 22.—[Special.]—For the third year a filly won the Highland claiming stakes, feature at Jamaica today. The race is one of the Metropolitan Jockey club's tests exclusively for 3 year olds. Kensington, bearing the colors of W. H. Travers, ran to an easy victory after taking the lead at the head of the stretch.

Wins Three at Miami.

At Miami last winter, Kensington won three in a row, and the seasoning she received evidently stood her in good stead because the race in the Highland was by no means a cakewalk even though it looked easy in its latter stages.

John F. was second to the wire, a length and a half back of the winner and two lengths before Black and Blue, which had dashed off at the start as if he would win.

Plunge on Black and Blue.

There was a big plunge in the betting on Black and Blue, which Trainer Max Hirsch had gotten into fine condition for the race. He was driven down from 20 to 1 to 10 to 1, and the chance of a filly repeating the scores of Sweep Out in 1929 and Hand to Hand last year looked small in the face of the confidence which M. L. Schwartz's son of Black Servant was backed.

WHITNEY HORSES WIN.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 22.—(AP)—The stables of the Whitney clan swept the feature races at Havre de Grace today as C. V. Whitney's Fall Apple won the $10,000 Aberdeen stakes and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Anchors Aweigh qualified for the Freakness and Kentucky Derby with a triumph in the Shenandoah purse.

In winning the Aberdeen stakes and the purse of $13,850, Fall Apple conquered 15 of the ranking juveniles in training. Trailing the Whitney juvenile in second place was H. T. Archibald's Westy Junior, while third went to Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Stephen Fetchit.

Fall Apple Pays $23.70 to 2.

Although ridden by Arthur Robertson and coupled with Clotho in the betting, Fall Apple paid $23.70 for $2.

The victory of Anchors Aweigh, the only son of Man o' War to win a stake race as a 2 year old in 1930, further strengthened Mrs. Payne Whitney's chances to win the $50,000 3 year old features at Pimlico on May 9 and at Churchill Downs May 16.

Gets Slow Start.

Anchors Aweigh got away slowly, but closed with a great burst of speed to pass William Zeigler Jr.'s Levante and win the mile and 70 yard jaunt by two lengths. Mrs. Charles Amory's War, also a son of Man o' War, which cost $45,000 as a yearling in the 1929 Saratoga sales, finished second, Levante being forced to third place in the final strides.

Jockey Robertson, who was on the ground three days for rough riding, was up on Fall Apple, the Rancocas stable's Hobnob, winner of the first race, and Dunlin's Lad, which won the third.

McATEE SEEN AS BEST JOCKEY OF COMING SEASON

Will Ride Jamestown in Rich Stakes.

kept plodding along and got the decision in the last jump.

The Belair stud will have Kelsay this year and he should prove a very capable successor to Earl Sande, who rode Gallant Fox for Belair to his many triumphs last year. Kelsay is a better rider at 40 than he was at 28.

For the western owned establishments La Verne Fator, under contract to Col. Edward R. Bradley; Earl Steffan, who rides for the John Hertz stable, and Earl Pool, who will operate as a free lance, are expected to shine brighter than the other stars.

Fator Ranks High.

There are many racegoers who believe Fator is the best rider in the country. He has plenty of critics who think he is greatly overrated. Their chief criticism is that he is weak in distance events, they censure his judgment of pace and his ability to ride a strong finish at the end of a route race.

Steffan showed remarkable improvement last year after he had been in the hands of Trainer Bill Knapp for a few months. Knapp, a great jockey at one time, taught Steffan all the tricks of the trade. Steffan seldom gets excited, he is willing to take a desperate chance, he is a good judge of pace and late last season was able to get all there was out of the horses he was riding. Pool will star in the 2 year old events there being few better juvenile riders anywhere.

Frankie Coltiletti, who might rank with the leaders, is having trouble finding work since he lost his job with Willis Sharpe Kilmer as a result of his ride on Sun Beau in the Agua Caliente handicap. Whether or not the inference is that Coltiletti was to blame for the favorite's defeat in the $100,000 Mexican handicap, the fact remains Coltiletti's services are not much in demand.

The Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney stable has three capable pilots in Albert Robertson, Sonny Workman, and Kenneth Russell. And ranking right with them is John Joe Bejshak with the Sagamore stable which will do considerable racing in Chicago this season.

Other Capable Veterans.

George Ellis and Eddie Kummer are other capable veterans so are Jimmy Smith and Jim McCoy. Ellis always had a talent of squeezing horses through very narrow openings and as a result is called "knot hole."

Paul Neal under contract to John Marsh of Chicago, L. Cunningham, a far western apprentice; E. Neal, a sensation at the Havana winter meeting; J. Eaby, an eastern lightweight rider; Eugene James, with [illegible] Lieter's stable; D. Meade and [illegible] Remillard, both youngsters; Charles Kurtsinger, who rides for the Chatree stable, are others who are going to Mr. Binoculars might [illegible] sensational season and fatten on [illegible] or near the lead.

And where is Sande? You're not to ask.

So far he hasn't applied for license at any of the racing [illegible] but that doesn't mean he has [illegible] up his tack and quit the turf.

Sande is far over weight and to make no attempt to get down to [illegible] poundage that would find him [illegible] daily engagements. He will ride [illegible] casionally in lightweight events.

Tomorrow's concluding article in this series will deal with the [illegible] old championship race.

NERVOUS?

MAKE THIS TEST

Draw in the missing parallel lines between the heavy black lines. If you can do this rapidly, without resting your arm on the table, drawing in solid, equidistant straight lines, your nerves are in good shape. If your lines are irregular and show unequal spacing, you are exhibiting a symptom of nervousness. Maybe your smoke is wrong.

If you cannot pass this test—
switch to EL TOROS . . . . . for your nerves' sake

If you can pass it—
switch to EL TOROS anyway . . for the flavor's sake

DON'T BE NERVOUS. Many men have found that the only thing wrong with their nerves was simply that they were not smoking the right cigar. Nervousness stopped and enjoyment mounted when they switched to El Toros. El Toros never get on your nerves. The reason is no secret. El Toros are made of the mildest, smoothest, finest-flavored tobacco leaf in the world. This is tobacco grown and ripened in the same tropical climate as Havana, but given a wonderful flavor all its own by the ideal soil conditions of Porto Rico.

And because El Toros are so well made they have the lip-comfort of a 25¢ Havana. Long filler, 100% machine-made—100% sanitary. And because cigars from Porto Rico come duty free, El Toros cost 5¢ instead of much more.

ENDS OWN LIFE IN AUTO; LEAVES NOTE TO WOMAN

Leaving two notes, one pinned to a tiny package containing a sorority pin, Alois V. Roucka, 40 years old, of 2902 Lemp avenue, St. Louis, a traveling salesman, took poison last night while sitting in his automobile at 27th street and Lawndale avenue. He died at the county hospital.

Roucka was found lying half out of his car by a passing detective squad. On the front seat the policemen found the letters. One was addressed to Miss Charlotte Larson of Whitehall, Mich., the other asked police to notify his son, George W. Roucka, 2529 North 75th avenue, Elmwood Park, and Miss Larson.

The note to Miss Larson was pinned to a registered package containing the pin. The package was ready for mailing. According to police the tenor of the letter was that Roucka still loved her, that he hoped for her forgiveness, and that he couldn't go on because certain people in Canada were making his life miserable.

Miss Larson said she had known Roucka for four years. She met him while she was in nursing school at the Augustana hospital and had been on friendly terms with him since. His wife was dead, she said. She did not know what the Canadian trouble was.

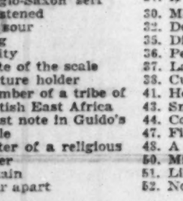
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



Balloon Pioneer Dies

CAPT. JOHN BERRY.

St. Louis, Mo., April 22.—(AP)—Capt. John Berry, once known as the dean of balloon pilots, died here today at the age of 82.

Capt. Berry made his first ascension when he was 14 years old at Rochester, N. Y., where he was born. He came to St. Louis in 1893. Capt. Berry won the first national balloon race held from Indianapolis, June 9, 1909. In October, 1912, he piloted a balloon at the international balloon races at Stuttgart, Germany, and landed on the shores of the Baltic sea. His son, Albert Berry, made his first parachute jump at the age of 9, and later made the first parachute leap of record from a moving plane.

KNIFE ATTACK CAUSES DEATH OF WINE MAKER

Joseph Lagen, 50 years old, 3133 West 47th street, a winemaker, died early this morning at the Mercy hospital from wounds inflicted on him by two men who stabbed him and burned him with acid early Tuesday. He is believed to have been the victim of racketeers.

Lagen was attacked at Prairie avenue and 24th street as he was on his way to work at the Hydrox plant at 24th street and Lake Park avenue, and he fell unconscious from his wounds in front of the Mercy hospital. He told the police that he had received threats after he had refused to buy his wine grapes from a dealer who charged $1.10 a box and bought them from another dealer for 75 cents a box.

Johnny Baker, Foster Son of Buffalo Bill, Dies

Denver, Colo., April 22.—(AP)—One of the last survivors of the 'Old West," Johnny Baker, foster son of Buffalo Bill [William F. Cody], died late today.

Baker was a former world's champion rifle shot and was known to thousands of tourists as the operator of the "Pahaska Teepee" at the summit of Lookout mountain west of here.

Frank C. Stover, Former Resident Here, Is Dead

Ball was also prominent in the Masonic order. His funeral, to be held here at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow, will be conducted by the G. A. R. and the Scottish Rite.

SCIENCE ENDS STOMACH PAIN!

New Prescription to Banish Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Sourness, Gas and Resulting Nervousness and Sleeplessness

Burning acid stomach, pain after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn, dizziness, and the resulting nervousness, sleeplessness, and colds won't trouble you if you use the new prescription ACIDINE.

Mrs. B. C. Hill of Ogden, Utah, says "I had trouble for four years with my stomach and had taken baking soda and many medicines but they would give me only momentary relief. I tried the sample of ACIDINE which you mailed me and it was so good that I bought a large can and after using half of it, haven't had a pain in my stomach since. ACIDINE surely is wonderful."

No other known remedy for acidity surpasses Acidine. Contains an effective starch digestant, Japtase, which liquefies 800 times its own weight of starchy food, under proper conditions. Five other scientific ingredients neutralize burning acid, stop gas, soothe irritated stomach lining. Its instantaneous action in cleaning up the troubles that commonly lead to stomach distress is more pleasing than you would believe possible.

Acidine is safe, harmless and pleasant for adults and children. Used by millions of people. It costs you nothing if it fails for the Acidine people say to Walgreen's. "If any customer is displeased with the results obtained from Acidine, give them back their money immediately. We stand behind this product absolutely." Keep Acidine in your home always.

In Memoriam.

BLUMENTHAL—Rolla Blumenthal. In memory of my dear mother, who passed away 5 years ago today. DOROTHY LITTON.

JOHNSON—Adelaide A. Johnson. In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today, April 23, 1930.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
A beautiful memory she left behind.
She had a nature you could not help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew her and loved her
Her memory will never grow cold.
LOVING HUSBAND AND SON.

MORLEY—Michael J. Morley. In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, who passed away 1 year ago today.
Sad and sudden was the call,
So dearly loved by one and all,
His memory is as sweet today
As in the hour he passed away.
LOVING WIFE, SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE CUTS ANNUAL DUES

Seen Anticipation of Dull Trading Period.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

That the current decline in the security markets is anticipating the earnings results for many industrials in the second quarter is the growing opinion in the market community. Speculators are becoming reconciled to the belief that the prices now reigning in the market give a better line on prospects of the current quarter than the quotations of a few weeks ago.

The professionals are playing the short side of the market for what it is worth. However, volume or trading continues small and there is evidence that brokers are preparing themselves for a possible extended period of dull business.

Dues Reduced $250.

That the commission men are not expecting that their business will grow rapidly in the next few months was seen in the action of the Chicago Stock exchange governing committee yesterday in reducing the dues of members for the coming year. Dues for the ensuing year, which officially begins May 1, will be $400 for each member. This is a reduction of $250 from the current rate which has been maintained for the last few years.

A reflection of the same feeling is found in the current price of exchange memberships. A seat is reported to have been sold for $14,000 this week. Official announcement of the sale has not been made yet. In the previous seat transact i the price was $20,000.

Prices Hold Up Well.

Approximately 110,000 shares turned over in yesterday's trading on the exchange. Stock prices held up fairly well in the face of notable weakness in a number of the leading pivotals on the big board.

Market sponsors for U. S. Radio made no attempt to recapture the gain lost on the previous day. The issue closed unchanged. Nominal losses were the rule among all classes of shares. Interest ran high in Middle West Utilities as that issue got down to 20, but it steadied at that price and recovered a slight fraction. There was sudden let-up of activity in Cord corporation shares, but the price showed little change.

MAKE $650,000 LOAN ON OLD KIRK SOAP PLANT SITE

A loan for $650,000 for five years with interest at 5½ per cent has been negotiated by Cremin & O'Connor on the old Kirk soap factory property at the northeast corner of Michigan avenue and the Chicago river, just south of The Tribune Tower. The Kirk Realty Trust, for which the Continental Illinois Trust and Savings bank holds title as trustee, is the borrower. The trust deed is to the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank as trustee.

The Kirk property is irregular in dimensions, having a total area of approximately 50,000 square feet. The buildings on the site were razed some time ago and it is now occupied as an outdoor parking station under a lease subject to cancellation. It is regarded as one of the outstanding building sites in the city.

Boul Mich Lease.

Pidot, Inc., importer of furniture, interiors and antiques, has leased from Hale's Bedding Stores, Inc., of New York, the store 40x125 at 516 and 518 North Michigan avenue, together with 1,000 square feet on the Grand avenue level of the building, which it will occupy after May 1. The term and rental were not disclosed. Hall & Ellis were brokers in the transaction.

The lessee will install one of the most attractive store fronts on North Michigan avenue in the new location. The lower level space will be used for workrooms in connection with its drapery business. Samuel L. Pidot is president of the corporation, which now has an establishment at 2842 Sheridan road.

Rock Island Transfer.

Three properties purchased by the Rock Island system interests about two years ago, to which title has since been held by individuals, have now been conveyed to the Rock Island Improvement company, one of the system's holding companies, according to deeds which have just been filed for record. The properties comprise two adjoining holdings at the southwest corner of Sherman and Polk streets, 199x106, and the northeast corner of Wells and Taylor streets, 312x107.

STEEL OUTPUT DROPS AGAIN TO HALF CAPACITY

Further Decline in Prices Reported.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another week of slackening in steel production, making the fourth successive weekly recession, has brought the steel industry down to half of its rated capacity and back to the level of operations during the last half of 1930.

It is now concluded by the trade writers that the seasonal improvement that marked the first quarter of this year has spent its force and that the best that is expected is that operations will be maintained around the present level for the next few weeks.

The Iron Age places current mill operations at around 49 per cent of capacity, compared with 51 per cent a week ago, and 57 per cent at the March peak. "Steel" estimates current output at barely 50 per cent, compared with 52 per cent last week and 57 per cent late in March. Both journals comment on a further decline of 25 to 50 cents a ton in scrap steel and iron prices.

Intensifies Caution.

"Developments within the industry and outside of it have served as a restraining influence on buyers, intensifying the caution which has marked their commitments for some time," Iron Age says. "The uncertainty of the price situation, particularly in flat rolled products, and the sharp decline in securities prices may be cited as factors that have had a decided effect on business sentiment.

"The discussion of wage reductions in the steel industry, though they have been mentioned in no official way, has possibly had a further unsettling effect, as steel consumers are well aware that cost savings in the steel industry are generally passed along to them in whole or in part in the form of lower prices.

Encouraging Sign.

"An encouraging improvement in retail sales of motor cars this month, together with a semi-official estimate that April output of automobiles will total not less than 330,000 units, compared with nearly 237,000 last month, strengthens the expectation that May's record will at least equal that of April, although manufacturers are not venturing predictions."

"Sentiment appears to be a little more buoyant," Steel says. "There is disclosed this week a more widespread conviction that the slide in production will not carry the industry to as relatively low a point as might be expected in the usual summer decline. The belief also prevails that there is a latent force in demand that will bring an early fall recovery of encouraging proportions."

The review also points out that 20 leading steel producers, representing 75 per cent of the country's ingot capacity in 1930 earned 3.71 per cent on their capitalization, the lowest rate in six years and comparing with an average of 6.31 per cent for that period. At the end of last year the capitalization of these companies totaled $4,366,703,324 and their earnings for 1930 aggregated $198,775,599.

CEMENT PRICES SAG

In the wake of a price war induced by overproduction and slackened demand cement prices have tumbled to the lowest level in the last fifteen years. So-called price wars have disturbed production and marketing conditions in several large industries in recent months, Industrial Alcohol having been the last to feel the effects.

New declines this week, marking the culmination of a movement that has gained rapidly since the beginning of the year, affected territory as far west as the Rocky mountains. A 20 cent drop was put into effect in the Hudson river territory, following a decline of 10 cents a barrel in New York last week.

In the scramble for limited business contracts have been closed at prices that show little or no profit to manufacturers, it was said. In several instances, involving large tonnages for road building and public works, states and municipalities have taken advantage of the demoralized market by selling for and rejecting bids on the same projects repeatedly and have obtained lower prices on each new proposal, it is said.

Exchange Revises Listing Requirements for Trusts

New York, April 22.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today dealt firmly with one of the phenomena of the 1929 boom, the general management type of investment trust.

The exchange announced a sweeping revision of its listing requirements for investment trust shares, and along with its new requirements, issued a list of cogent observations as to investment trust practices.

In analyzing the market crash of 1929, E. H. H. Simmons, at that time president of the exchange, has pointed to the rapid issuance of investment trust and holding company securities which preceded it as an important aggravating factor. The exchange has also watched closely the relationships of member firms with investment trusts which they have sponsored. The new trust regulations, therefore, are regarded in Wall street as one of the important stands taken by the exchange since, and partly as a result of, the crash.

Eyes Directorates.

One of the outstanding recommendations of the exchange is that directorates of investment trusts should include independent individuals, not directly connected with the management of the trust or its banking sponsors, to guard against the possibility or the suspicion of questionable transactions between the trusts and their sponsors.

This view will weigh with the exchange in considering listing applications. It deals with a subject on which there has been much controversy since the investment trust movement gained momentum in 1929. It has been pointed out that investment firms organizing management type investment trusts and then using trusts' funds to purchase securities in which they may be dealing may be open to suspicion of using the public's funds for their own ends. On the other hand, investment firms with trust affiliates have asserted that the use of the trust's funds to purchase their own securities was only an evidence of their faith in the securities in which they were dealing. This knotty problem has been in part responsible for the post-crash trend away from management trusts toward fixed trusts.

Furthermore, the stock exchange has taken a decided stand against the pyramiding of investment trusts, through certain trusts acquiring control of others. "In the case of acquisition of interests in other investment trusts," the governing committee states, "the feeling of the committee is that this procedure should in general be discouraged as containing within itself the possibility of unsound pyramiding, and as involving to a degree the delegation to others of a responsibility for the investment of funds which the management had assumed in connection with the operations of their own company."

The exchange also offers objections to the purchase by investment trusts of their own common stocks, when they have outstanding preferred issues or bonds, pointing out that this practice tends to reduce the equity upon which the preferred issues or bonds are based, and upon which the holders of these securities are justified in relying.

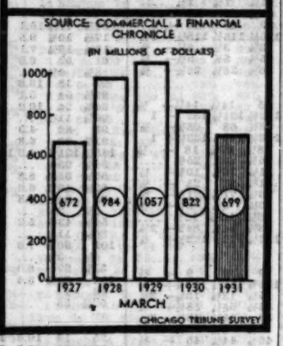
Attitude on Earnings.

The exchange also makes extensive observations as to what it regards as proper practice in earnings statements, accounting methods and dividend policies. These observations deal with conservative practices designed to safeguard the investor in investment trust securities, in part through making public accurate information regarding financial conditions.

While there are only a score of investment trusts listed on the stock exchange, out of a total of some 1,300 issues of all stocks, the stock exchange's listing requirements for trust shares are expected in Wall street to serve as an important guide for investment trust practice generally, particularly as listing is sought for more shares.

The exchange has as yet made no provision for the listing of the so-called fixed trusts through which are sold to investors shares or certificates against certain specified assortments of underlying common stocks, which may be changed only under certain provisions.

NEW FINANCING BY CORPORATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES



MOVEMENT OF GOLD FROM FRANCE TO U. S. GAINS IN PROPORTIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 22.—Movement of gold from France to the United States assumed substantial proportions today with the announcement that $12,500,000 had been engaged for shipment to New York in addition to the initial shipment of $3,500,000 arranged earlier in the week, a total of $16,000,000.

The flow of gold from Paris is the heaviest since the Bank of France more than a year ago began to accumulate gold at an extraordinary pace, the movement to Paris culminating a few weeks ago after France's gold reserve had reached a record peak, second only to the monetary gold holdings of the United States. Last year, when France's supply of the metal was growing rapidly, more than $73,000,000 in gold was shipped from this country to Paris.

Not since 1927, when $29,963,000 came in from France, has there been such a large movement of the metal from Paris to New York. It was made possible by the recent decline of the franc and a decrease in ocean freight rates, lowering the gold export point.

Primarily, the sudden turn in the tide of gold away from Paris is believed to reflect the change in economic conditions in France, which began to experience deflation relatively late. Furthermore, France is expected to take considerable wheat in the near future and its invisible balance of trade from tourist expenditures likely will be much less this year than in previous years.

The flow of gold to New York instead of to London also is believed to have forestalled a movement to this country from England. The French central banking authorities are thought to be in favor of a redistribution of the huge stock of gold accumulated by France.

Scattered shipments of gold have been coming to the United States from South America and the orient and the monetary gold stocks of the country are at an all time high level above $4,700,000,000. The influx from France promises to expand the gold supply in this country considerably and doubtless will raise anew the question of foreign loans.

SEE CHINESE ACTION AS MOVE IN SETTING UP GOLD STANDARD

NANKIN, China, April 22.—(AP)—The Chinese government took action today widely interpreted as a move toward establishing a currency system based on gold. The ministry of finance announced the government's Central bank would issue bank notes secured by incoming customs payments in gold.

The ministry said the notes would be worth forty cents in gold, redeemable on demand with gold drafts on foreign financial centers.

While the ministry explained the notes were to be issued to facilitate customs payments already payable only in gold, it was believed they soon would be in general circulation for all purposes.

As a result of the drop of the Mexican silver dollar to about 21 cents, many importers and retailers in China are quoting only gold prices.

Chesapeake Corporation's Quarterly Earnings Gain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 22.—Declining railroad revenues have not yet had the effect of reducing the earnings of the Chesapeake corporation and the Alleghany corporation, the two large Van Sweringen rail securities holding companies, their quarterly statements indicated today. The Chesapeake corporation reported net income for the first quarter of $1,630,415 after expenses, interest, etc., equal to 93 cents a share on 1,799,745 shares of stock, compared with $1,534,986, or 85 cents a share, in the corresponding period of last year. Net profit of the Alleghany corporation for the quarter was $948,278 after expenses, interest, etc., against $1,116,481 in the first quarter of 1930.

Standard Cap & Seal Pays Dividend; Reports Income

Directors of Standard Cap and Seal corporation have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents per share on its common stock, payable May 15 to stockholders of record May 1. Net earnings of the corporation for the three months ended March 31, 1931, were $156,644, equal to 76 cents per share on the 206,000 shares on common stock outstanding.

NEED CONFIDENCE FOR PROSPERITY, DUFFIELD SAYS

"If we are to regain the prosperity that formerly was ours we must substitute confidence for distrust," Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, stated in a talk given before the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

"We are passing through a period of universal distrust," Mr. Duffield said. "Long before our so-called prosperous days had terminated we were assimilating the doctrine of universal suspicion. Men had ceased to believe in each other. They questioned each other's motives. They attacked the integrity of each other's thoughts.

"Americans are accused of being a materialistic people. We are accused of having either low ideals or no ideals at all. There is one thing, however, that refutes this charge, and that is life insurance."

Uruguay Seeks Temporary Halt on Debt Payments

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 22.—(AP)—Ministers to France and England have been instructed to start negotiations looking to temporary suspension of payments on the national debt. Negotiations with United States bondholders have been abandoned. If the proposal fails, it was said today, the minister of finance has prepared new estimates creating additional taxes calculated to yield 8,000,000 gold pesos to meet the deficit of 6,000,000 gold pesos which has been forecast for the end of the financial year, June 30.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC SHOWS EARNING DEFICIT

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today reported for the first quarter a deficit of $2,885,945, compared with net income available for dividends in the like quarter last year amounting to $4,546,618.

Orders received declined to $30,100,410 from $47,150,196 for the quarter last year, and net sales billed declined to $27,837,160 from $45,043,234 for the first three months of 1930.

Close New South Wales Bank; Deposits $425,000,000

CANBERRA, Australia, April 22.—(AP)—The New South Wales Savings bank, with deposits of $425,000,000 and 192 branches, will not be open tomorrow. Steps are being taken, however, to insure its continued operation, possibly through a merger.

Officials declared that the bank, which is a state institution, is solvent. Most of its assets are securities of the New South Wales government.

Al of the state bank's 192 branches and 642 agencies will be closed "until further notice," pending the conclusion of the merger negotiations.

The bank has been subjected to heavy withdrawals for the last three months and this developed into a run after announcement of plans of Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales to repudiate interest payments due on loans in London.

Stipulates Course of Action.

The bank's board has advised that the institution be taken over by the Commonwealth bank in order to protec depositors. The chairman of the Commonwealth has informed Premier Lang that immediate assistance would be given, provided that the New South Wales government adopt a certain course of action, which was not made public.

Lang reported that the cabinet had approved the proposal, which, however, must be ratified by the parliament of New South Wales. This step is all that remains to assure the continued existence of the vast state financial institution.

May Resubmit Bill.

Prime Minister James Scullin said today the government bill for the issuance of $90,000,000 in fiduciary notes which the senate rejected last week might be submitted to parliament again, and the Commonwealth bank might ask legislation to increase the notes it is empowered to issue, in the face of the increased responsibility which would be thrown upon it after the proposed merger.

After the New South Wales government defaulted interest payments due in London April 1 on its bonds, the Commonwealth government made good the default. It now is attempting to collect the amount involved from the state government.

BONDS BREAK SHARPLY

New York, April 22.—(AP)—Australian bonds broke sharply today on the New York stock exchange, following the announcement of the closing of the New South Wales Savings bank. The 5 per cent issue of the commonwealth government dropped more than 350 a $1,000 bond, and losses in the 4½'s of 1956 and in the two issues of 5's of 1957 and of 1958 of New South Wales ranged from $10 to $30 per bond.

UNION PACIFIC'S 1930 EARNINGS ARE $38,736,005

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 22.—The Union Pacific railroad increased its holdings of New York Central last year by adding 19,082 shares, the annual report of the system issued today disclosed. Other investments in nonaffiliated companies remained unchanged.

Net income of the system last year fell to $38,736,005 after charges, equal after preferred dividends to $15.36 a share on the 2,229,160 common shares, compared with $49,256,042 in 1929 year, or $20.26 a share, on common.

The general balance sheet showed current assets of $48,093,371, against $45,953,027 at December 31, 1929, and current liabilities of $46,076,645, compared with $46,260,713, leaving net working capital of $2,016,726, against net current liabilities of $302,685. Cash was $18,485,167, against $9,313,777, and time loans and deposits totaled $1,500,000, compared with $6,500,000.

The report showed that at the close of 1930 the Union Pacific held the following number of shares in nonallied carriers: Baltimore and Ohio, 62,670 shares of common and 18,059 shares of preferred; Chicago and North Western railway, 44,206 shares of common; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, 18,450 shares of preferred; Illinois Central, 247,500 shares of common and 69,750 shares of preferred; New York Central, 267,152 shares capital stock.

National Biscuit Net for First Quarter $4,850,670

New York, April 22.—(AP)—National Biscuit company, including Pacific Coast Biscuit, reports first quarter net income of $4,850,670, equivalent to 70 cents a share, or exactly the dividend requirement, on 6,286,238 shares of common stock. This compares with net, excluding the Pacific Coast company, which was acquired last year, of $4,665,616, also equal to 70 cents a share, on 5,996,180 common shares in the first three months of 1930.

DU PONT INCOME FOR QUARTER IS $12,656,929

Earnings of E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. in the first quarter of 1931 were sufficient to cover dividend requirements on the common stock, the company's report shows. Net income for the first three months of the year totaled $12,656,929, as compared with $17,347,626 in the corresponding months of 1930. After dividends on the debenture stock there remained $11,163,934, or $1.01 a share, applicable to the common stock. This compares with $15,554,647, or $1.52 a share, in the first quarter last year. The common stock is now on a $4 annual dividend basis.

The return on the General Motors investment of the company amounted to 68 cents on Du Pont common. The company received a total of $7,484,000 in dividends on the General Motors stock, as against $10,481,065 in the first quarter last year. Surplus account on March 31 stood at $208,186,635, as compared with $208,082,665 at the close of 1930.

Lumber Manufacturers Meet at Congress Hotel

The annual meeting of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association will convene at the Congress hotel this morning, following a preliminary meeting of committees yesterday. At the annual dinner tonight Alex Legge, president of the International Harvester company and recently chairman of the United States farm board, will talk on the benefits of coöperation in the lumber industry viewed in the light of his expereince with the farm board.

Principal subjects to come before the association today are the plans for dealing with the menace of the importation of Russian lumber produced by convict and indentured labor, the proposal to continue national lumber trade extension work on the basis of a $1,500,000 budget and the policies of the United States timber conservation board appointed by President Hoover last December.

International Paper Holds Up Newsprint Cut Action

Boston, Mass., April 22.—(AP)—The International Paper and Power company stockholders in annual meeting today took no action on the $5 a ton reduction in newsprint by Canadian mills. President Archibald R. Graustein said the company would, however, have to consider immediately what would be done about it.

If the International meets the Canadian reduction, it would cost the company a loss of $3,500,000 annually, Graustein said. This, he said, "might be offset in part by increased consumption, but even if this does not happen and even if there is no improvement in business, we should earn our preferred dividend after October of this year."

New York, April 22.—Speculative Wall street continues "down on its luck." If anything, it was a little moodier than usual today. It certainly sold stocks a bit more freely, the volume of exchange sales stepping up to around 2,700,000 shares.

New lows for the year were recorded by the score and included many high grade trading favorites, such as Air Reduction, Columbia Gas, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, National Biscuit, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, United States Steel, Hudson Motors, and Simmons. Losses in the active list averaged from 1 to about 3 points.

The day's decline brought another long list of active shares within striking distance of the lows they registered on Dec. 17 of last year. The rails, United States Steel common, and a scattering of other issues have already broken through.

News Not So Bad.

The millrun of current news, too, is none too good, although none of it here of late has been calculated to inspire alarm in any quarter. The mid-week business reviews of today were no worse than mixed, the steel trade journals telling of further slackening in the rate of operations in that industry and the railroad traffic business index being a trifle more favorable, showing a light rise in the loadings of the week of April 11 over those of the preceding week.

One variation from the monotony of the decline here of late was provided by a rather vigorous bear attack on General Motors in the afternoon. This pivotal has distinguished itself throughout the reaction by the

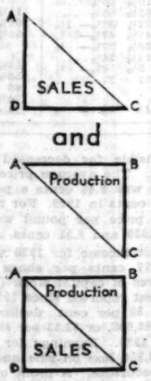
A FORMULA for Prosperity



A well organized business is likened to a square. This square is divided into two triangles:

It will be noted that PRODUCTION without SALES will not stand up.

It follows that these triangles when combined form a stable square that is a Profitable Net Operation.

It will be noted here that SALES support PRODUCTION.

No business to which this formula cannot be applied can be said to be soundly organized.

Our brochure on Merchandising and Selling is an outline of our method. Sent on request to interested executives.

A liberal return— with safety

As in commodities, so also in bonds—the quality varies. Prices for quality bonds are usually higher, their yield somewhat less liberal, than for speculative issues.

But a liberal return can be secured without buying speculative issues. A carefully prepared plan of diversification in investing funds brings as its reward a satisfactory rate of income. This is the safer, surer method.

It is the reason that yield alone is not considered a guidepost, by the careful investor.

With a background of over forty years of conservative counsel to investors, The Northern Trust Company is well qualified to assist in preparing and carrying out sound investment programs.

To this end you are invited to confer with an executive of the Bond Department, either here at the bank, or, by appointment, in your own office.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE NORTHERN TRUST COMPANY ARE:

A. WATSON ARMOUR, Director, Armour & Company

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle 7,000, hogs 26,000, sheep 14,000.

Both cattle and lambs sold at $10.00 on yesterday's session, scoring a mild advance, while top hogs slipped back 10c at $7.55 on a dull "all day" market that finished at the low point of the day.

Cattle receipts at Chicago at 11,000 were largest for Wednesday since the middle of February and the market held up remarkably well. Hog receipts were moderate at 16,000, while the sheep total at 5,000 was second smallest for Wednesday since Feb. 11.

Hog prices yesterday were only 30@40c above the low point of the year. Losses of 10@25c were cited in comparing with Tuesday's market, lightweights showing the sharpest losses. Buyers carried limited orders and 7,000 were still in the pens at the close.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.40.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.40 on yesterday's session, but there were no sellers at that figure. Mediums averaging 210@260 lbs. were bid $7.20 and heavy grades averaging 260@310 lbs were bid $7.00. May contracts were offered at $8.00 and carried bids of $7.50. June light were offered at $8.10 and bid $7.75. September light were offered at $8.75 and bid $8.25.

Demand for shipping grades of cattle continued brisk yesterday at advanced quotations, resulting in a quick clearance for all steers eligible at $9.80 and above. Fancy 1,051 lb yearlings topped the price list at $10.00. A greater share of receipts sold above the $9.00 line.

Lambs in Demand.

Fat lambs met good demand at the 10@15c higher prices yesterday, several carloads of Colorado and Nebraska handy weight stock reaching the $10.00 line. Packers bought 92 lb averages at $9.90 and paid $9.10 for lambs averaging 100 lbs. Lambs without fleece were slow at $8.50@ 9.00.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter was steady to firm. Receipts, 7,035 tubs. Fresh cut firsts, 90 score, 26,300 cases. Live hens advanced 2c, while broilers were 1c lower. Receipts, 7 cars and 17 trucks. Potatoes in fairly active demand at unchanged prices. Receipts, 77 cars, with 253 cars on team track.

TO LEASE & WANTED TO LEASE.

Bldg. of Any No. of Rms.

Suitable for rooming house or small kitnet; will make own repairs; rent must be low; will manage a bldg. of this type on basis; 15 yrs. exp. this line. Finished a beautiful chocolate brown. Motor is unusually efficient. $295.

NASH SEDAN. Here is the bargain of bargains. The finish, upholstery and tires are in dandy condition and the motor runs fine. 4 whl. brakes, and many extras. Originally priced at $395, but we reduced it to $195 for quick sale.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1929 President 8 that was traded in at a favorable price, so we'll pass on the saving to you. The appearance is very attractive and the motor is smooth and powerful. Has many valuable extras. This sedan was in storage for a year, so it's a sensational buy at $795.

CHEVROLET COACH. 1929 with very low mileage. A thorough inspection and demonstration will convince you that this Chev. positively looks and runs like new today. Very fully equipped. $295.

OLDSMOBILE SEDAN. Late model that's exceptionally clean throughout. Examine this car from bumper to bumper and you'll find that every detail is in wonderful condition. The motor is A-1 and the price is out of keeping with the high quality of this car. $385.

NASH COUPE. 1929 Spec. 6 with rumble seat, winter front, driving light, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. This Nash is a real beauty and the motor runs very efficiently. $650.

ESSEX SEDAN. 1929 that never left the Chicago blvds. This car is a beauty. The finish has not a mar on it and the upholstery appears new. Has a sweet running motor. Equipped with shock absorbers, bumpers, etc. $395.

JORDAN 8 SEDAN. It was checked over by our expert mechanics and now it's in topnotch condition. The appearance is beautiful and the tires have little mileage. Many extras. $285.

BUICK COACH. 1928 series 116 that we recommend as one of our very best buys. The finish and upholstery are like new and the motor could not be improved. Has driving lights, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Sold for $1,400 a short time ago. Now $650.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1930 Dictator 8 de luxe model with wire wheels, side mounts and $200 worth of extras. Was owned by a prominent Forest Avenue gentleman and gave it exceptional care, and now it's brand new in every respect. Will not remain 24 hours at $945.

GO!
AMAZING
BARGAINS
Will save you hundreds of dollars. And you can buy with confidence. 5 days' free driving trial goes with each sale.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER SEDAN. 1928 that was checked over by expert Studebaker mechanics and now it's the last word for beautiful appearance and sparkling performance. Equipped with shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. This Studebaker will satisfy the most exacting buyer, and it's a rare buy at $950.

WILLYS-KNIGHT SEDAN. We recommend this as the very best Willys-Knight buy in Chicago. The original owner oiled and greased this car every 500 miles, so now it's in topnotch condition throughout. Has every essential extra. Marked at $585, but worth twice this price.

ELCAR SEDAN. 7 pass. eight de luxe model with 4 whl. brakes, wire wheels, side mounts, snubbers, trunk rack, bumpers, etc. Finished a beautiful chocolate brown. Motor is unusually efficient. $295.

NASH SEDAN. Here is the bargain of bargains. The finish, upholstery and tires are in dandy condition and the motor runs fine. 4 whl. brakes, and many extras. Originally priced at $395, but we reduced it to $195 for quick sale.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1929 President 8 that was traded in at a favorable price, so we'll pass on the saving to you. The appearance is very attractive and the motor is smooth and powerful. Has many valuable extras. This sedan was in storage for a year, so it's a sensational buy at $795.

CHEVROLET COACH. 1929 with very low mileage. A thorough inspection and demonstration will convince you that this Chev. positively looks and runs like new today. Very fully equipped. $295.

OLDSMOBILE SEDAN. Late model that's exceptionally clean throughout. Examine this car from bumper to bumper and you'll find that every detail is in wonderful condition. The motor is A-1 and the price is out of keeping with the high quality of this car. $385.

NASH COUPE. 1929 Spec. 6 with rumble seat, winter front, driving light, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. This Nash is a real beauty and the motor runs very efficiently. $650.

ESSEX SEDAN. 1929 that never left the Chicago blvds. This car is a beauty. The finish has not a mar on it and the upholstery appears new. Has a sweet running motor. Equipped with shock absorbers, bumpers, etc. $395.

JORDAN 8 SEDAN. It was checked over by our expert mechanics and now it's in topnotch condition. The appearance is beautiful and the tires have little mileage. Many extras. $285.

BUICK COACH. 1928 series 116 that we recommend as one of our very best buys. The finish and upholstery are like new and the motor could not be improved. Has driving lights, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Sold for $1,400 a short time ago. Now $650.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1930 Dictator 8 de luxe model with wire wheels, side mounts and $200 worth of extras. Was owned by a prominent Forest Avenue gentleman and gave it exceptional care, and now it's brand new in every respect. Will not remain 24 hours at $945.
